150 YEARS' REPUTATION.

As Supplied to H.M. the QUEEN and H.R.H. the PRINCE OF WALES.

ROBINSON'S Pure Scotch OATMEAL.

Dr. PYE H. CHAVASSE: "Very pure, sweet, and good."

KEEN, ROBINSON, & CO., Ltd.,

MANUFACTURERS OF

ROBINSON'S PATENT GROATS.

ROBINSON'S PATENT BARLEY.

THE PERFECT WHEAT FOOD.

DAINTY, NOURISHING.

"FAROLA is immeasurably superior to arrowroot, cornflour, sago, &c. With milk it forms exquisite puddings, and in the mirsery it will prove a valuable variety which children will take with avidity." Liverpool Medico-Chirurgical Journal.

"Marlborough House, Pall Mall, S.W.—Colonel Clarke, Private Scere-tary to the Princess of Wales, writes to inform Mr. James Marshall that FAROLA has been ordered for use in the Household."

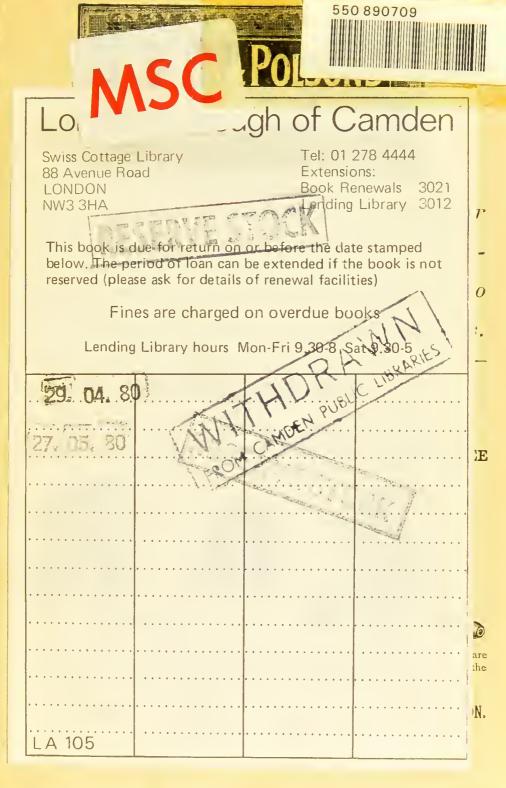

Awarded Gold Medals at the two important International Exhibitions held in 1886-Edinburgh and Liverpool-two years before any imitations were in the market.

FAROLA is a highly refined preparation of Wheat, which conserves all the nutritive elements and fine flavour naturally belonging to the purest part of the grain. All irritating and indigestible matter has been removed by careful treatment, mechanical means only being employed.

FAROLA will satisfy a robust appetite, but it is specially suited for invalids and children.

Send Post Card for Descriptive Book with Recipes (post free).

JAMES MARSHALL, 25, East Cumberland Street, GLASGOW.

LEEDS UNIVERSITY LIBRARY Special Collections

Cookery Camden A HER

FIFTY BREAKFASTS

(" Wyvern")

"CORDON ROUGE," AUTHOR OF "CULINARY JOTTINGS," ETC

SECOND EDITION

EDWARD ARNOLD

London

New York

37, BEDFORD ST., W.C. 70, FIFTH AVENUE

641.52 HEF T890709 ~ A(msc)

CONTENTS.

						PAG	В
INTRODUCTION	•	•	•	•	•	•	Ι
MENUS		٠				9-13	9
APPENDIX—HINT	s on	BAK	ING			. 140	0
INDEX						. 15	3

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2015

INTRODUCTION.

THESE little breakfast menus are designed for a family or party of six: each will be found to contain a dish of fish, a meat dish, and a dish of eggs, any two of which can be selected if three be considered too many. Seven of them are composed for days of abstinence. A plate of fancy bread is suggested for every menu to facilitate choice, recipes for which will be found in the Appendix.

The dishes that have been described will be found practicable by a large section of the community; for while many of the recipes as they stand may be suited to those with whom a very careful consideration of kitchen economy is unnecessary, by the exercise of a little discretion expensive adjuncts such as chopped ham, tongue, mushrooms, &c., can of course be very easily omitted without sacrificing much of the general tastiness of the dishes themselves, and thus bring them within the reach of all readers of the treatise.

It will be seen that I have propounded to a great extent tasty réchauffés of fish and nieat rather than dishes requiring fresh ingredients. At first sight some of these may be considered troublesome, but I would here point out that, in order to provide nice little dishes for breakfast, it is absolutely necessary that the cook should effect some portion of their preparation on the evening of the previous day. She rarely has sufficient time in the morning for much delicate work of course, yet with a little forethought this can be combated, and the whole category of croquettes, rissoles, petits caises, &c., be brought into play without difficulty. If the meat or fish required for such dishes be prepared and set in the sauce overnight the process the next morning is both simple and expeditious. In the same way hashes, stews, ragoûts, &c., can be re-heated in the bainmarie, and will be found all the better for having marinaded all night in their well-flavoured sauces. The "stitch in time" accomplished during the afternoon, or before the kitchen fire is let down at night, "saves nine" at the busy hour before breakfast the next day. Indeed the ding-dong monotony of "bacon and eggs" alternated with "eggs and bacon" of many English breakfast tables is wholly inexcusable, so easy is it to provide variety with the exercise of a little consideration.

For the "warming-up" process there is nothing so safe as the bain-marie. This is a utensil which it is to be hoped every one possesses. Stews, curries, hashes, &c., can thus be re-heated without deterioration, or fear of burning, boiling, or other mishap.

As another most capital thing for the preparation of breakfast dishes, I strongly advocate the use of the Dutch oven. This is an old-fashioned contrivance, no doubt, but cheap, and especially handy for the fast cooking of fish and heating gratins. It can be placed in front of the fire closely or at a slight distance according to the degree of heat required, and the cook can see how things placed within it are getting on. This alone gives it an advantage over the ordinary oven, while the food half-baked half-roasted by its means seems crisper and more appetising.

Baking dishes in sizes, caisses, and scallop shells of white fire-proof, Limoges ware are to be recommended for use in connection with breakfast. They can be set without risk in the Dutch or common oven, and afford a method of serving minces, re-cooked fish, eggs, and "remains," at once tasteful and inviting.

Fried fish is, as a rule, a popular thing for breakfast, and if the cook bear in mind that second frying by no means spoils fillets, &c., that may have been so cooked the evening before, she will readily fall back on this method of recooking them. A plunge of two or three minutes' duration into very hot fat is all that is required, followed by draining, drying carefully, and service on a hot napkin. Soles should be cross-cut in pieces two and a half inches wide, or filleted, and whitings are much nicer when not curled round in the manner so invariably adopted by London fishmongers.

A propos of frying, I take it for granted that in all well-regulated kitchens a supply of good, stale, oven-dried, and finely sifted white crumbs, as well as a bottle of well-rasped light-brown crust, is always kept ready for use. Fresh spongy crumbs are wholly unfit for "breading" cutlets, croquettes, fish, and so on. Finely grated, hard, dry, mild cheese—not necessarily Parmesan or Gruyère—should always be similarly stored.

An almost essentially necessary article in this branch of cookery is a wire drainer—such as confectioners use. Upon this croquettes, rissoles, fried fillets, even a fried sole, can be set to dry thoroughly after draining, for which purpose the drainer should either be placed in the mouth of the oven—the door ajar—or in front of the fire.

For little fritures such as whitebait a wire frying basket is of course indispensable.

In composing the recipes given in this little series I have done my best to avoid perplexing generalities: "some" of this, "a little" of that, and so on. The quantity of each thing, either by weight or measure of capacity, has been put down as accurately as possible. Still it often happens that very small allotments such as the exact proportions of a seasoning must be given in conventional terms, as, for instance, "a pinch" of pepper. This quantity, to be very particular, might be counted as one-eighth of an ounce. Then a breakfast cup should hold half a pint, an afternoon tea-cup one gill and a half, a coffee-cup one gill.

I frequently mention "spiced pepper." This is a kind of herbaceous mixture which I strongly advise every cook to make for herself in the autumn each year when the herbs are finally gathered. It comes in most handily for season ings in pies, forcemeats, stuffings, and in the flavouring of nearly every rechauffe. Mine, adapted from that of Gouffe, is made as follows:

DOMESTIC SPICED PEPPER.

One ounce of mixed thyme, marjoram, rosemary, and bay-leaf, carefully picked and thoroughly dried, pounded, and sifted, the mixture being allotted in these proportions, two thirds thyme and bay-leaf to one third marjoram and rosemary. Half an ounce of powdered mace, the same of nutmeg, a quarter of an ounce of finely ground black pepper, and one-eighth of an ounce of Nepaul pepper. Mix after carefully sifting each ingredient, and put the mixture into a well-dried bottle. This can obviously be doubled or increased to any extent.

One ounce of the above with four ounces of salt gives a useful "spiced salt."

A little wine is occasionally recommended in flavouring sauces, &c.; for this I have chosen Marsala, which, if of a reliable quality, is the best that can be used for domestic cookery, and, if the truth be told, the equivalent of Madeira at many a pretentious restaurant.

Cream is a very excellent thing—so excellent, indeed, that in the cookery of the present day its use is far too indiscriminate. In breakfast dishes it is to my mind quite out of place, while in the course of a dinner the less often it is introduced the better. Those who like it can of course direct their cooks accordingly.

The most wholesome and handy way of boiling eggs for the breakfast table may be thus described:—

Put a small saucepan over a methylated spirit lamp, which can be placed on a side table. When the water boils put in the eggs, and ni

ten seconds put out the lamp, covering the saucepan closely. In eight minutes an ordinary hen's egg will be ready, the albumen soft, and the yolk nicely formed. The common method of boiling eggs at a gallop for three minutes has the effect of over-cooking the albumen and rendering it indigestible, while the yolk is scarcely done at all.

Good tea and coffee are, it need scarcely be said, important elements of a good English breakfast. To secure them it is really necessary, after having chosen the tea and coffee that suit you best, to be liberal in dispensing them. A proper cup of either is out of the question if the allowance be too narrowly curtailed. The practice of doling out tea by carefully measured teaspoonfuls (handed down to us by our elderly maiden aunts) was perhaps necessary in the days when the only leaf in the market came from China and cost from four to five shillings a pound. The required strength was then obtained by the pernicious system of setting the tea "to draw." People now, however, have come to understand that to be wholesome tea must be produced by rapid infusion, not by a long process of steeping, and in order to get this at its best a good allowance of the leaf is necessary. Teapots are to be got with perforated cylinders to hold the tea, which can be withdrawn after an infusion of five minutes.

In this way a capital and quite harmless cup of tea can easily be produced.

For coffee-making there are numerous inventions more or less ingenious, but after all for really satisfactory, easy, and rapid action nothing surpasses the percolator—"Hutchinson's patent" for choice. A tablespoonful of coffee powder per breakfastcupful of coffee is a fair allowance.

Lastly, I would advise all who like things hot at breakfast to invest in one of Messrs. Wolff and Co's "universal heaters," sold at 119, New Bond Street, an excellent contrivance for keeping dishes, milk, coffee, &c., hot in the breakfastroom without deterioration, superseding the somewhat cumbersome practice of placing dishes before the fire, and of course a boon during the months when fires are dispensed with.

WYVERN.

London, Feb. 5, 1894.

MENU I.

Baked fish in scallop shells.

Kidneys à la brochette.

Buttered eggs with vegetables.

Muffins.

This is to be composed of any cold fish and sauce left the previous evening. Pick the fish from the bones; measure the quantity 1. Baked (a pound will be enough for six nice fish in scallops), add one third of its bulk of scallop white crumbs; season with a salt-shells. spoonful of spiced pepper and one of salt; let this rest awhile. Put the bones, skin, and especially the head, into a small saucepan, with an onion sliced, a teaspoonful of salt, and six black peppercorns; cover this with milk and water (half-and-half), and stir into it a teaspoonful of anchovy sauce; set to boil, then simmer fifteen minutes; strain; thicken slightly, using half an ounce of butter and half an ounce of flour to a full breakfastcup of the broth; mix smoothly, stirring in any sauce that may have been left the previous evening. Now butter six scallop shells, or one medium-sized fire-proof baking dish; arrange the picked fish and crumbs therein, scattering a layer of finely minced parsley over it; moisten thoroughly with the sauce, strew a layer of crust raspings over the surface, heat up in the Dutch oven, and send up on a folded napkin.

N.B.—If the fish was boiled the previous evening, use the gelatinous water in which it was cooked instead of milk and water in preparing the sauce. Fish-boilings should never be thrown away.

The kidneys in this instance are broiled on skewers (brochettes—i.e., little spits), which are not to be removed. Take six kidneys; cut 2. Kidneys six thin slices of bacon two inches long à la broand an inch and a half wide; select chette. three skewers (plated or wooden) about seven inches long; mince a tablespoonful of parsley as finely as possible; place an ounce of butter ready. See that the gridiron is clean; warm, and oil it. Now cut open each kidney in the usual manner without quite dividing the halves, peel off the skin, and pass the skewers through them, two kidneys on each skewer, with a piece of bacon, threaded by the skewer, over each kidney. Broil over a brisk fire, cooking the cut side of the kidneys first three minutes, then the other side for three minutes. When done put the impaled kidneys and bacon on a hot silver dish; melt the butter, stir in the minced parsley, add the juice of half a lemon, and pour this over them. Serve as hot as possible.

Vegetables, such as greens, spinach, flower of cauliflowers, beans, peas, &c., that may have been left the previous evening come This 3. Buttered in most usefully for breakfast. is too often overlooked. One nice way regetables. of serving them is on toast with a surface dressing of buttered eggs. Melt half an ounce of butter, or put a coffeecupful of broth or milk into a saucepan, stir into it the vegetables, which, if greens, French beans, or cauliflowers, should be cut up rather small. Season with pepper, salt, and a dust of nutmeg, put into the bain-marie, and when steaming hot turn them out neatly over six neat squares of fried bread laid upon a hot dish, spreading the buttered eggs over them. A dusting of finely grated cheese over the surface is an improvement.

Buttered eggs for six people:—Required six eggs, three ounces of butter, a small coffeecupful of milk or good white sauce, a small saltspoonful of salt and the same of white pepper. Melt half the butter in a roomy stewpan; break the eggs, mix, season, and stir them into the butter over a low fire; whisk well with a whisk until beginning to set, then add the other half of the butter and, changing the whisk for a wooden spoon, continue stirring for two minutes longer, add the milk or sauce, when the consistency will be correct. The addition of the second half of the butter should be effected by degrees, to facilitate which it should be cut into small pieces beforehand. The stirring must on no account be relaxed during the cookery of buttered eggs. and the dish should not be kept waiting when ready. A spoonful of Béchamel sauce, if available, may be used instead of the milk, or ordinary white sauce.

MENU II.

Fresh herrings au gratin.

Hashed mutton with fried bacon.

Omelette with herbs.

Scones.

BUTTER a flat gratin dish, sprinkle a layer of chopped parsley over its surface; lay four nice fresh herrings (trimmed and cleaned) upon this, season well with pepper and 4. Fresh herrings salt, shake a canopy of raspings and augratin. pour a few drops of melted butter over the upper sides of the herrings; put the dish thus prepared into the Dutch-oven, place this at a moderate distance from the fire, and watch the fish narrowly for a minute or two; baste with a little more melted butter, push nearer to the fire for the last minute, and serve the dish, as it is, on a folded napkin.

For mustard sauce (if liked):—melt an ounce of butter in a saucepan; stir into it an ounce of flour; when thoroughly mixed add slowly, off the fire, a dessertspoonful of French mustard, incorporating it with the roux thoroughly; next add half a pint of water or broth, let it come to the boil, and pass through the pointed strainer into a hot sauce boat.

The hash ought to be prepared—partly—overnight, viz.:-cut up as much cold mutton in slices as will suffice for the party; trim 5. Hashed off all skin and superfluous fat, dredge mutton with fried a layer of flour over the slices, and leave them for the present; next prebacon. pare the best sauce you can for your hash by boiling together the bones and trimmings of the mutton, an onion, a piece of celery, half a carrot, and a teaspoonful of dried sweet herbs, with half an ounce of glaze, or a teaspoonful of bovril, and sufficient water to cover all ingredients. When the best broth possible has been thus obtained, strain, thicken, and flavour it with one teaspoonful of red-currant jelly melted, a tablespoonful of vinegar from the walnut pickle, half a sherry-glass of Harvey sauce, half one of mushroom ketchup, and half one of Marsala. Put the sliced mutton into the sauce in a china vegetable dish, cover it from the dust, and set it in a cold larder till morning, when it will only require gentle heating up over a low fire, or in the bain-marie. It must on no account boil. Serve in a hot entrée dish with curls of crisply fried bacon and fried bread sippets as garnish.

I follow two methods of making an omelette. One I explain now, the other later on. recipe is for an omelette "by the first intention"—a rapidly made and very with herbs. digestible one. For six persons I recommend two small, rather than one large one, as being more manageable—especially at first, Nothing is more likely to produce a failure than an over-full pan. Break three eggs into one bowl, and three into another, put a saltspoonful of salt to each, with a dessertspoonful of chopped parsley, a teaspoonful of finely minced chives or shallot, one of chervil, and a pinch of pepper. Do not add milk, or cream, or water. Stir the eggs, and seasoning well together, and beat only sufficiently to effect mixture. Choose a roomy omelette pan not less than ten inches in diameter; see that it is dry and perfectly clean. Set it over a fast, clear fire, and put a lump of butter into it the size of a small hen's egg. Let this melt, and throw off all water; as soon as bubbling ceases the pan is hot enough; pour the contents of one of the bowls over its surface. At the moment of contact the part of the mixture nearest to the pan will set, gently lift this with a spoon, tip the pan over a little and let the unformed liquid run under it; this will also form; now give a few good shakes, and with your spoon coax the omelette to slide out of the omelette pan into the hot entrée dish ready for it. If carefully done the omelette will roll over, enveloping within it the partly formed mixture that remained on its surface, and on reaching the dish will spread itself rather, retaining no specially oval or bolsterlike shape, with a little of the juicy golden mixture escaping from its edges. Omelettes that are presented in neat crescent or elongated oval shapes are as a rule puddings in their consistency, over-cooked, and heavy.

After turning out the first omelette, wipe the pan, do not wash it, and repeat the same process with the second basin of mixture, sending the omelettes to table "hot and hot," so to speak. A small pat of butter, and chopped parsley should be put into the dish before the omelette is turned into it. Timed by the seconds-hand of a watch this omelette takes forty-five seconds from the moment of being poured into the pan to that of its being turned into the dish. Be sure that the pan is hot enough to receive the mixture in the first instance, and that the fire is brisk beneath it while frying; a powerful gas boiling-stove, circular in shape like the "Regina," is suitable for this work.

N.B.—If the chives and chervil were omitted this would be an omelette au persil. An omelette aux fines herbes is made with a totally different garniture.

MENU III.

Fried whitings; maître d'hôtel butter.

Devilled fowl; chutney sauce (Indian).

Ham toast, with poached eggs.

Hot rolls.

Bread-crums and fry the whitings—four nice ones enough—using plenty of very hot fat, in a deep pan; dish them on a neat fishpaper, accompanied by plainly melted whitings;
maître d'hôtel butter served in a hot maître boat.

d'hôtel

For the butter, take two ounces of butter fresh Brittany, mix into it the juice of half a good lemon, and a dessertspoonful of finely chopped parsley, a pinch of white pepper, and half a saltspoonful of salt; form the pat with the butter-bat, and use as required; excellent with cutlets, &c.

Assuming that the remains of a pair of fowls used at dinner the night previously are available, the following may be done: cut the birds up, neatly separating the thighs from the drum-8. Depilled sticks, and dividing the backs in the fowl: chut- usual manner. Shred an onion very ney sauce finely; melt half an ounce of butter (Indian). in a frying-pan, and fry the former till brown. Having meanwhile sprinkled the pieces of fowl with curry powder, and a dust of fine salt, put them into the pan with the butter and onions, turning them about to prevent burning. When the butter seems almost absorbed, turn the fowl and the onions with it into a hot dish. The operation after the pieces of fowl are put in should be conducted over a low fire, the object being to heat the meat thoroughly, and to serve it and the onions as dry as possible without burning. The onions can be brushed off if objected to before serving.

3

For the sauce: melt a quarter of an ounce of butter in a small saucepan, stir in a quarter of an ounce of flour; when blended well add a teacupful of gravy, or broth, mix, and put in a dessert-spoonful of Harvey sauce, the same of mushroom ketchup, a teaspoonful of chilli vinegar, and a dessertspoonful of good chutney. For additional heat, a teaspoonful of finely chopped skin of green chillies may be added, carefully omitting the seeds. Boil, strain, and serve with the fowl as hot as possible.

Cut six squares of bread a quarter of an inch thick and large enough to hold a poached egg each. Fry these crisply and brown, and keep them hot. Pass sufficient lean ham through the mincing machine to yield 9. Ham toast, with a top-dressing for each "toast"; warm toast, with poached the mince in a small saucepan over a eggs. low fire, with half an ounce of butter, and moisten it with a spoonful of gravy or melted glaze. Keep this in the hot saucepan in the bainmarie while you poach six eggs; when they are ready, spread the mince on the fried bread, and place a poached egg on the surface of each, having trimmed the edges of the whites neatly all round. Send in quite hot.

MENU IV.

Fresh haddock, anchovy butter.

Mutton cutlets with broiled mushrooms.

Buttered eggs with tomatoes.

Bannocks.

Having procured a nice haddock the previous day, stuff it with veal stuffing, and keep it in a cold place during the night. In the 10. Fresh morning, when wanted for breakfast, haddock, egg, and strew a thin layer of raspings anchouv over the fish, butter a fire-proof dish butter. large enough to hold it, sprinkle a layer of chopped parsley over the bottom of the dish, and lay the fish upon it. Now set the Dutch oven in front of the fire, slip the dish into it, pour a few drops of butter-melted over, and watch the fish for a few minutes; try with a skewer if tender, and draw the dish back as soon as that occurs. Serve the fish steaming hot in the dish in which it was dressed with a pat of anchovy butter melting over it.

For anchovy butter see No. 7, and proceed in the same manner, mixing into the butter two pounded anchovies instead of the parsley and lemon juice. In a hurry, a good substitute may be made by melting an ounce of butter, and stirring into it a dessertspoonful of Moir's anchovy vinegar, an excellent preparation too little known and used.

For breakfast it will be found very time-saving if, for these cutlets, part of the best end of a neck of mutton were slightly roasted the previous day. On the morning re-11. Mutquired, with a sharp knife and meatsaw each little chop can easily be detached, trimmed, and then be either mushbroiled, or breaded and fried, as may be rooms. desired. Serve the cutlets on a hot dish, accompanied by broiled mushrooms in a hot entrée dish.

Prepare the buttered eggs as described in No. 3, and serve them hot from the stewpan upon a bed of tomatoes dressed as follows:—

Choose six moderately sized tomatoes; 12. Butblanch them in scalding water for three minutes to facilitate the removal of the skin, which having been done, take a small stewpan, put half an ounce of butter into it with one finely sliced half-ounce shallot; fry till beginning to turn golden, then empty into the pan the whole of the tomatoes sliced thinly; stir round, and add a teaspoonful of coarsely ground black pepper (fresh from a table-mill for choice), a saltspoonful of powdered dry basil, and one of salt. Continue the stirring for ten minutes over a fairly brisk fire to prevent catching, and the tomatoes will be ready. A tablespoonful of white sauce, or the yolk of a raw egg should be stirred in—off the fire—before final dishing up. It is quite unnecessary to pass this through the sieve. People fond of Continental cookery can direct that one clove of garlic be stewed with the tomatoes, uncut, to be picked out before serving.

MENU V.

Molé of brill (Indian).

Minced beef, with macaroni.

Eggs à la maître d'hôtel.

Brown flour scones.

This is a sort of fricassee. I presume that half (say a pound) a nice-sized brill has been left the previous evening. Detach all the meat from the bones, take the latter, and put 13. Molé of brill them, with the skin and trimmings, an (Indian). onion sliced, salt, six peppercorns, and a little mace, into a small stewpan, cover with the "boilings" (saved when the fish was first dressed), and boil, then simmer for a quarter of an hour; drain; put the broth thus obtained in a bowl handy. Meanwhile, when this was simmering, slice a shallot in thin rings, also a bit of garlic the size of a pea, fry these till yellow in an ounce of butter, dredge in an ounce of rice flour and teaspoonful of grated green ginger; slowly now add the warm fish-broth by degrees, and a tablespoonful of desiccated cocoanut (as sold for puddings) with a teaspoonful of lemon juice; let the sauce come to the boil, simmer for five minutes, colour it with a teaspoonful of turmeric, and then strain it through the block-tin strainer over the pieces of fish, which should have been placed ready in a stewpan to receive the moistening. Now gently warm up over a slow fire, garnish with strips of finely cut green skin of chilli, dish upon a hot dish, and serve steaming.

Boiled rice, if liked, may accompany the Molé, as it does in India (see No. 20).

This should be almost wholly prepared overnight. Pass as much cold beef as will yield ten tablespoonfuls of mince through 14. Minced the mincer. Take one ounce of macabeef, with macaroni. roni, or better still, the remains of a dish of macaroni au gratin or à l'Italienne left from dinner. If the former, it must of course be boiled. Take half a pint of broth, thicken and flavour it as recommended in No. 5. Put the mince into it, and set it in a cold larder; also put away the cooked macaroni. In the morning all you have to do is to butter a fire-proof baking dish, and fill it with mince and cut-up macaroni, diluting the whole with a little more gravy or broth, and shaking over the surface a layer of finely powdered crumbs and grated cheese in half-and-half proportions. Heat this thoroughly and send it up, in its own dish, upon a folded napkin.

Arrange six nicely poached eggs upon six squares of crisp, well-buttered toast. Put a pat of maître d'hôtel butter upon la maître the top of each egg the size of a shilling, d'hôtel and send them up with the butter melting over them. For the butter, see No. 7.

Camden P. I

MENU VI.

Fried smelts.

Grilled partridge, with potato chips.

Eggs à l'Indienne.

Oat-cakes.

A DOZEN smelts of moderate size will yield a nice dish for six. Egg and crumb them with finely sifted stale crumbs, and fry them one by one in very hot fat, drain on blotting-paper, and send them dry and crisp upon a fish-paper, with slices of lemon for garnish. If fried without colouring overnight they will be all the crisper when fried again in the morning.

Make sure when you order a grill that it is grilled—i.e., done on the gridiron. Grills are too 17. Grilled often cooked in the frying-pan, and are partridge, unsatisfactory in consequence (see No. with po-29). Besides this, mark the difference tato chips. between a grill and a "devil"; the former need not necessarily be highly seasoned or strongly peppered. The remains of four partridges of which part of the breasts alone have been used will give a nice dish of grill; let them be neatly cut up, then butter the pieces, sprinkle them with salt and black or white pepper, and cook them on the gridiron, which should be warmed and buttered to receive them. Dish them, piled up, in a hot entrée dish, and send a plate of potato chips with them. For chips, remember you use raw potato sliced thinly and evenly, dried carefully, and then boiled, as it were, in very hot fat. The pan should be deep and not wide, so as to ensure a bath of fat; not too many chips should be done at a time; do them in relays, drain, dry on a hot cloth in front of the fire and serve. For cutting chips an even thickness, Woolf and Co.'s "vegetable slicer" is a most handy instrument.

Eufs à l'Indienne are poached eggs smothered with a thickish curry sauce, and are not to be confounded with curried eggs. Prepare six squares of fried bread as in No. 9, la lay a nicely poached egg upon each of them, and send them up at once with the following sauce poured evenly over them: Shred one shallot very finely, fry the slices in one ounce of butter, or clarified dripping, over a low fire till turning a pale brown; then mix with them a dessertspoonful of curry paste and a dessertspoonful of curry powder; mix, fry at least for five minutes, and stir in a teaspoonful of rice flour; dilute the jam-like paste now formed with broth or milk by degrees, stirring over a moderate fire till you have about a pint of liquid, add to this a dessertspoonful of desiccated cocoanut, a teaspoonful of sweetish chutney, with a small teaspoonful of salt. Let the sauce boil: skim off the scum, simmer for ten minutes, and then pass through the pointed strainer over the eggs. The English practice of spoiling all preparations of curries with sliced apples, green gooseberries, and other acids, should be carefully avoided: there is ample sub-acid in all good curry paste-viz., tamarind. In India it is not the custom to use acid adjuncts beyond this, or a little lime juice. This sauce can of course be made on the previous day.

MENU VII.

ABSTINENCE.

Broiled mackerel.

Mushroom curry—rice.

Eggs in the dish.

Sally Lunns.

The mackerel must of course be split, laid open, and broiled. I recommend this sauce—a good one for all fatty fishes: Proceed as usual to make a breakfastcupful of Broiled mackerel. Broiled mackerel. Smooth, stir in a tablespoonful of C. F. Buckle's "horse-radish zest," a pungent and well-flavoured composition very little known. The yolk of a raw egg—stirred in off the fire—is an improvement.

Having peeled, trimmed, and cleaned a dozen fairly large mushrooms, put them (overnight) to simmer gently in the curry sauce described for the eggs in No. 18 for half an hour. Keep in a china dish during the night, warm up, without actual boiling, in the morning, and serve in a hot entrée dish.

For the rice there is only one method, 20. Mush- easily learnt. Having cleaned and sifted 200112 the rice—say six ounces—prepare a large curryvessel of boiling water, a gallon not too much, put into the water a dessertspoonful of salt, and the juice of half a lemon to preserve the whiteness of the grains. When the water is at a gallop—fully boiling—throw in the rice, and stir it round with a wooden spoon; watch the clock for ten minutes, stirring every now and then; after ten minutes, test a few grains by pinching them between the finger and thumb; as soon as soft, probably in twelve or thirteen minutes according to the size of the grains, stop the boiling instantly by a dash of cold water, immediately remove the vessel, and drain off every drop of the water from the rice, returning the latter to the now dry, hot pot in which it was boiled. Shake well, replace this upon the hot plate, or put it in front of the fire (a moderate heat required), and cover the rice with a folded cloth—do not use the lid—shake the vessel now and then, and after ten minutes' rest the rice will be fit to serve. The last process is necessary to dry and disintegrate the grains.

N.B.—Never soak rice before boiling, or put it into cold water, as some advise.

Spread an ounce of butter on a fire-proof dish sufficiently presentable to send to table; sprinkle a thin dusting of salt and pepper over the surface, break six eggs carefully into the surface, break six eggs carefully into the dish, dust a fine layer of salt over the dish, dust a fine layer of salt over the dish. The dish on the hot plate with brisk heat beneath; pass the salamander over the surface of the eggs, so as to give heat above as well as below the dish, and in about four minutes, when the whites are set, the eggs will be ready. A dusting of finely grated cheese may be given over the eggs before serving if approved; send up in the dish in which they were cooked.

To obtain the appearance called au miroir the salt should only be sprinkled over the whites, and a teaspoonful of butter melted should be poured over the yolks. This can be set in the oven.

MENU VIII.

Fish cutlets.

Veal kidneys à l'Italienne.

Omelette with mushrooms.

Devilled biscuits.

To about a pound of any cold fish left at dinner cut up into a coarse mince, add four ounces of crumbs soaked in fish-boilings or stock, 22. Fish blend together, moistening with a breakcutlets. fastcupful of warm sauce (that remaining after dinner should thus be used), with the yolk of an egg mixed into it. Stir the mixture over a low fire to thicken, then spread it upon a dish to get cold and set during the night. The mixture should be about half an inch thick when thus set. In the morning cut out of it as many cutlets as you can with a cutter; egg and bread-crumb them, and fry in boiling fat as explained for smelts in No. 16. Serve with a breakfastcupful of ordinary white sauce with this flavouring, a tablespoonful of Harvey sauce, a dessertspoonful of mushroom ketchup, and a teaspoonful of anchovy sauce.

Either broil the kidneys à la brochette (sec No. 2) or crumb them, broiling four minutes on each side. For the sauce: thicken half a pint of gravy or stock with a 23. Veal quarter of an ounce of butter and a l'Italiquarter of an ounce of flour, stirring in enne. a tablespoonful of mushroom ketchup and a teaspoonful of anchovy vinegar (see No. 10). Next slice up two tomatoes, boil up in the sauce, simmer for ten minutes, seasoning with a saltspoonful of salt and one of roughly ground fresh black pepper, then pass through the pointed tin strainer into a hot sauce boat. To this sauce may be added a mince composed of ham, mushroom, and parsley—a dessertspoonful each of the two former, and a teaspoonful of the latter, both of course previously cooked.

Make the omelettes as described in No. 6, omitting the herbs; having cut up four fairly sized mushrooms, or a quarter of a pound 24. Omeof any size, and fried the mince in butter lette immediately beforehand. Keep the mince with hot in the pan in which it was cooked, mushand as soon as one omelette is ready to turn into the hot dish, rapidly pour half of the former over the surface of the latter, which will envelop it as it rolls over from the pan to the dish. Repeat the process with the second omelette.

MENU IX.

Fish Pudding.

Cold meat cutlets, with grilled bacon.

Eggs with anchovies.

Wholemeal cakes.

Pick about a pound of cold cooked fish free from bones, skin, &c. Make with the latter and any of the fish-boilings saved (flavoured with 25. Fish one onion sliced, pepper, salt, and a pudding. pinch of powdered mace), about a pint of nice broth; strain this. Next take of cold cooked potato the same bulk as you have of fish, and boil three eggs hard. Measure two ounces of butter and a tablespoonful of minced parsley. Have the sauce left at dinner preserved for this. Empty the fish and potato into a roomy bowl and mash them together, adding the cold sauce, and moistening with the broth to get the mixture to work easily. Crush the hard-boiled eggs with a fork and add them to the fish and potato; mix a teaspoonful of salt with one of white pepper, and a saltspoonful of mace, and dust the seasoning into the mixture; stir in the parsley and butter, and lastly a tablespoonful of milk. All being blended, put the pudding into a buttered mould, put this into a pan with boiling water round it half the depth of the mould, heat it thoroughly in the oven, and then turn it out carefully; shake some fine crust raspings over it, and send to table. If liked, ordinary melted butter and anchovy sauce may accompany in a boat.

These are to be made with any cold cooked meats—overnight—in the same manner as the fish cutlets described in No. 22. Serve 26. Cold them with fried parsley and tiny rolls meat cut-of crisply fried bacon. Any brown lets, with sauce left at the previous evening's grilled dinner may be warmed up to accompany.

Prepare six squares of crisply fried bread, as in No. 9, butter them with anchovy butter (see No.10). Put a nicely poached egg on each square thus buttered, and lay two little strips of anchovies, cut from the chovies. filleted fish, crosswise, on the top of each egg.

MENU X.

Fried soles—capers butter.

Devilled turkey.

Eggs with vegetable marrow.

Tea-cake, not sweetened.

For breakfast it is desirable to cut the soles 28. Fried into pieces, across—say two inches wide; soles— to egg and bread-crumb these, and fry capers them as explained for smelts (No. 16). butter. Serve after draining and drying in the same manner.

For capers butter see No. 7, and proceed in the way therein given, mixing into the butter a dessertspoonful of well-pounded capers instead of the parsley and lemon.

ON GRILLS AND DEVILS.—For breakfast few dishes are more popular than these, while the excellence of devilled bones for a very late supper need hardly be mentioned. The utensil necessary for their preparation is the gridiron. Many cooks spoil their grills by using the frying-pan, for though the bones may be served in a wet as well as in a dry form, they must be themselves broiled over a clear fire. The meat attached to the bone, whether a turkey leg, or the bones of a saddle of mutton, must be scotched with a sharp knife criss-crosswise, and bountifully peppered with this seasoning:—one teaspoonful of Nepaul pepper, one teaspoonful black pepper coarsely ground, two teaspoonfuls of salt, mixed well together. Following these proportions a bottle of "grill-seasoning" can be made, and labelled for use when required. Mix your mustard for your grill with Worcester sauce instead of water or vinegar, and if you want "the very devil" of a grill, add to it six drops of Tabasco. Smear this over the seasoned bones, rub the bars of the gridiron with butter, lay the bones thereon, and grill them. If here and there they scorch a little, so much the better. Serve without delay "from the grid to the plate," so to speak. This is a dry grill. For a wet grill proceed exactly as directed for the dry, but roll the bones, after broiling them, in a sauté pan for a few minutes in this sauce :-

DEVIL SAUCE. — Take a breakfastcupful of gravy, or a broth made from scraps, and half an ounce of glaze or a teaspoonful of Brand's essence; put this into a saucepan and add to it a tablespoonful of hot yet sweetish bottled chutney, a tablespoonful of mustard mixed with Worcester sauce, a tablespoonful of mushroom ketchup, a tablespoonful of Marsala, half a teaspoonful of red-currant jelly, and a teaspoonful of chilli vinegar; heat all together to melt the jelly and blend the ingredients, then strain, and thicken with half an ounce of butter, and half an ounce of flour, heat this up to boiling point in a frying-pan, and roll the grilled bones in it off the fire, serving them quickly with the rest of the sauce in the pan poured over them.

A moderately sized young vegetable marrow, cold boiled, and six hard-boiled eggs will be 30. Eggs wanted for this dish. Cut the marrow into fillets freed from seeds, one and a with half inch long, three-quarters of an inch vegetable wide, and the depth of the marrow; slice each egg in half longitudinally; marrow. take the water in which the marrow was boiled (an onion boiled with it would have been an improvement), and using an ounce of butter and one of flour proceed to thicken it; season with a saltspoonful of black pepper, half one of powdered mace, and a teaspoonful of salt: add a tablespoonful of chopped parsley and a teaspoonful of chopped chervil. Now arrange the eggs and fillets of marrow neatly in a hot entrée dish, add a tablespoonful of milk, with which one raw yolk has been well mixed, to the sauce off the fire, and pour it over the fillets and eggs, steaming hot.

MENU XI.

Fish fritters.

Kidneys stewed with mushrooms.
Eggs "mollets" with "ravigote."

Muffins.

For these fritters, which will be found very tasty, about half a pound of any cold fish, such as whiting, fresh haddock, gurnard, or plaice, that will pound easily, will be 31. Fish enough. A batter must be made as fritters. follows: Beat up the volks of four eggs with two tablespoonfuls of beer, one tablespoonful of salad oil, and five tablespoonfuls of water. Having pounded the fish well, mix it with the beaten eggs, &c., and add a saltspoonful of salt, and enough flour to bring the mixture to the consistency of a thick batter. Put the frying fat into a small but deep pan, and while it is heating, beat up the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth, add this to the batter the last thing, and then, when the fat is very hot, proceed to put about a tablespoonful of the mixture into it at a time. The batter will frizzle up at the moment of contact, and assume an irregular shape. Each fritter having been cooked a rich golden brown, should be drained with a perforated slice and laid on a hot cloth to dry before dishing. Pile the fritters on a hot dish, and serve with slices of lemon.

About three-quarters of a pint of good broth or gravy, six kidneys, and six medium-sized mushrooms are wanted, and the pre-32. Kidnevs sterved, paration should take place on the with mush- previous day. Take a stewpan and 100ms. commence by thickening the gravy in the usual manner, then add the kidneys cut into slices; stew them very slowly; if allowed to boil they will be as tough as leather. After they have simmered for about half an hour put in the mushrooms, with a teaspoonful of salt and one of black pepper, and half a sherry-glass of mushroom ketchup; continue the stewing now till the kidneys are done, then put the stew into a china dish to keep till the next day. In the morning · put it into a stewpan, and if any additional liquid is necessary add a little milk; warm up in the bain-marie. When ready to serve, stir in a dessertspoonful of Marsala.

Boil six eggs for exactly four minutes; put them at once into cold water; when cold carefully remove the shells; the eggs will be soft to the touch, the yolks inside them not 33. Eggs having hardened. Have ready a pint "mollets" of nice white sauce seasoned with with "rapepper and spiced salt; flavour this vigote." with a tablespoonful (mixed) of finely chopped tarragon, parsley, chives, and chervil, and sharpen it with a dessertspoonful of anchovy vinegar; put the eggs on a hot dish, and pour the sauce boiling hot over them. Serve.

MENU XII.

Fish custard puddings. Purée of grouse in scallops. Eggs with mushrooms. Scones.

THESE are tasty little fish puddings very easily made. Any cold fish will do. Choose six dariole 34. Fish moulds, fluted or plain; butter them, custard and sprinkle a layer of finely minced, puddings. dry parsley over this lining. Make enough ordinary thick custard to fill the moulds about half full each, seasoning it with salt and pepper instead of sugar. Pick the cold fish free from bones and skin, and cut it up into a coarse mince; dust into this a saltspoonful of spiced pepper; fill the moulds loosely with this, and then pour the custard over each, allowing time for it to settle well, and adding more custard till the moulds are filled; put a round of buttered paper over each of them, and place them in a sauté pan with enough boiling water round them to poach them nicely. When set, pick off the papers, and turn the moulded custards out. A saltspoonful of anchovy sauce may be stirred into the custard before filling the moulds if liked. Excellent with cold salmon.

Pick and mince the meat from the birds overnight, and make as much well-flavoured broth from the bones as you can. This having been prepared, the work the next 35. Purće of grouse morning will be quickly done. Simply in scallops. thicken the broth, flavour it with half a teaspoonful of red-currant jelly and a dessert-spoonful of Marsala, season it with salt, and a teaspoonful of spiced pepper. Then stir in the mince, keep it hot in the bain-marie while you butter six scallop shells, into which, when ready, pour the mince, shake a layer of pounded crumbs over the surface of each, and heat well in the oven or Dutch oven; brown the crumbs with a salamander, and send up.

On six squares of fried bread place six nicely poached eggs, pouring over each about a table-spoonful of this sauce. Stew four medium mushrooms, or a quarter of 36. Eggs with mushrooms, in milk, having with mushrooms. first cleaned them carefully and cut them up into a coarse mince; season with pepper and salt; when ready stir in a table-spoonful of milk with which a raw yolk has been mixed, off the fire, and use as directed.

MENU XIII.

Fried flounders, tomato butter
Curry cutlets, chutney sauce
Eggs with green peas.
Bannocks.

Procure enough flounders for the party, and fry them as explained for smelts (No. 16); serve 37. Fried drained dry on a hot dish lined with a flounders, fish-paper, and this butter on a plate: tomato To two ounces of Brittany butter add butter. a good tablespoonful of French tomato conserve (it is much thicker than sauce), season if necessary, and work them together with the butter-bat. A little of this should be taken as an adjunct with the fish, and allowed to melt over it.

Prepare overnight enough minced veal, mutton, lamb, or even mixed meats—partly of fowl and mutton, for instance—as will suffice for half a dozen good cutlets. Dilute this with the sauce given for No. 18, using gravy or broth instead of milk, and stirring into it the yolks of two raw eggs; thicken gently over a low fire, carefully avoiding boiling, then turn the mixture 38. Curry out upon a dish, patting it into a rect-cutlets, angular shape, a quarter of an inch thick, chutney with a wooden spoon; set this aside in a sauce. cool place for the night. In the morning it will be quite firm; cut out of it six or eight neat cutlets with your cutter, bread-crumb and fry them a golden brown, and serve with them the sauce given for No. 8.

If fresh peas are not available—those left from the previous evening's dinner, for instance-a very nice dish for a change can be made with a small tin of French petits 39. Eggs pois in this way: Open the tin, and with green placing a block tin placing a block-tin strainer over a bowl, empty the contents of the tin into it, drain thoroughly, catching all the liquid: next, with half an ounce of butter and half an ounce of flour make a thickening at the bottom of a small stewpan over a low fire; when smooth add the liquid from the tin, stir well, increasing the heat and adding a coffeecupful of milk; bring to the boil, and when nice and thick put in the peas with a saltspoonful of salt, one of sugar, and half one of white pepper. Now set the stewpan in the bain-marie. When required turn the peas with their sauce into a hot entrée dish, and lay on the surface six nicely poached eggs, garnishing with sippets of fried bread. A spoonful of cream may of course be added just before dishing the peas.

MENU XIV.

ABSTINENCE.

Khitchri (Indian).

Macaroni à la Livornaise.

Eggs in white sauce.

Sally Lunns.

This dish, from which the so-called "kedgeree" of English cookery books was doubtless taken, was originally a dish of rice cooked with butter and an Indian pea 40. Khit called dál, but now it may either be dian). composed of cold cooked fresh fish, or of salt fish that has been soaked and either boiled or fried. Choose which you prefer-about one pound will be enough—and with a fork divide it into small pieces. Boil six ounces of rice, as explained for No. 20. These preparations can be made overnight. Boil three eggs hard, and with a fork crush them, whites and yolks together, to a coarse mince. Melt over a low fire three ounces of butter, and fry a very finely minced shallot therein till it is a yellow colour; now stir in the rice, using a wooden spoon, and the pieces of fish, season with pepper and salt and sufficient turmeric (about a teaspoonful) to tint the rice a nice light yellow colour; lastly, shake into the mixture the crushed hard-boiled eggs, and empty the whole into a very hot dish.

N.B. — Both onions and turmeric may be omitted, if it be desired, without prejudice to the mixture generally.

Boil six ounces of macaroni; stew six mediumsized mushrooms in milk, and season them with pepper and salt. Make a breakfastcupful of tomato purée. Put a layer cupful of the macaroni in a well-buttered, fire-proof baking dish, moisten it with some of the purée, put a little of the stewed mushroom over that, and then another layer of macaroni, finally dusting the surface over with a layer of grated cheese. Bake, and send up very hot.

Six hard-boiled eggs sliced in halves longitudinally, a pint of white sauce, seasoning of pepper, salt, and powdered dried herbs. A tablespoonful of milk with the yolk of an egg beaten up with it. Season the pieces of egg, and arrange them on a hot entrée dish; heat the sauce very hot, stir into it, off the fire, the tablespoonful of milk, &c., and pour it over the eggs. Serve.

MENU XV.

Smoked brill.

Mutton kidneys bread-crumbed.

Eggs in cases.

Oatmeal cakes.

This method of serving fish for breakfast is a spécialité at the Bombay and Madras clubs. I recommend its trial with brill because that fish is more like the Indian 43. Smoked brill. "pomfret" than any other English fish; at the same time the system is applicable to any kind of flat fish or slices of fish, from salmon downwards. Choose a fish of about a pound and a half or two pounds. Take the flesh from the bones as you do the fillets of a sole, trim them neatly, and dry them with a cloth. Now prepare a fire of cocoanut fibre (procurable at Treloar and Sons, 70, Ludgate Hill); when damped it makes a great volume of smoke; place the gridiron over the fire, but well in the smoke, butter the fish fillets on both sides, lay them side by side on the gridiron, covering them, as they are cooking in the vapour, with the lid of a tin fish-kettle to concentrate the smoke. In about ten minutes the fish will turn a rich warm brown on the side nearer the fire; then turn it and smoke the other side, which will take about five minutes. The fillets can now be served with any plain sharp sauce. The process can be conducted in an ordinary fire-grate if the kitchen range be a closed one, and in smoke produced from damp clean straw, or shavings laid on a wood fire.

Breaded kidneys. Six kidneys will do for the party. Proceed as laid down for kidney à la brochette (No. 2). Skewer them, 44. Mutton omitting the bacon; egg and bread-crumb them, boil over a bright, clear fire, and serve on the skewers, garnished with crisply fried curls of bacon. The sauce given for No. 23 will do.

Choose six little scallop shells, or mince-pie patty-pans; put into each a piece of butter the size of a cobnut, and a teaspoonful of minced "fines herbes"—i.e., chopped mushroom, chopped parsley, and finely chopped stem of fresh green onion, or chives, the proportion of the mixture being equal measure of the first two ingredients to one-third of the measure of the last. Warm the shells over the hot plate, and when the butter has melted break an egg into each of them; shake a layer of finely sifted bread-crumb over the surface, and keep over moderate heat till the eggs set, then brown them with the salamander, and serve.

MENU XVI.

Fricassee of cod and oysters.
Rissoles of ham and chicken.
Omelettes with tomatoes.
Buttered toast.

Presuming that the fish for dinner has been cod and oysters, a fricassee of what remains of them will be nice for breakfast the cassee of next day. Pick the meat in firm, 46. Friflaky pieces from the bones; put the cod, and former aside, while with the latter and ovsters. the fish-boilings you make a strong broth, using an onion and seasoning to assist the operation; strain and turn this into a moderately thick white sauce, and flavour it with a teaspoonful of essence of anchovy. Now arrange the cod in a stewpan, moisten it with the sauce, and heat it gently up in the bain-marie to steaming point; lastly, add the remaining oyster sauce, and empty the fricassee into a hot entrée dish. Or the mixture may be put into a fire-proof dish, dusted over with raspings, and baked.

These can be made the previous day, and can be easily heated for breakfast. Having prepared your salpicon, or coarse mince of ham AZ, Risand chicken (a quarter of a pound of soles of the former to half a pound of the ham and latter), with a good thick sauce, in chicken. which the yolks of two raw eggs have been mixed, roll out rather thinly half a pound of nice puff paste, and out of it cut six or eight circular pieces four inches in diameter. Put a tablespoonful of the salpicon upon each of these, turn over the paste, and wet and pinch the edges all round. The rissoles—now of a semi-circular or cocked-hat shape—should be plunged into very hot fat and fried fast. The next day let them be heated on a hot napkin in the Dutch oven. Fried parsley is the usual garnish, and a boat of tomato sauce a good accompaniment. Please note that bread-crumbed mixtures of meats (croquettes) are not rissoles, though often called by that name.

I will now give you the variation in omelette-making promised in No. 6. Select a roomy omelette pan; see that it is clean and dry; break, one after another, five 48. Omelettes with tomatoes. from the whites; put these into separate basins, whisk the whites to a stiffish froth, and mix the yolks well with a fork. Place the pan on the fire with half an ounce of butter; let this get hot as for the omelette in No. 6, and when it is ready quickly amalgamate the contents of the two bowls and pour the mixture into the pan; let it alone for three minutes, shake, and turn the omelette over upon a bed of tomatoes, as explained for No. 12. The minced herbs mentioned in No. 6 can be stirred in with the yolks if liked, and a teaspoonful of salt should be mixed with them also.

If you possess a glazing-iron, heat it, and pass it closely above the surface of the omelette while the bottom is setting. In any case the upper side remains frothy, and is buried as the omelette laps over in dishing. It is as light as a soufflé, and sweet omelettes thus cooked are excellent.

N.B.—Owing to the frothiness of the mixture a large pan is necessary. If this be not available it will be safer to divide the mixture, putting it into two bowls separately, and to cook each independently. The fire should not be too fierce.

MENU XVII.

Sardines au gratin.

Crêpinettes of mixed game.

Eggs with prawn butter.

Devilled biscuits.

ACCIDENTS may sometimes occur when it may be found very convenient to fall back on the tin of sardines. On such an occasion this 49. Sarwill be found a useful recipe:—Caredines au fully lift out a dozen sardines one by gratin. one, lay them on a medium-sized joint dish, separately; tip the dish up, and pour gently over the little fish a stream of very hot water, to carry off the fishy oil; pour this off once or twice, drain, and the sardines will be clean. choose a flat gratin dish, or fire-proof baking dish, butter it liberally, and strew over the butter a goodly sprinkling of the "fines herbes" given in No. 45. Lay the sardines on this bed. putting a saltspoonful of the herbes on each of them, dredge lightly over all a dusting of fine salt and white pepper mixed together, pour a few drops of melted butter over them, and a thin layer of crust raspings; heat thoroughly in the Dutch oven, and serve.

Although the term is usually applied to preparations of minced meats, wrapped in pig's 50. Crêpi- caul, crumbed, and fried, a crêpinette nettes of is literally a thing frizzled, or made crisp, and pancakes are very useful as game. envelopes for salpicon of any kind. Make two or three ordinary thin pancakes plainly seasoned with salt and pepper instead of sugar, and a sprinkling of finely chopped parsley. Let them get cold, then cut out of them a dozen pieces five inches long and four wide; lay these on a floured pastry board, brush a coating of white of egg over the upper surface, upon this put a good tablespoonful of hare, grouse, partridge, or mixed game purée, moistened with a thick brown sauce, as given for No. 35, and roll the pancake up as you would a sausage-roll. A very thin slice of cold cooked bacon may be laid over each of the crêpinettes first, and the mince over it. This much can be done the evening before. To prepare the crêpinettes for the table: Egg and bread-crumb them, and either fry them in boiling fat, or bake them. Curls of fried bacon can accompany them.

Poach the eggs, lay them on squares of fried bread, and send them up with a pat of this butter melting over them: Choose six 51. Eggs nice boiled prawns; pick them; pour a with jug of cold water over the shells and prawn meat also; when quite clean pound butter. meat and shells together in a stone mortar, using an ounce of butter to assist the pounding. When thoroughly pounded pass the paste through a hair-sieve into a bowl of cold water, skim it off the water, drain it, and add it to another ounce of butter with the butter-bat, seasoning it with a saltspoonful of salt, white pepper, and mace blended. Shrimps may be substituted for prawns.

MENU XVIII.

Fried plaice, shrimp butter.

Fowl (or turkey) marinaded.

Eggs in bread sauce.

Tea-cake—not sweetened.

Skin and trim a plaice, dividing it into fillets two inches and a half long, and one and a half wide:

52. Fried marinade them all night, as recomplaice, mended in No. 73. In the morning shrimp wipe them dry, egg, bread-crumb, and butter. fry these as explained for smelts (No. 16). Serve on a neat fish-paper garnished with slices of lemon, and send in with them a little plate of shrimp butter made as explained for prawn butter (No. 51).

Cut up a chicken or half a large fowl into neat pieces as for fricassee. Put these overnight into a soup-plate in a marinade composed of two tablespoonfuls of salad oil, two of vinegar, one finely sliced shallot, one inch length of celery shredded, a dozen peppercorns, a sprig of parsley chopped, and a saltspoonful of salt. In the morning drain the pieces, dry them, prepare a bath of boiling fat, dip the pieces in frying 53. Fowl (or turkey) batter (No. 116), fry a golden brown; marinaded drain, dry, and pile upon a napkin.

Flavour a pint of milk as you would for bread sauce—i.e., cut in quarters and blanch a threeounce onion in boiling water for five minutes, drain the pieces and simmer 54. Eggs them in the milk with six cloves and in bread a saltspoonful of salt. When nicely flavoured turn the milk into a white sauce, with half an ounce of butter and the same of flour. Choose a large fire-proof baking dish, butter it, pour over the bottom of it a layer of the sauce at least a quarter of an inch deep; over this strew a layer of pounded bread crumbs seasoned with salt, pepper, and mace blended. Put the dish in the oven for a few minutes to heat without boiling, take it out and slip into it carefully, without breaking one of them, six eggs; dust a layer of very fine raspings over the surface, and return the dish to the oven just long enough for the eggs to set. Grated cheese may be mingled both with the crumbs and the raspings if liked.

MENU XIX.

Dried haddock, with egg sauce.

Devilled kidneys.

Curried eggs.

Vienna rolls.

SOAK and boil the haddocks (two required, if small) till the meat can be picked easily from 55. Dried the bones and skin; make a good pint haddock, of egg sauce slightly flavoured with with egg anchovy, arrange the picked haddock sauce. on a very hot dish, season it with a little salt and black pepper, pour the egg sauce, steaming hot, over it, and serve.

Impale the kidneys as described in No. 2, give them a broil for two minutes, then roll them on a dish, upon which you have spread a thin layer of made mustard; now dust over the mustard-coated kidneys a good seasoning of salt and black pepper, and continue the broiling till they are done. Serve with the sauce given in No. 8.

Curried eggs differ from eggs à l'Indienne (No. 18), inasmuch as they are hard-boiled, while the latter are poached, and are simmered in the curry sauce, not merely ried eggs. covered with it as the poached eggs are. Boil overnight six eggs hard, slice them when cold in halves longitudinally, cut twelve nice fillets of cold cooked vegetable marrow or stewed cucumber, each piece to be about the size of one of the half eggs. Prepare a curry sauce as given for No. 18, put into it the eggs and pieces of marrow, and slowly heat them up to steaming point; let them rest all night thus prepared, and simply re-heat the dish in the morning. The curry will be far better if allowed thus to marinade for twelve hours in its own sauce. Fried ham or bacon may accompany.

MENU XX.

Lobster cutlets à la Turque.

Irish stew à la Wyvern.

Poached eggs with Italian sauce.

Barley meal scones.

EITHER fresh or tinned lobster may be used. Take enough lobster to form, with an addition of one-third of its bulk of panada, 58. Lobster about six or eight nice cutlets; season cutlets à la the mixture, after pounding and mixing Turque. it well, with salt, white pepper, and mace blended; moisten it over a low fire with white sauce (in which the raw yolk of egg has been mixed) for a few minutes to thicken, and let it set firmly in a dish. Thus much having been done overnight, proceed the next morning to form the mixture into cutlets or balls and cook in the manner described for No. 22. Rice à la Turque should accompany—i.e., "yellow rice" thus prepared: Boil six ounces of rice according to the directions for it in No. 20, then drain, shake over it a teaspoonful of turmeric powder, mixing it well into the rice; a dust of nutmeg may be also given. Pile the rice on the hot dish prepared for it, and arrange the cutlets or balls round it. If liked the sauce mentioned for No. 8 may accompany.

I adopt a slightly different way of making Irish stew, which I think may be liked. the best end of the neck of mutton, cut from a small-sized sheep and not 59. Irish too fat. Divide this into eight or ten Wyvern. equally sized cutlets, and put them into a large stewpan with eight ounces of onions, four of carrots, four ounces of turnip, and an ounce of celery, with a seasoning of salt and black peppercorns. Bring once to the boil and then simmer slowly for an hour. When nicely done, and the meat quite tender, strain off the broth, and set it to get cold and throw up the fat; put the cutlets on a dish, and the onions on another separately. Now peel and boil two and a half pounds of potatoes, which, when ready, drain and mash in their own hot saucepan, mashing the onions from the stew with them, and moistening the whole with enough of the now skimmed broth to bring the vegetables to the consistency of a good purée. If required, a little more salt and freshly ground black pepper seasoning can now be added. Next put the cutlets into a stewpan, add a spoonful or two of the broth to the purée of potato and onions, pour this over the meat, and slowly heat up the stew to steaming point. Dish in this way: arrange the cutlets in a row in a hot silver dish, and mask them with the purée. Some add milk or cream to Irish stew, but I do not think it necessary. In my way you have all the flavour of the mutton broth and no grease, while the potato is creamy and free from lumps, with the onion there, but not en evidence.

60. Poached Put six poached eggs on six squares eggs, with of fried bread, and pour enough of the Italian sauce given in No. 23 to cover each sauce. nicely.

MENU XXI.

ABSTINENCE.

Fillets of sole, with shrimps.

Spaghetti à la Milanaise.

Omelette with artichokes.

Muffins.

HAVE a good-sized sole neatly filleted. Order the bones and trimmings to be sent in with the fish, and with them make a good fish 61. Fillets broth. Also order half a pint of picked of sole, shrimps, mince them not too finely, with and season the mince with salt, white shrimps. pepper, and a pinch of mace. Lay the fillets on a board, brush the upper sides of them with white of egg, and spread over each a coating of the mince after having moistened it with a quarter of a pint of white sauce made with the fish broth and thickened with a raw egg. Roll up the fillets and poach them in the remaining broth to set the farce. Let them get cold. thus prepared overnight they can be lightly floured or bread-crumbed and fried for breakfast, anchovy or shrimp butter accompanying.

0

Spaghetti seems more delicate than macaroni. Weigh six ounces of it and boil the spaghetti till tender, then drain; while hot, and in the 62. Spag-same saucepan, quickly melt a couple of hetti à la Milanaise. ounces of butter into it, stir it well about with a wooden spoon, flavour it with a teaspoonful of spiced pepper, and finish with three ounces of grated cheese; stir all together vigorously, and then serve piled up on a hot dish, steaming.

Cut six artichoke bottoms into six pieces each, toss them in chopped parsley and butter, seasoning with white pepper and salt; make 63. Ome- an omelette in either of the ways lette with artichokes. Already explained. Dish as follows:

Melt a pat of butter at the bottom of the hot entrée dish, put in the artichokes, upon them lay the omelette, and serve.

Boil macaroni or spaghetti exactly as you do rice (No. 20) for all ordinary purposes. It should be firm not pulpy.

MENU XXII.

Whitings au gratin.

Little moulds of ham and chicken.

Buttered eggs with grated beef.

Wholemeal cakes.

CHOOSE two large or three medium whitings, untouched by the fishmonger. Have them simply trimmed and scored-i.e., cuts about a quarter of an inch deep, made 64. Whiat two-inch intervals along both sides. gratin. Thus prepared they will lie flat on the gratin dish, not curled round in the manner invariably adopted by the fishmonger. Butter the baking dish well, sprinkle over its surface a saltspoonful of salt and one of white pepper, and dredge about two tablespoonfuls of fine raspings over all. Brush the whitings on one side with egg, and sprinkle over them some finely minced mushroom, put them in the dish with this side upwards, melt half an ounce of butter and moisten the surface of the mushrooms, sprinkle a layer of chopped parsley over that, and two more tablespoonfuls of raspings, moisten with a coffeecupful of broth, and set the dish in the oven for ten or twelve minutes; serve in the same dish laid on a napkin.

N.B.—The mushroom is, of course, optional.

Pound well on the day previously seven ounces of cold cooked chicken and five ounces of cold lean ham, after first passing the meat 65. Little through the mincing machine; incorporate with this six ounces of panada, one ounce of butter, a saltspoonful of white pepper, half one of mace, and a pinch of salt; mix all together with two well-beaten eggs, and about two tablespoonfuls of thick white sauce made with broth extracted from the bones and trimmings of the chicken. Now butter six or eight dariole moulds, shake a thin lining of rasped crumbs over this, then proceed to fill the little moulds with the mixture; shake them down well so that the latter may settle closely into them, then with the back of a saltspoon scoop out a hollow in each; into these little cavities put a teaspoonful of the sauce, and close them with a cap of the mixture you took out, smoothing over the surface with the blade of a dessert-knife dipped in water. Now poach the little moulds till set firmly, and put them in a cold place till morning, when they can be gently warmed en bain-marie and turned out.

BUTTERED EGGS WITH GRATED BEEF. 69

Prepare six squares of hot buttered toast, cover each with a canopy of buttered 66. Buteggs, and sprinkle a layer of finely tered eggs rasped Hamburg or cold salt beef with (red) over the top of each; serve as grated beef. hot as possible.

MENU XXIII.

Salt cod with egg sauce and potatoes.

Calf's liver à l'Italienne.

Eggs with shrimp cream.

Oatmeal scones.

STEEP a pound and a half of salt cod for six or eight hours in lukewarm water, changing it three 67. Salt times, finally leaving it in cold water cod with for three hours longer. Put it on to egg sauce boil in cold water; as soon as boiling and pota- ease off the fire, and let it simmer for toes. five minutes, drain it, set it on a hot dish on a bed of nicely mashed potato, and pour a pint of well-made hard-boiled egg sauce over it. The potato should be worked more as a purée in the French way—that is, diluted with stock or milk until it can be poured out of the saucepan about the consistency of porridge.

Slice up about a pound or so of calf's liver lengthwise, about half an inch thick, season with a seasoning composed of salt, white pepper, and powdered dried herbs in equal portions, and a saltspoonful of mace blended with it.

Melt four ounces of clarified dripping 68. Calf's or veal suet in a frying-pan; when this liver à l'Italiis hot put in the liver, fry for three enne. minutes on one side, then turn the slices and fry three minutes on the other side; take the slices out and lay them on a hot entrée dish closely covered. Now put into the frying fat one ounce of flour, work it well, add one shallot chopped small, a couple of mushrooms also chopped, and enough broth to bring the sauce to a nice consistency; finally add a tablespoonful of chopped parsley; skim well, pour through a pointed strainer over the liver, and serve.

Poach six eggs, and lay them on squares of fried bread, and cover them with this sauce: Half an ounce of butter, half an ounce 69. Eggs of flour, and enough milk to make a with rather thin sauce. Season with a salt-shrimp spoonful of salt and black pepper cream. blended, and stir in enough potted shrimps to thicken the sauce well.

MENU XXIV.

Stewed fish,
Epigrams of mutton.
Eggs with Soubise sauce.
Sally Lunns.

For this choose any cheap yet clean fish—i.e., not "fatty," as herrings, mackerel, &c.; about one and a half pounds enough, have the fish filleted if you wish, but ask that all the "cuttings" may be sent with it. With the latter, assisted by two or three onions, a bit of celery, six peppercorns, a seasoning of salt, a bunch of parsley and herbs, and a table-spoonful of grated horseradish, make a good fish broth; strain when quite done, and thicken, then put the fillets into it, and simmer them till they are cooked; lastly, stir in the yolk of an egg, off the fire; dish on a hot dish, and serve.

Select about a pound and a half of breast of mutton, cover it with cold water, and stew it, with ordinary broth, vegetables, and seasoning, till it is tender, then strain off the broth, take out the mutton, remove the bones (they will come out easily), sprinkle 71. Episome salt and pepper over the meat, grams of mutton. and put it on a dish under a weight for the night, setting the broth in a bowl. In the morning cut the meat into convenient pieces; egg, bread-crumb them, and fry them a nice colour in very hot fat; dish on a hot dish, and send this sauce with them: Take the fat off the bowl of broth, put about half a pint of it into a saucepan, colour it a nice brown with browning, and mix into it a teaspoonful of redcurrent jelly, a tablespoonful of Harvey, one of mushroom ketchup, a teaspoonful of anchovy vinegar, and a dessertspoonful of Marsala. If the fire be clear the pieces of mutton may be broiled instead of being fried.

Prepare six " wufs mollets" (No. 33), put them in a hot entrée dish, and pour over them a pint of sauce Soubise—i.e., three two-ounce onions boiled till tender in milk or 72. Eggs with Soubroth, then passed through the sieve— bise sauce. heated up in the same liquid slightly thickened with arrowroot, seasoned with pepper and salt, and finished with a yolk of a raw egg if liked. Prepare the sauce overnight.

MENU XXV.

Fried brill.
Salmis of game.
Devilled eggs.
Muffins.

About one pound and a half of filleted brill. Parboil them overnight, and lay them, when cold, in a marinade composed as follows: Four tablespoonfuls of salad oil, one of vinegar, an onion sliced in rings, a tablespoonful of chopped parsley, one of mixed green herbs, the peel of half a lemon, and a teaspoonful of black pepper and salt blended. In the morning take the fillets out of the marinade, wipe them, egg, bread-crumb, and fry them as explained for smelts (No. 16).

N.B.—Maître d'hôtel butter may accompany.

Although a true salmis should be made with game which has been only partly cooked beforehand, a very eatable dish can be concocted out of the remains of birds, provided that they have not been over-roasted. Presuming, then, that you have remains of game—hare, grouse, black game, or partridges—you can proceed in this way on the evening before: Cut off all the available meat, and, giving it a dust of salt and white pepper, put it by. With all the bones, skin, and any gravy that may be over, make the best game broth possible. For this pound all the enamelled bones before putting them into the pot, add any trimmings of bacon or ham, a bunch of sweet herbs, and an ounce of glaze; cover with warm water, boil, and simmer. When satisfied that you have got all that the ingredients can yield, strain the liquid off, and leave it in a bowl all night. The next morning thicken this, add a tablespoonful of Marsala, a teaspoonful of redcurrant jelly, one of anchovy vinegar, and such seasoning as you may consider necessary. When fully flavoured put in the meat, and let the salmis warm slowly to steaming point without boiling, keep in the bain-marie till required, and serve. If the whole process were carried out overnight, the dish would be all the better, gentle re-heating being alone necessary the next day.

These may be either poached eggs on toast, capped with "devil sauce" (No. 29, slightly thickened), or hard-boiled eggs cut in halves lengthwise, placed in a hot entrée dish, and moistened with "chutney sauce" (No. 8) as steaming hot as possible.

MENU XXVI.

Fried fish à l'Indienne.

Kubàb of liver and oysters.

Buttered eggs with shrimps.

Crumpets.

THIS depends upon a peculiar batter in which the fish is dipped before frying. Fillets of whiting may be chosen. Having prepared a bath of boiling fat, fry them, fish à l'Indienne.

Beat up two raw eggs in half a pint of milk, thicken this to the consistency of a batter that coats the spoon when lifted from it with peaflour, add a saltspoonful of turmeric, a saltspoonful of ground ginger, and the same of salt and white pepper blended.

This is only a kubab in so far that the viands are strung upon skewers in the Oriental manner. Choose about a pound of lamb's or calf's liver, and cut it into slices one-third of an inch thick, an inch wide, and an inch and a half long, egg 77. Kubab and crumb them with finely pounded stale crumbs; take one dozen cooking of liver oysters, and wrap each of them in and a very thin slice of streaky bacon; ovsters. egg and bread these also with fine crumbs. Now pass these on to your skewers in alternate order—first a piece of liver, then an oyster, then a piece of liver, and so on; melt a couple of ounces of clarified dripping in a frying-pan, and fry for three minutes on one side, then turn the skewers, and fry for three more on the other side; drain, dry, and serve on a very hot dish.

A pint of picked shrimps, six eggs, and six toasts. Make buttered eggs of the eggs, butter 78. Eutthe toasts, and toss the shrimps in a tered eggs frying-pan in a couple of ounces of with butter; let them absorb the butter, shrimps. then turn them on to the toasts, and pour the hot buttered eggs over them.

MENU XXVII.

Fried shell-fish.
Chicken purée with mushrooms,
Egg molé.
Oatcakes.

A DISH of fried shell-fish, as is often presented at the Italian breakfast, is a nice variation from the ordinary routine. Take a dozen fair - sized shelled prawns, and a dozen 79. Fried shelled scallops; make two pieces of each prawn by slicing it lengthwise, and slice the scallops in the same way; spread a layer of flour on a clean cloth, and roll the pieces of shell-fish in it; let this dry, and then turn them, a ladleful at a time, into a bath of boiling fat. Fry a golden yellow, drain, and pile the crisp fritters (like whitebait) on a napkin; dust salt over them, and serve with slices of lemon, brown bread-and-butter.

N.B. Scallops alone are quite acceptable when thus presented.

Enough minced chicken for the party should be made in the usual manner, and six mushrooms, each the size of a five-shilling-purée with mushrooms.

Butter six squares of fried bread, cover them with the steaming mince, and lay a fried mushroom on the top of each square.

Lay six poached or hard-boiled eggs in a hot silver entrée dish, and pour over them a sauce 81. Egg made like that given in No. 13, only molé. use milk instead of fish broth for the moistening.

MENU XXVIII.

ABSTINENCE.

Semolina fritters of fish.

Vegetable curry (Malay).

Eggs à la voyageuse.

Indian crumpets.

Borr, twelve ounces of semolina in sufficient milk to form a paste. Let it get cold, then roll it out a quarter of an inch thick, and line a dozen oval tartlet moulds with it. 82. Semo-Fill these with a stiffly reduced ters of fish. shrimp sauce, in which the shrimps, cut into dice, are plentiful. Close over each little patty thus formed with a covering of semolina paste, wet the edges, pinch the tops securely to the lining, and then take them out of the moulds, egg, bread-crumb, and fry in very hot fat, like rissoles. Drain, dry, and send in on a napkin with fried parsley. These can be prepared, all but the frying, overnight. Remains of lobster, oysters, scallops, or prawns, may be similarly cooked.

Choose the following vegetables: Six cooked artichoke bottoms, the same weight of cooked vegetable marrow or cucumber, six sprigs of the flower of not over-cooked cauliflower, three cooked potatoes of moderate size. Cut the artichoke bottoms into four pieces each, cut the vegetable marrow also into pieces about the same size, and slice the potatoes into similarly small discs. Then proceed as explained for curried mushrooms (No. 20), serving rice with the curry as therein described.

Lay six poached eggs on six fried toasts, and pour over each a little of this sauce: half a pint of milk thickened with a quarter of an 84. Eggs ounce of butter, and the same of flour, à la voyageuse. flavoured with a tablespoonful of Harvey sauce, a dessertspoonful of tomato ketchup, a teaspoonful of anchovy vinegar, and salt to taste. A tablespoonful of milk with one raw yolk beaten up in it may be stirred in as a finishing touch, off the fire, just before using the sauce.

MENU XXIX.

Orlys of fillets of hake.

Twice-laid of salt beef.

Eggs à la Bordelaise.

Bannocks.

TRIM the hake into convenient pieces for frying, and marinade them as explained for the brill fillets (No. 73). Before cooking them, wipe the pieces carefully, make a good of fillets frying batter (No. 116) and prepare a of hake. bath of boiling fat. Dip the pieces into the batter, and fry them a rich golden brown. Serve piled upon a hot napkin.

This simple dish can be made very tasty with a little trouble. Pass half a pound of lean Hamburg spiced or salt beef through the mincing machine; cut the fat into laid of salt dice, fry them till well melted, then beef. empty the contents of the pan into a hot saucepan containing about a pint and a half of well-mashed potato: stir well together with a wooden spoon, adding by degrees the minced beef, and moistening the mixture with a few spoonfuls of broth or milk. Turn the whole into a well-buttered mould, and bake until thoroughly hot, then turn out, and shake some fine raspings over it. Garnish with curls of bacon.

Bake overnight three good-sized onions on a buttered dish until they are quite soft. Boil six eggs hard. The next morning take off 87. Eggs the browned outer skin of the onions, à la Borand mince them, and take four sardines delaise. from the tin, free them from oil, and cut them up rather small. Put an ounce of butter into a frying-pan, throw into it the minced onion, set the pan on a low fire, add the sardines, fry very gently; meanwhile warm the hard-boiled eggs by putting them into hot water. All being hot, empty the mince into a hot entrée dish, slice the hard eggs, across, into pieces, strew them over the mince, and serve very hot.

MENU XXX.

Kippered salmon.

Croquettes of mixed meat.

Omelettes with asparagus.

Muffins.

Cut six nice pieces from a kippered salmon, and, if necessary, soak them awhile to remove some of the saltness, then dry them, butter 88. Kipthem, and dust some pepper over them, pered then wrap in well-oiled papers, and broil Salmon. over the clearest fire on a gridiron.

These can be made of mixed cold meats overnight, and will be much improved by the remains of a pâté de foie gras, sweetbread, a 89. Crospoonful of ham or tongue if it can be quettes of spared, and the same of minced cooked mixed mushroom. But none of these expensive things is essential. Having minced the meat, seasoned, and flavoured it, stir it in a bowl in which you have poured a quarter of a pint of thick white or brown, sauce, with the yolks of two raw eggs blended with it; warm all in a saucepan together, but without boiling, then put aside the mixture to set firmly. Next morning strew a pastry board with finely powdered and sifted crumbs, divide the mince into equally sized parts, roll them into drumlike shapes, egg, crumb, and fry them in boiling fat till of a nice yellow-brown colour; drain, dry, and serve piled up upon a hot napkin. Any nice brown sauce can accompany.

be employed in this dish. Cut all the tender part into quarter-inch dice, boil the stalks in milk, strain, thicken the milk, season it with salt and pepper, and put the dice into it. Make two omelettes as recommended in No. 6, and add the asparagus as described in No. 24. Serve as hot as possible.

MENU XXXI.

Whitebait.

Vienna steaks.

Omelettes with shrimps.

Knotted rolls.

Few dishes of fish are nicer for breakfast than whitebait. They are none the worse for having been fried overnight; on the contrary; for a plunge into very hot fat for two, or three minutes at most, and careful draining and drying, they are all the crisper. Serve them with slices of lemon and thin brown bread-and-butter in the usual way.

Vienna steaks are made in this way: Take half a pound of lean veal uncooked, and half a pound of lean beef also uncooked; mince the two meats finely, season pasteaks with spiced pepper and salt, and add a dessertspoonful of chopped parsley and a teaspoonful of finely minced shallot; mix into this two well-beaten eggs, and turn the whole out upon a flat dish. The mixture should be about three-eighths of an inch thick. This having been done the previous day, in the morning all that has to be done is to cut the now firm mass into rounds with a three and a half inch cutter; flour and fry them (sauté) in butter three minutes on one side, turn, and three minutes on the other, serving them on a hot dish in a circle, with a small mound of mashed potato in the centre. Plain brown gravy may accompany in a sauce boat.

The omelettes should be cooked in either of the ways already described (see No. 6, or 48), and the shrimps should be added in the manner 93. Omeexplained for the mushrooms in No. 24. lettes with They should be prepared as follows: shrimps. Having picked enough boiled shrimps to fill a half pint measure generously, pound the shells of the tails in a mortar with one ounce of butter, pass all through a hair-sieve, and put it into a small saucepan over a low fire, add the picked shrimps and a dust of mace, stir well to heat thoroughly, and spread half of the contents of the saucepan over the surface of each omelette just before turning the latter into the dish.

MENU XXXII.

Slices of Salmon, grilled.

Ham steaks.

Eggs in cases with mushrooms.

Irish scones.

Cut a piece of salmon into six slices half an inch thick. If the piece be a deep cut from the middle of a fine fish three slices will be sufficient, each being divided into two 94. Slices pieces down the naturally marked divi- of salmon, sion of the fish. Remove the skin, and grilled. let the prepared slices lie all night in a marinade composed of four tablespoonfuls of salad oil, two of red wine vinegar, a dessertspoonful of chopped chives or finely shredded shallot, a tablespoonful of chopped parsley, and a sprinkling of spiced salt. In the morning lift the slices from the marinade, wipe them, and wrap them in wellbuttered papers, twisting the ends of the papers to secure them firmly. Butter the bars of a wellcleaned gridiron, lay the cutlets one by one 89 thereon, and boil them over a clear fire, turning them frequently. They will take about twelve minutes. If cut thicker, say three-quarters of an inch, and not wrapped in paper, they will be done in a quarter of an hour. In this case the slices must be buttered before being laid on the gridiron.

These are cut out of a raw ham in quarterinch thick slices and broiled over a clear fire.

The secret of success lies in having the ham, or a portion set aside for steaks, soaked as if for boiling, and to send the steaks in absolutely straight from the grill.
Excellent steaks can thus be cut from a gammon of prime bacon, but the soaking and speedy service must be carried out with the same care.

Stew a quarter of a pound of trimmed mushrooms in milk; when done, drain them, chop them up small with a silver dessert96. Eggs knife. Thicken the milk custard-wise in cases with mushrooms. with the yolks of two raw eggs, stir in the minced mushroom and enough finely sifted white crumbs to bring the mixture to the consistency of a farce, seasoning with salt and a saltspoonful of spiced pepper. With this line half a dozen well-buttered china cases, leaving a hollow in the centre of each, into which break a fresh egg. Set the cases in a shallow pan with hot water an inch deep round them, and poach them in the oven for eight or ten minutes. Pour enough of the sauce mentioned below to mask the top of each, dust over with fine raspings, and serve.

Sauce: only six dessertspoonfuls wanted. Take the trimmings of the mushrooms, wash, dry, and simmer them in just enough milk to cover them, for twenty minutes, season with a pinch each of salt and pepper; afterwards strain, thicken the broth thus obtained, and use as directed.

N.B.—The mushrooms should be prepared the day before.

MENU XXXIII.

Fish pudding with rice.

Grilled breast of mutton.

Eggs in coquilles.

Indian crumpets.

Any cold fish carefully picked from the bones will do, or a combination of fish such as salmon and whiting, for a little salmon improves 97. Fish the pudding greatly. Take eight ounces pudding with rice. of this, and four ounces of boiled rice, one hard-boiled egg crushed with a fork; mix together in a bowl, seasoning with a saltspoonful of spiced pepper, and one of salt, and moistening with any fish sauce that may have been left, or milk, with one well-beaten egg. When worked to the consistency of a pudding, put the mixture into a buttered mould, place a round of paper over the exposed end, and set the mould in a large stewpan in boiling water one third of its depth; cover the vessel, and let it steam for forty minutes (see p. 99). The mould can then be taken from the stewpan and the pudding turned out. If any fish broth be available, a white sauce, flavoured with a few drops of anchovy sauce, may be poured over the mould.

Trim and stew a breast of mutton or lamb with six ounces of onions, four ounces of carrot, an ounce of celery, a bouquet of herbs, and seasoning, with sufficient water to 98. Grilled cover all well, till tender. Take the breast of breast out of the broth, remove the bones at once, and place it between two dishes with a weight upon the upper one. This must be done while the meat is hot on the afternoon of the previous day. Save the broth. In the morning release the piece of meat from the weight, and cut it into neat pieces three inches long by one and a half wide. Score, and season these highly, grill, and serve with crisply fried parsley, and the "devil" sauce given for No. 29, using some of the broth that was saved in its making.

Boil six eggs hard. Fry a couple of fairly large mushrooms. Take the yolks out of the boiled eggs, chopping the whites into little squares, and treating the mush- open sin a similar manner. Mix the chopped whites and mushrooms, season with spiced pepper and salt, and moisten them with a spoonful or two of good brown sauce; add the crushed yolks with a little more sauce—just enough of the latter in all to form a nice moist mince. Butter six china scallop shells, put an allowance of the mince in each, smoothing the surface in dome shape; shake a layer of finely sifted white crumbs over them, pour a few drops of butter melted upon each, and set in the oven till nicely browned. Serve very hot.

MENU XXXIV.

Cod's-roe cutlets.
Croustades of mixed meats.
Eggs on the dish à la Monaco.
French rolls.

Put a whole cod's roe, with the skin intact, into boiling water for five minutes. Take it out, put it on a sieve, and pour a jug of cold water over it. Then return it roe cutlets. to the stewpan, to the water in which add a tablespoonful of vinegar and one of salt. Simmer slowly for twenty minutes, or thirty if a large roe. Then drain, and set it in the larder to get cold. When required in the morning, cut the roe into half-inch slices, trim these into cutlets with a cutter, egg, bread-crumb, and fry them a nice colour, then drain and dry, serving with brown bread-and-butter and sliced lemon.

These can be made out of any combination of cold meat, and if the following proportions be maintained—approximately—will be found very nice for breakfast: To two-thirds finely minced cold roast beef, mutton, veal, or fowl, 101. Crou- allow one-third minced ham, tongue, stades of mild lean bacon, or lean pressed beef. mixed Blend a mince thus apportioned, meats. season it with spiced pepper, and prepare half a pint of nicely flavoured brown gravy, slightly thickened. A good flavour will be got by adding to the gravy one tablespoonful mushroom ketchup, one dessertspoonful of Harvey sauce, a teaspoonful of vinegar from the walnut pickle, and a teaspoonful of Marsala. For seasoning a saltspoonful of sugar and one of salt. For the croustades choose six small stale dinner rolls; slice off the rounded top of each as you take the top off a boiled egg; then, using a fork, pick out the crumb without injuring the outer crust. Six bread-cases having thus been prepared, fry them in very hot beef dripping till pale golden in colour; drain, dry, and keep till wanted. In the morning butter the inside of the cases, sprinkle over this a layer of finely minced parsley. Next, taking enough mince to fill each case, put it into a bowl, dilute with the sauce till nice and moist, fill the cases, strew a laver of fine crumbs over the tops, set them on a buttered baking tin, and put this into the oven for a few minutes, just till thoroughly hot. Meanwhile fry six curls of bacon, crisply, and when serving the croustades put a curl on the top of each one.

EGGS ON THE DISH A LA MONACO. 97

In a small saucepan put a claret-glassful of tomato sauce, with a tablespoonful of melted glaze; season with a saltspoonful of spiced pepper, dilute with broth or 102. Eggs milk to bring the liquid to the consistency of thin cream, then pass it through a strainer into a fire-proof china dish; break six eggs into this carefully without breaking, and put a few drops of melted butter on each egg; then set the dish in the oven, and as soon as the whites are set take it out, and serve on a napkin laid upon a larger dish.

MENU XXXV.

Haddock in a mould.
Chicken cutlets, Indian way.
Eggs on the dish with bacon.
Crumb-muffins.

TAKE the flesh from both sides of a mediumsized haddock. Put the head, skin, bones and tail, with an onion sliced, six pepper-103. Hadcorns, and a bouquet of herbs, into a dock in a stewpan with sufficient water to cover mould. all; season with a saltspoonful of salt, boil, and simmer for half an hour, then strain off the broth, which should be thickened with butter and flour (one ounce of each to half a pint), and finally enriched—off the fire—with the yolk of a raw egg. This being ready, proceed to pound the flesh of the haddock in a mortar, moistening it during the operation with a spoonful or two of the sauce. When well pounded pass the fish through the sieve, and to it add half its bulk of white bread-crumb that has been soaked in milk; pound all together, moisten slightly with the sauce and two well-beaten eggs, seasoning with spiced pepper. When well mixed, butter a plain pudding mould, fill it with the mixture, and poach it "au-bain marie"—i.e., place it one-third deep in boiling water, watch it come again to the boil, then lower the fire and steam as you would a pudding, closely covered, for three-quarters of an hour. In the morning set the mould again in hot water, and keep it so until thoroughly heated through, when it should be turned out upon a hot dish. Any unexpended sauce there may be should be warmed and poured over the mould.

The legs and thighs of fowls, the breasts of which have been used for an entrée, will do well. The meat may be cooked or not. The remains of a turkey may be thus 104. Chicutilised. To three-quarters of a pound ken cutlets, of cold cooked meat allow six ounces way. of cold cooked pork sausage. Mince the meat, not too finely, and chop up the sausages, removing the skin; add a teaspoonful of minced shallot, a dessertspoonful of parsley, and a sprinkling of salt; mix all together with two raw eggs, spread the mixture on a dish threeeighths of an inch thick, and let it stiffen during the night. In the morning cut it into cutlets with a cutter, flour them, and lay them in a sauté pan with an ounce of butter. Fry six minutes (three on each side), and dish in a circle with fried parsley as garnish.

Cut into thin slices enough cold cooked bacon to cover the bottom of a large fire-proof dish.

Slightly butter the dish, cut the slices into inch squares, and lay them over on the dish with the bottom of the dish. Put it into the oven, let the bacon cook for five minutes on one side, then turn the pieces and cook five minutes longer. Now take the dish out of the oven and break six eggs into it, return it to the oven till the whites are set, then dish in the manner described for No. 102.

MENU XXXVI.

ABSTINENCE.

Sole as whitebait.

Mushroom fritters.

Omelette à la Soubise.

Barley-meal scones.

This is a fanciful way of serving fried sole, which, as a change, may be acceptable. Skin a medium-sized fish, and detach the long 106. Sole fillets on either side of the spine. Cut as whitethese into strips about the size of a bait. largish whitebait, toss them in a floured cloth, and plunge them in relays into a bath of boiling lard or clarified suet, in which a fryingbasket has been set; in six or seven minutes they should just turn colour, when lift the basket out of the bath, drain for a moment over the pan, then turn out upon a sheet of blotting-paper placed in front of the fire so as to dry. When all have thus been fried, drained, and dried, sprinkle them with salt, dish on a very hot dish, serving with brown bread-and-butter and lemon cut into quarters.

Half a pound of good fresh mushrooms should be chosen. It is never advisable to buy these very nice fungi after they have turned 107. Mush- black. Commence by boiling two eggs room frithard; while this is proceeding, trim, ters. peel, and prepare the mushrooms. putting all the stalks and peelings into a saucepan, with a pinch of mignonette pepper and two of salt; cover with milk, milk and water, or water, according to your resources, and bring once to the boil, simmering afterwards for twenty minutes; then strain through muslin - for there may be grit in the mushroom trimmings -and save the broth in a bowl. Thicken this with a quarter of an ounce of butter and a quarter of an ounce of flour, reducing it somewhat, and lastly add (off the fire) the yolk of a raw egg. Next cut the mushrooms up into a coarse mince, and, putting this into a sauté pan with an ounce of butter, fry it for five minutes over a moderate fire. Remove the pan from the fire. Chop up the hard-boiled eggs, whites and yolks together, and add this to the fried minced mushroom, seasoning with a teaspoonful of spiced pepper and salt. Dilute this with a few spoonfuls of the sauce, and again, over a moderate fire, proceed to cook the mixture, adding a little more sauce if it seems necessary. When the mixture thickens well, stop, turn the contents of the pan out upon a dish, pat it into shape with a wooden spoon, making it about a quarter of an inch thick, and leave it to get firm during the night. In the morning cut this into cutlets; egg, bread-crumb, and fry a golden brown, and serve with fried parsley.

In this case an onion purée à la Soubise is added to an omelette just as the latter is on the point of being passed into the dish. Cook the omelettes (for there had better be two, as already advised) in either of Soubise. the two methods (No. 6 or 48) that have been given, adding, at the period indicated, this purée, which would of course be made overnight.

Mince six ounces of onion, plunge this into boiling water to blanch for seven or eight minutes; strain carefully, turn the mince into a stewpan, and over a low fire; stir it about to dry thoroughly, then add a tablespoonful of milk, simmer, and continue adding by degrees till the onion is covered with milk; now simmer till the onion is covered with milk; now simmer till the onion is cooked, then strain, pass the mince through the sieve, thicken the milk in which it was boiled with a quarter of an ounce of butter and the same of flour, pass in the purée, amalgamate thoroughly, adding the yolk of an egg beaten up in a tablespoonful of milk to finish with.

MENU XXXVII.

Sea-bream on the dish.
Chicken à la chevalier.
Buttered eggs with mushrooms.
Brown rolls.

FILLET a sea-bream neatly. With all the trimmings make a broth as described in No. 103; when this is ready strain it into a shallow 109. Sea- pan just large enough to hold the fillets; bream on a copper sauté pan with an upright the dish. rim will do; place this on the fire, bring to the boil, put in the fillets, and in three minutes reduce the heat to simmering; in eight or ten minutes the fillets will be sufficiently done for our purpose. Put them aside for the night, carefully saving the broth. In the morning thicken the broth, giving it a teaspoonful of anchovy sauce, and having arranged the fillets on a buttered flat dish that will stand the oven pour the sauce over them in sufficient quantity to mask them neatly; dust over the surface a layer of finely grated cheese, and set the dish in the oven just long enough to heat thoroughly; remove it when this has taken place, pass a heated glazing iron over the surface to make it a yellowish brown, and serve. Any cold cooked fish may be similarly dressed. Serve of course on the dish in which it was cooked.

An easy way of presenting a réchauffé of chicken, fowl, or turkey. Remove the legs and thighs from a pair of cold roast or boiled birds, put them aside while you pick 110. Chicoff all the remaining meat on the car- ken à la cases. Pick all the burnt skin out of this, and chop up the bones that remain, with which proceed to make a broth. Pass the meat through the mincing machine or chop it upon a board. Season this with spiced pepper and salt. Thicken the broth slightly, and moisten the mince with it, heating the mixture in the bainmarie. Score, season, and grill the joints that were cut off in the first instance, dishing as follows: On the bottom of a hot silver dish place a piece of crisply fried bread for each piece of grilled fowl, spread a layer of the mince on each of these, and place the leg or thigh over that, garnishing the whole with crisply fried curls of bacon. In the case of a turkey the joints must be cut crosswise into convenient pieces,

Buttered eggs with mushrooms can either be served upon toasts—first the mushrooms and then a covering of the egg mixture—

111. Buttered eggs with mushrooms. the bottom of a hot silver dish with the buttered eggs over them. A third way is to incorporate the mushrooms with the buttered eggs the last thing before dishing the latter. Prepare the eggs as shown in No. 3, and the mushrooms as in No. 36.

MENU XXXVIII.

Cutlets of moulded fish.

Ox-tongue fillets devilled.

Eggs in cases with ham.

Crumpets.

PREPARE on the day before the cutlets are wanted a mould of fish as explained in the case of "haddock mould" (No. 103). This can be made of mixed fish, and if any salmon, lets of remains of lobster, or shrimps can be moulded worked in with it, so much the better. fish. Put the mould away at night, and in the morning cut it into neat pieces—cutlet shapes if liked—which egg, bread-crumb, fry in boiling fat a golden brown, and serve crisp and dry with fried parsley.

Cut from a cold boiled tongue eight or ten neat slices a quarter of an inch thick; prepare as many rounds of fried bread; get ready half 113. Ox- a pint of the "devil sauce" already tongue explained in No. 29. Trim the tongue fillets slices free from skin, and season them devilled. with grill seasoning (No. 29). Give them a few turns on the gridiron, lay them on the toasts, and pour the sauce over them.

Butter six china cases or scallop shells; take enough finely grated ham to fill an afternoon teacup; moisten this with twice the quantity. Eggs tity of good brown sauce and stir in the yolk of a raw egg off the fire when the mixture is ready. With this line your cases or shells, leaving a hollow space in the middle of each to hold an egg. Put the cases in hot water to poach and set the lining, then take them out. In the morning warm the cases, slip a poached egg into the hollow of each of them, pour a dessertspoonful of hot brown sauce over every egg, and serve.

MENU XXXIX.

Baked smelts.

Kromeskis of chicken.

Eggs with oysters.

Devilled biscuits.

Large smelts are the best for this dish. Butter an oval fire-proof dish, sprinkle finely minced parsley over it, on this bed lay one dozen smelts; moisten them with half a pint of white sauce, strew them over with fine raspings pretty thickly, put into a moderate oven for ten minutes, and serve in their dish placed on a napkin.

Make a mixture of chicken—or veal with ham, lean bacon, or any tasty adjunct—as if for croquettes (No. 89). In the morning mix a frying batter: Put four and a half ounces of flour into a bowl, make a chicken. hollow in the centre and put into it a quarter of a pint of water, half a saltspoonful of salt, the yolks of two eggs, and two tablespoonfuls of salad oil. Mix thoroughly till the batter coats the spoon with a coating the eighth of an inch thick, adding water, if necessary, to attain that consistency. Twenty minutes before using stir in the whites of the two eggs well whipped. For the kromeskis cut out of thinly sliced cooked bacon eight or a dozen pieces about three inches long and two inches wide; lay a tablespoonful of the minced meat in the centre of each of these, roll them up, dip them into the batter, and fry in a bath of boiling fat till they turn a light brown colour; drain, dry, and serve on a napkin.

The oysters should be prepared the previous evening. The operation is very simple, yet it requires care. Order a dozen sauce oysters to be sent up with their liquor. with ov-Strain the latter, for it is often gritty sters. with little atoms of shell, into a small saucepan, putting in with it the beards taken from the oysters; add fish broth, milk or water to moisten well, and boil, simmering afterwards for half an hour. Strain off this liquid, let it get cold, put the bearded oysters into it, empty it all into a saucepan and set it on the fire-the heat moderate—watch now, and the moment signs of boiling can be detected, stop; reduce the heat to the lowest simmering temperature, and in two minutes the oysters will be ready. If allowed to boil the oysters will be leathery. Now take out the oysters, thicken the broth, put them in again, and keep this in a china or earthenware bowl during the night.

In the morning boil six eggs hard; cool them in cold water; slice them crosswise, butter a fire-proof baking dish, put a layer of the eggs at the bottom of it, arrange the oysters, now taken out of the sauce, over this, and cover with another layer of egg slices, seasoning each layer with pepper and salt, moisten the whole with the oyster sauce, cover the surface with raspings somewhat thickly strewn, and put the dish in the oven until steaming, when serve. This is obviously an easy way of disposing of any oyster sauce left from dinner the previous evening.

MENU XL.

Scalded whitings.

Potato cutlets.

Poached eggs à la Colbert.

Barleymeal scones.

GET the whiting untouched by the fishmonger except cleaning. Put the fish (three or four, according to size) upon a dish over-118. Scalded night, squeeze a lemon over them, whitings. and sprinkle with salt. In the morning put a fish-kettle with drainer on the fire with as much water as you think will cover the fish nicely, add to it a dessertspoonful of vinegar and a teaspoonful of salt, wipe each fish, and when the water boils put them into the kettle; this will stop the boiling; let it come up to the boil again, then draw back the vessel; from five to eight minutes must now be allowed, according to size; drain as soon as tender, getting rid of all the water from the fish, and serve with slices of lemon and brown bread-and-butter. This is perhaps the most easily digested dish of fish that can be presented either at breakfast or any other meal. It is equally practicable with small-sized fresh haddock.

Take two pounds of potatoes (weighed after paring), steam or boil, pass through the sieve, moisten in a bowl with two well-beaten eggs, work to the consistency of smooth 119. Potato dough, adding a spoonful of milk if necessary. Spread a slight layer of flour on a board, turn the potato dough upon it, flour and roll it out as you would ordinary dough for pastry. Sift a thin layer of finely grated cheese over the surface, and dust over with salt and spiced pepper; fold over, roll out again, fold, and put it away. Prepare eight or ten tablespoonfuls of any nice minced meat, moistening it as explained for croquettes (No. 89). Set this aside also. In the morning roll out the potato paste a quarter of an inch thick with a three-inch cutter. cut this into rounds, put a tablespoonful of the croquette mixture on each round, fold over, and pinch the edges securely. Brush over with egg. roll in finely sifted crumbs, and either heat them up on a buttered baking tin in the oven, or plunge till well coloured in boiling fat.

Choose six scallop shells; put into them a lining of roughly minced kidney prepared in this way:—Take a pair of fine mutton kidneys, or half a veal kidney, previously cooked—those taken out of a cold roast joint will 120. Poach-do; cut them up into small squares, ed eggs à la moisten the mince with a quarter of a pint of any brown sauce there may be left, or thickened gravy from a joint, flavoured with a tablespoonful of mushroom ketchup. Heat up this in the morning and use as follows:—Having lined each shell with the mince, slip a poached egg into the hollow, put a teaspoonful of the sauce on each egg, and serve.

MENU XLI.

Herring fillets fried.

Rabbit au gratin.

Eggs with artichokes.

Tea-cake—not sweetened.

Take the flesh from four fresh herrings, one long fillet from each side. Save the roes. Put the fillets overnight on a flat dish, sprinkle them with salt, and squeeze 121. Hera few drops of lemon juice over each of lets fried. them. Give the roes a fry and put them away—they will come in for "a savoury" at dinner the next day. In the morning wipe, egg, bread-crumb, and fry the fillets as crisply as possible in boiling fat, serving them nicely dried after draining on a napkin, slices of lemon accompanying.

Pick all the meat remaining from a couple of boiled rabbits, the back fillets of which may have been used at a previous meal; save all the onion sauce that may have been left, and as much of the boilings as may not have been used. Butter a fire-proof baking dish, strew this over with finely minced parsley, arrange the pieces 122. Rab- of meat over this, dusting them with bit au spiced pepper and salt, and moistening with the onion sauce supplemented with a spoonful or two of the boilings thickened. Having finished the packing, dredge a good layer of raspings over the surface of the rabbit, and put the dish into a moderate oven to heat thoroughly. If well moistened, this will be found a nice dish for a change.

This should be made with artichoke bottoms (fonds d'artichauts), but a decidedly nice combination can be made with Jerusalem arti-123. Eggs chokes. Arrange six cooked artichoke with arti- bottoms on a buttered fire-proof dish, chokes. pour a few drops of melted butter on each, warm in the oven, take out the dish, put a nicely trimmed poached egg upon each, sprinkle a dust of spiced pepper over each, or a drop or two of tarragon vinegar, and serve. When made with Jerusalem artichokes, the purée is the simplest method to choose for the vegetable; line a well-buttered fire-proof dish with this, dust a fine layer of grated cheese over the surface, dress the poached eggs neatly in hollows scooped out of this bed, and serve.

MENU XLII.

ABSTINENCE.

Trout fried and marinaded.

Croquettes of vermicelli.

Eggs with green herb sauce.

Crumpets.

Practicable with small trout. Clean six quarter-pounders, trim, sprinkle them with salt, and fry them in butter in the sauté pan. Put them, when thus cooked, in a deep dish, 124. Trout and let them get cold, pouring over fried and marinaded. them a marinade composed of four tablespoonfuls of salad oil and three of anchovy vinegar, seasoned with a teaspoonful of finely grated horseradish, a tablespoonful of chopped parsley, a teaspoonful of chopped thyme or marjoram, and one of chives if not objected to. Let this stand all night, and serve as it is. An excellent summer dish.

Prepare the vermicelli exactly as explained for spaghetti (No. 62), cutting it up small and adding a coffeecupful of tomato conserve to it, a quarter of a pint of white sauce, and two raw eggs. Stir altogether over a low fire, then spread the mixture upon a dish during the night for 125. Cro- it to stiffen. In the morning shape quettes of this into little ovals as described for meat croquettes (No 89), and cook in the same manner. If liked, the ovals may be rolled in crushed uncooked vermicelli instead of bread crumbs.

Pound in a mortar two ounces of carefully picked and scalded leaves of chervil, parsley, chives, tarragon, and watercress with 126. Eggs six capers and the fillet of a boned with green anchovy; pass the whole through the herb sauce. sieve, and stir it into half a pint of white sauce. Arrange six poached eggs on fried squares of bread and pour a portion of the sauce over each.

MENU XLIII.

Oyster cutlets.

Sausages with potatoes

Eggs à la Portugaise.

Brown flour scones.

For these turn to No. 117, and follow the directions therein given both in regard to the making of the oyster broth, and the cooking of the oysters, but using 127. Oyster cutlets. eighteen sauce oysters instead of twelve. After the latter have been cooked drain them from the broth, and put them on a plate. Next, presuming there is about half a pint of broth, proceed with half an ounce of butter and half an ounce of flour to thicken it; while cooling somewhat, cut the oysters up into small pieces and put them with two ounces of bread-crumb soaked in milk and the yolks of two raw eggs into the broth, stir together over a low fire to thicken, but do not boil on any account, and then turn the mixture out on a dish, and leave it in a cool larder for the night. In the morning shape the mixture in flat oval shapes with two wooden spoons, or cut them with a cutlet cutter, egg, bread-crumb, and fry in boiling fat; drain, dry, and serve with slices of lemon and brown bread-and-butter.

This homely dish can be made worthy of service at any table if a little trouble be taken with the potato, the dishing up, and the frying 128. Sau- of the sausages. Taking the last first, sages with to preserve the sausages in shape without bursting, time must be taken—that is to say, the sausages, having been pricked, must be put in melted beef dripping over a low fire and cooked slowly and thoroughly. People who think that sausages are too rich will find them much plainer if they be partly boiled before frying. Prick them well, put them into hot water, bring slowly to the boil for fear of bursting, then simmer for five minutes; after this they can be drained and fried till brown. For the potato: Boil or steam half a dozen fairly sized potatoes, drain, mash, pass through the sieve, moisten with an ounce of butter and a coffeecupful of milk, season with a teaspoonful of spiced pepper and a dessertspoonful of grated cheese, add the yolk of a raw egg, mix thoroughly, pat into six neat, elongated ovals, set these on a buttered baking tin, which put in the oven till thoroughly hot; take the tin from the oven, with a slice lift the potato ovals, lay them on a hot dish, put a well-drained sausage, free from all fat, upon each, and serve.

Cut up six tomatoes weighing in all, say, threequarters of a pound; cut up very finely one small shallot, say, half an ounce. Put half an ounce of butter at the bottom 129. Eggs of a small stewpan, melt it and put ala Portugaise. in the minced shallot, season with spiced pepper and salt, fry over a low fire till turning pale golden brown, then add the tomatoes, increase the fire, now stirring the tomatoes well, the object being to reduce their wateriness somewhat. When nicely pulped, pass the mixture through the sieve and put it aside. In the morning butter a fire-proof china dish, arrange the purée on the bottom of it, warm this in the oven, take it out, hollow out with a spoon six little cavities in the tomato bed and slip a raw fresh egg into each of them. Place the dish in the oven again till the eggs have set nicely, and serve.

MENU XLIV.

Fillets of brill à la meunière.

Devilled sheep's tongues.

Fried eggs and bacon.

Oatmeal scones.

HAVING procured eight or ten nice fillets of brill, lay them on a flat dish, lightly sprinkle them with salt, and squeeze a few drops of 130. Fillets lemon juice over them. In the mornof brill à la ing wipe them, flour them, and having meunière. melted a couple of ounces of butter in a sauté pan over a low fire, put them therein, turning them frequently till done; then drain and arrange them on a hot dish; add another ounce of butter (melted) to the butter in the sauté pan, let this turn a pale brown; then take the pan from the fire, add a teaspoonful of anchovy sauce to the butter, let it froth, and stir in little by little a couple of tablespoonfuls of vinegar that has been warmed separately, and a teaspoonful of finely-minced parsley. Empty this over the fried fillets, and serve. The point of this method of cooking fish will be entirely lost unless the dish containing the fillets be as hot as possible, and the sauce that is added equally so. It must be served without any delay whatever.

The six sheep's tongues must be cooked until tender, and skinned on the previous day. In the morning trim off the unsightly roots of the tongues, dip them in 131. Devilmented butter, lay them on a buttered led sheep's tongues. gridiron, and let them just catch the fire nicely. Arrange them upon a hot dish on croûtons of fried bread with a crisp curl of bacon between each, and a masking over them of the sauce given for No. 29, the basis of which can be the broth in which the tongues were cooked.

One of the very commonest of breakfast dishes in the British Isles is fried eggs and bacon. In the majority of cases it may be described as an arrangement of eggs in a condeggs and dition of boot-leather, surrounded by bacon. greasy slices of bacon, and resting upon a layer of discoloured melted fat. Now it is by no means easy to fry an egg properly. The usual way in vogue is to put the eggs, three or four at once, into the far too scanty quantity of melted fat in which the bacon was cooked. This method is altogether wrong. In the first place, the eggs and the bacon must be prepared separately, the former being fried one by one as follows: Empty four ounces of fresh lard into a small but deep frying-pan, just large enough to hold the fat when melted and accommodate one egg. Heat the lard as for whitebait, and when ready, slope the frying-pan so that you can slide gently upon its surface a fresh egg, previously broken from the shell into a large spoon. It will set very quickly, lift with a perforated slice, drain thoroughly, and proceed with the next. Six eggs having thus been fried, dried, and trimmed as to their edges, lay them on squares of fried bread upon a hot dish, garnishing with curls of crisply-fried bacon, or with bacon cut into small squares and similarly dry-fried.

MENU XLV.

Fried sprats.

Broiled fowl with mushrooms.

Eggs with liver.

Irish scones.

When sprats are in season they make a nice breakfast dish. Treat them as much as possible as you would whitebait: flour, fry at a gallop in a boiling fat, drain, dry well, sprats. sprinkle with salt, and serve with brown bread-and-butter and lemon. They may be egged, crumbed, and served as smelts, but this is more troublesome than flouring.

Choose the drumsticks and thighs of a couple of cold roast fowls; score, rub with butter, season with salt and spiced pepper, and 134. Broiled grill on a well-buttered gridiron. Treat fowl with six or eight nice-sized mushrooms in mush-like manner. Dish the latter on rooms. crofitons of fried bread with the broiled fowl arranged round them.

If there happen to be any fowl, turkey, or rabbit livers available, or three ounces of lamb's or veal liver, cooked, cut it up into 135. Eggs small squares, which keep ready on a plate, dusting them over with salt and spiced pepper. Put into a small saucepan half an ounce of butter with half an ounce of finelyminced shallot, fry till turning colour over a low fire, then add half an ounce of flour, mix and continue the frying for five minutes, then stir in half a pint of broth, meat gravy, or soup that may have been left, let the sauce come to the boil, then simmer, adding one tablespoonful of mushroom ketchup, a teaspoonful of walnutpickle vinegar, and half one of red-currant jelly. Mix well and pass through a strainer into a clean bowl, empty the mince into this, and set it aside for the night. In the morning warm the liver sauce in the bain-marie, adding a dessertspoonful of marsala. Keep this hot while you prepare a fire-proof china dish, then put in the liver, making little hollows for the reception of six fresh eggs. These having been put in, set the dish in the oven till the eggs are set, and serve.

MENU XLVI.

Salmon fritters.

Veal and ham scallops.

Buttered eggs with fines herbes.

Indian-meal rolls.

THESE can be made out of the remains of cold salmon in this manner: Cut up the salmon in small pieces, take an equal quantity of breadcrumb—say six ounces of each— 136. Salempty both into a bowl, season plainly fritters. with pepper and salt, moisten with any sauce that has been left, or with a quarter of a pint of white sauce made with the salmon boilings. Add two raw yolks, mix thoroughly, and spread the mixture upon a flat dish, a quarter of an inch thick, cover, and leave for the night. In the morning cut with a two and a half inch cutter a series of rounds out of the flattened mixture, flour them, or dip them in frying batter (No. 116), plunge them into boiling fat till golden-brown; drain, dry, and serve with sliced lemon.

Having prepared a mince of cold veal and ham—two-thirds of the former to one of the latter—season it with salt and spiced 137. Veal pepper, and moisten it with a white sauce made out of veal broth. Butter six or eight fire-proof china scallopshells, or a large baking-dish, sprinkle over the butter a coating of finely-minced cooked mushroom, put in the minced meat, dust over the surface of the scallops with fine raspings, pour a few drops of butter, melted, over them, and warm in the oven, serving with a curl of fried bacon on each.

This is a variation of buttered eggs. Fines herbes is to be described as a mixture of mushrooms, parsley and shallot, or chives if 138. But- procurable, in these proportions—equal with fines measure of the two former to one-third of the last. For this dish a tablespoonherbes. ful of chopped mushroom (well cleaned fresh trimmings will do) and one of chopped parsley to a dessertspoonful or rather less of chopped shallot. Begin by frying the shallot in a quarter of an ounce of butter, a pinch of pepper and one of salt, over a low fire for five minutes, then stir in the parsley and mushroom, fry for five minutes more. Empty the contents of the pan into a bowl and set aside. In the morning put a quarter of an ounce of butter into a small saucepan, add a quarter of an ounce of flour, cook over a low fire for four or five minutes, then stir in a quarter of a pint of milk, bring to the boil to thicken, simmer, adding the fines herbes and a dessertspoonful of milk, with which a raw yolk has been beaten, keeping it hot afterwards in the bain-marie. Now make the buttered eggs (No. 3), adding the fines herbes mixture as a finishing touch. Serve as hot as possible.

MENU XLVII.

Cod in custard sauce.

Dry curry on toast.

Matelote of eggs.

Vienna rolls.

Take a pound and a quarter of cold boiled codfish and break it up into nice flaky pieces. Put these into a stewpan, season with pepper, 139. Cod
salt, and a grate of nutmeg, and moisten with enough of the boilings, saved the previous evening, to cover; set this in the bain-marie to heat up slowly, while with the yolks of a couple of eggs you proceed to turn half a pint of the boilings to a savoury custard, when ready drain the now hot pieces of fish from the liquid in which they were warmed, arrange them on a hot dish, and smother with the custard.
Serve as hot as possible.

This is a very nice breakfast "savoury." Make on the day previous a good curry of one pound of mutton, yeal, or lamb cut into neat squares, and put it away for the night in a china dish. In the morning prepare eight or ten two and a half inch squares of fried bread, 140. Dry and lay these in close order in a hot curry on toast. silver dish. Pick the pieces of meat out of the curry gravy, and melt half an ounce of butter in a stewpan or earthenware casserole, set this over a very low fire, put in the curried meat, stirring it about so as to heat up and dry at the same time. The process must be patiently carried out, and care must be taken to prevent burning. When quite hot the dry curry should be arranged on the fried bread, and served with curls of crisply fried bacon or fried ham. If preferred the curry may be simply warmed, without drying, in the bain-marie, and poured over the toasts. This, it need scarcely be said, is a handy way of serving the remains of a curry left at a previous meal.

Put an ounce of butter at the bottom of a stewpan over a low fire, melt it, add an ounce of flour, slowly cook these together for seven minutes till browning lightly, then add lote of eggs. a pint of broth, gravy, or clear soup that may have been left, flavour with a tablespoonful of mushroom ketchup, a saltspoonful of spiced pepper, salt if necessary, and a sherryglass of light claret; boil, skim, and pass this sauce into a fire-proof dish, then slip six eggs into it, put the dish in the oven and poach them till set, when serve.

N.B.—When red wine is used in cookery the vessel should either be enamelled or glazed earthenware: tinned utensils have a prejudicial effect on the colour of the sauce in these circumstances.

MENU XLVIII.

Water-zootje.
Fritot of pigeons.
Eggs with tarragon.
Devilled biscuits.

If this dish has been presented on the previous evening it can be easily heated for breakfast, for which meal, owing to its plainness, it is very well suited. A zootje can be zootje. made of any fish, or any mixture of fish, including the fresh water varieties. The flounder is a favourite subject for treatment in this fashion, but whiting, small haddock, slips, &c., are very nice in a zootje. The first thing to do is to fillet the fish and make a good broth with the heads, bones, and trimmings, using the adjuncts mentioned in No. 103, and when nicely flavoured to strain it off and employ it as the "water" in which the fillets are to be cooked. Bring the "water" to the boil, put in the fillets, let it return to the boil for a minute, then simmer the fillets till done; bunches of green parsley should be boiled with a zootje, the scraped root of parsley also, and a tablespoonful of grated horseradish is an improvement if there be as much as three pints of water or broth. Serve the fillets in a deep dish with the parsley and the broth as well, brown bread-and-butter accompanying. In hot weather a nice breakfast dish is cold zootje, for if the decoction of the heads and bones be strong, and the dish be set in a very cold larder or upon a bed of crushed ice, it will solidify in a firm jelly. A little gelatine may be added.

Three pigeons will be enough if of a good size. Slightly roast and split them in halves. Marinade these during the night with three table-143. Fritot of pigeons. spoonfuls of salad oil, the juice of a lemon, a bunch of parsley shredded, a half ounce shallot also sliced finely, a dozen pepper corns, and a dust of salt. In the morning take out of the marinade and wipe the pieces of pigeon, dip them in milk, flour them well, plunge them in very hot fat (as for croquettes) when they turn a pale brown, drain, dry, dish on a napkin or paper, garnish with fried parsley, and serve. Should there be any bread sauce available it would be an appropriate adjunct. By saving the livers of the birds you can dish them effectively in this manner. Fry the livers in butter, empty them and the butter into a mortar, pound them, add for six livers a teaspoonful of anchovy essence, season with a saltspoonful of spiced pepper, and spread the mixture on six nicely fried toasts, heat in the mouth of the oven, and lay a half pigeon on each, serving immediately.

This may be done with either poached or hardboiled eggs. If the former, put an ounce of butter in a small saucepan, take it off the fire when half melted, so that it may take to make the melting in the hot saucepan, add a teaspoonful of lemon juice and the same of chopped tarragon, or, if tarragon be out of season, a teaspoonful of tarragon vinegar instead of lemon juice; a teaspoonful of this should be poured over each of the six poached eggs after the latter have been arranged on squares of buttered toast. For hard-boiled eggs: Slice them in halves, longitudinally, and lay them in a hot silver dish, masking them with white sauce flavoured with chopped tarragon.

MENU XLIX.

ABSTINENCE.

Soles in the oven.

Egg croquettes.

Omelettes with oysters.

Bannocks.

Prepare one large or two medium-sized soles as if for frying, No. 28, but in this instance the fish can be left whole. Butter a flat 145. Soles gratin dish, sprinkle this over with in the finely chopped parsley, lay the sole oven. upon it and moisten the upper side of the fish with butter, melted. Put this in the oven; after eight minutes' cooking carefully turn the sole, baste again with butter, and six minutes afterwards it will be done. Lift the fish with a slice and put it upon the hot dish prepared for it; to the butter in the gratin dish add a tablespoonful of minced parsley and the juice of a lemon: pour this over the dished sole and serve immediately. As in all cases where butter melted forms the sauce of a dish of fish great care must be taken to have things as hot as possible, to prevent greasiness.

For these follow the directions given for No. 107, but with this difference as to proportions: Four hard-boiled eggs instead of two, and a quarter of a pound of mushrooms instead 146. Egg of double that quantity. Mix the two minces as therein explained, adding one filleted anchovy, minced small, or a teaspoonful of the essence. When thickened pat the mixture into shape in the same way, but making it about twothirds of an inch thick. In the morning divide the mass into pieces, which when rolled in fine crumbs will be about the size of a guinea-fowl's egg. Brush over with beaten egg and crumb these, plunging them one by one into very hot fat; as soon as they turn a nice golden colour take them out, drain, dry, dust over with salt, and serve piled up on a napkin or paper.

See No. 117. In this instance, before being finally added to the thickened broth, each oyster should be cut into two pieces. Divide the mixture in halves—one for each omelette (which can be made in either of the ways given—No. 6 or 48, as may be preferred), and having heated it in the bainmarie pass one portion into each omelette as done in the case of No. 93.

MENU L.

Fillets of brill with tomatoes.

Jambalaia of fowl.

Omelettes with salmon.

Sally lunns.

For this please turn to No. 109, and treat a nice-sized brill exactly in the manner described for the sea bream. Proceed in all respects 148. Fillets similarly until the thickening of the broth stage, when the teaspoonful of tomatoes. anchovy sauce should be omitted, and two tablespoonfuls of tomato conserve added instead. This, when nice and smooth, should be poured over the fish fillets as explained in the before-mentioned recipe; the glazing is, however, unnecessary.

A "jambalaia" is a species of European khitchri; that is to say, it consists of minced chicken and ham tossed in rice, the process being thus conducted: Boil six ounces of rice as for curry (No. 20); chop up five ounces of uncooked lean ham, and eight or ten ounces of cold cooked chicken. Put the ham into a small frying-pan with an ounce of butter and 149. Jamgive it a fry till fit to serve, then stir in balaia of the cooked chicken, season with spiced pepper, and turn the contents of the pan into the vessel containing the hot rice, which by this time should be drained and dry. Serve well mixed on a very hot dish.

Here the method is as nearly as possible the same as that adopted for the oyster omelette, and by its means half a pound of cold cooked salmon can be turned to capital account. 150. Ome-lettes with Break up the salmon, but not too finely, salmon. and moisten it in a stewpan over a low fire, or in the bain-marie, either with the sauce left the previous evening or a quarter of a pint of melted butter sauce made with the salmon boilings. Add half of this, quite hot, but not boiling, to each of the omelettes in the same way as the oysters in No. 147.

¹ This dish is improved by stirring into the rice a coffeecupful of tomato ketchup and giving the whole a dusting of grated Parmesan.

APPENDIX.

HINTS ON BAKING AT HOME.

FANCY bread has become an almost essential portion of the English breakfast. It is susceptible of considerable variety, and in view of this fact I have suggested various kinds of rolls, scones, bannocks, &c., in the menus. These have now to be explained. While many of them must, of course, be old familiar friends, some, I think, will be found uncommon: at any rate, there are twenty different sorts to choose from, and as I propound the simplest possible system of baking-with baking powder-little or no difficulty should be experienced in working out the whole category. Still, it must be admitted that as in all branches of cookery, so in this, experience in regard to details is necessary. Flours vary in quality. With some less moistening fluid is necessary than with others, in consequence of which exact proportions may sometimes not be hit off without an experiment or two. With perseverance, however, success is certain. A very important factor in the operation is the oven. This demands close observance on the part of the cook, for ovens seem to be as variable in their dispositions as human beings. A great advance has, however, been made in the construction of ranges, and happy is the home baker who possesses one with regulating power in regard to the heating of the baking apparatus. In some (I might say all) ordinary old-fashioned kitchen stoves the ovens are deficient in bottom heat, quite an essential feature in the baking of bread, cakes, soufflés, &c., and many a cook is, I fear, unfairly blamed for failures that might be traced to this defect in her appliances.

If fancy bread baking be carried out nearly every day, it is desirable that the cook should keep a set of utensils separately for this branch of her work—a shallow white enamelled milk pan, two wooden spoons of a largish size, a dozen round patty pans for ordinary rolls two and a half inches in diameter, half a dozen muffin rings, a wire drainer as used by confectioners, a baking sheet, and six special tins for French rolls.

The milk pan is recommended for the kneading of the dough, for which process the wooden spoons should be used. Thus, work with the hands is unnecessary, and greater lightness is obtained. If little round rolls be set in buttered patty pans they preserve their shape and bake nicely, and French roll tins are useful in a similar manner.

Touching materials, I recommend Yeatman's baking powder, because I have had sixteen years' experience of it, and have proved its reliability. In regard to flours, there are many varieties to choose from. For white fancy bread such as rolls, Hungarian or Vienna is considered the best, while for the different digestive cakes, scones, &c., brown flour, wholemeal or wheatmeal, oatmeal, barley-meal, Indian-meal and so on, are called into play. It is, I presume, scarcely necessary to add that all flour used in baking should be as dry as possible.

In the directions given for home baking on a small scale, it often happens that certain rule-of-thumb dry measures are given which cannot be considered definite, such as "cups" of flour, and "teaspoonfuls"—"heaped up" or not, as the case may be—of baking powder. Many find it difficult to decide what cup to choose, and all teaspoons are not made exactly the same size. I have accordingly adopted a system of weights for everything, excepting a salt-spoonful of salt, which have been carefully verified and can be trusted.

Touching "a saltspoonful of salt." It will be found on careful examination that a heaped up ordinary kitchen saltspoonful weighs two drachms, and a mere bowlful not heaped up half that quantity. For the sake of clearness, then, I would explain that when I say "a saltspoonful" I mean the former, and when I say "a small saltspoonful" I mean the latter.

With liquids there is less risk of ambiguity than with dry measure, for you cannot "heap" them up—a full tablespoonful may be accepted as a fixed quantity, i.e., four tablespoonfuls equal half a gill or a common sherry glass, for the term wineglass is not explicit.

1. HOT ROLLS.—For eight rolls one and a half ounce each, take eight ounces of flour, a quarter of an ounce of Yeatman's powder, a saltspoonful of salt, and half an ounce of butter. Spread the flour in the enamelled pan, sprinkle the baking powder and salt over its surface, mix well, then rub the butter into it. This having been done, begin to moisten with milk or buttermilk by degrees, working the dough with the wooden spoons. Nine tablespoonfuls, provided that the flour be of fine quality, should suffice if the operator work skilfully. When ready, turn this out upon a floured pastry board, divide the dough into eight equal portions, pat them into a round shape with the spoons, and place them in eight buttered patry pans. Arrange these upon a baking sheet, wet the surfaces of the rolls with a brush that has been dipped into milk, and slip the sheet into the oven, which should be rather brisk. When the rolls have risen and taken a pale brown colour, they may be taken out of the oven, turned out of the patry pans, and served in a hot napkin. Time, from twelve to fifteen minutes.

- 2. FRENCH ROLLS.—For six French rolls exactly double the quantities given in the preceding recipe should be taken, with the addition of one fresh egg. Work in the same way, adding the egg well beaten at the commencement of the moistening, then enough milk to form a firm dough. When smooth, turn this out on a floured pastry board, divide it into six portions, and pat these into elongated oval shapes; lay these in well-buttered French roll tins, brush them over with milk, and set them upon a baking sheet, finishing as in the previous case.
- 3. VIENNA ROLLS.—The difference here consists in the shape alone. Having worked the dough as for French rolls, turn it out on a floured board, divide it into six portions, roll these out into sausage shapes an inch and a half thick in the centre, tapering somewhat towards the ends, curve them in the form of crescents, lay them on a buttered baking tin, brush them over with milk, and bake about fifteen minutes.

- 4. KNOTTED ROLLS.—Here again variety is obtained by shaping the dough in a different manner: a crisp crusty roll is thus produced. Roll the portions of dough out into long tubular shapes the thickness of your little finger, tie them in knots, and finish as in the case of Vienna rolls.
- 5. INDIAN-MEAL ROLLS.—For these the proportions of flour only are altered, viz., twelve ounces of fine flour to four ounces Indian-meal (maize flour). For the rest the ingredients are the same as for French rolls, and the method of work also. They may be shaped as "Hot Rolls" (No. 1), and baked in patty pans.
- 6. Brown Rolls.—In this case substitute the best wholemeal, well dried, for flour; in other respects proceed as detailed for "Hot Rolls" (No. 1). Another wholesome variation can be obtained by a mixture in these proportions: Five ounces of wholemeal to three of fine well-dried oatmeal, while a milder digestive roll is got by substituting flour for wholemeal, and mixing three ounces of fine oatmeal with it.
- 7. SIR HENRY THOMPSON'S WHOLEMEAL CAKES.—"Take two pounds of coarsely-ground whole wheatmeal, and add half a pound of fine flour, or, better still, the same weight of fine Scotch oatmeal. Mix thoroughly with a sufficient quantity of baking powder and a little salt; then rub in two ounces of butter and make into dough—using a wooden spoon—with cold skimmed milk or milk and water, soft in consistence, so that it can almost be poured into the tin ring, which gives it form when baked. In this manner it is to be quickly made into flat cakes (like tea cakes), and baked on a tin, the rings used being about an inch high and seven or eight inches in diameter, each enclosing a cake. Put them without delay into a quick oven at the outset, letting them be finished thoroughly, at a lower temperature."

"The object of making this bread in flat cakes or in scones is to ensure a light and well-cooked product. It is difficult to ensure these two qualities in the form of loaves except of the smallest size. A larger proportion of oatmeal, if preferred, can be adopted by either method."

N.B.—Half an ounce of Yeatman's baking powder and a saltspoonful of salt per pound of meal will be found correct.

8. MUFFINS.—Sift together a pound of fine flour, an ounce of Yeatman's powder, and two saltspoonfuls of salt, stir in enough milk by degrees to form a smooth, but rather stiff, batter. Butter four muffin rings, lay them on a buttered baking sheet well heated, half fill them with the batter, and put them in the oven. When the batter has risen level with the top of the rings, turn them gently and bake till a good straw colour, when take out the tin, turn the muffins out of the rings, open them, toast slightly on the inside, butter them, fold the two pieces together again, and serve at once. About a pint of milk or a little more will be probably required to form the batter. Time, about twenty-five minutes.

9. CRUMB MUFFINS.—Weigh half a pound of stale white breadcrumb, eight ounces of flour, and half an ounce of baking powder. Beat up two eggs. Soak the crumbs till soft in warm milk. Mix the flour and baking powder well, adding a saltspoonful of salt. Combine the two, diluting first with the beaten eggs, and then with enough milk, if necessary, to form a stiff batter. Put this into buttered muffin rings upon a hot buttered baking tin, and bake in a quick oven fifteen minutes.

10. SALLY LUNNS, NOT SWEETENED.—Rub two ounces of butter into a pound of flour, with which half an ounce of baking powder has been thoroughly sifted and a saltspoonful of salt. Convert this into dough by first mixing with it two well-beaten eggs, and then milk enough by degrees to bring it to the consistency of thick batter. For the rest, treat this as explained for "Crumb Muffins."

of eggs in a bowl, warm a quarter of a pint of milk, and melt in it two ounces of butter. Mix these together well, and then stir in by degrees three-quarters of a pound of flour, with which half an ounce of baking powder and a saltspoonful of salt have been well incorporated. If necessary, add a little more milk or flour, as the case may be, to obtain the consistency of a firm batter. Put into rings, and proceed as in No. 8.

12. Scones.—Under this denomination there are several varieties. The ordinary English sort may be described in the following manner: With one pound of flour mix well a saltspoonful of salt and half an ounce of Yeatman's powder; then rub into this two ounces of butter, and when that has been thoroughly done, commence moistening with a well-beaten egg and enough milk (something rather less than half a pint) to form a light dough. Lay this on a floured board, roll it out half an inch thick, divide this into a dozen neat oblongs. Bake on a buttered baking tin in a hot oven eight or ten minutes, and when nicely browned, serve piled up in a hot napkin.

13. BARLEY-MEAL SCONES.—Follow the previous

IN IA, WITE I MY SINGAPPEAR THE KING, "FIRELY 330 41 14, 31111111111 14 11 17/1 3/11 1 1. 20111 3 8 D. p. WINKS & 11. 1. 14 11/11 1/11 x " 1/11. 4" 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. in a super of some word a fort and a sist . Paul 1, ill 1 11 th of to supportate 111 1/2 1/21/41 1 1 1 1 h mife 1 h att " a th of 41 m i th of m at iff 1 11 11 41 11 1/4 2/11 to by into if 1 Ket, if 18, b, 1/1 ke 2011 1 0 39 Kts, a f and 11th is my 16, 1814. WILLAMA IN IS THAT THAT IN I LIMB INCHES . GALANGERS Poli 3 th, 1 4 24 of 1, 14 1 h 2/ 10 14, 1/3/ $ 16, 21, 11/5/ W 1111/2/2 12/11 1/11/11/11/11/2 4/25, 1/2 - 11 1/2 1/2 1/2 Jul 1 1111, 4 224, 11 31 1 11 14, 42, 112 42, 124 1/4 14, 14 724, Experience with it is it is a factor of the second in another to Ters 124 MA, WILLEY ALD'S JUHIAR MESALLE ! no Market 16/6/2, 1 40/101 "plant, in a wife of you 31000 21, 122, 114 21, 240 1 124, 1 1628, 12 121, 12 161, 2 0; 51.14, 110 But 111, 12 14/ 1/1 21 16/2, (11.14, 4) MANTER CHIEF TO THE STATE SHE STEER CHIEF STATERS 43 d. 1/4 10, 11, 12. 11 10, 14 10 10 10 10 10 10, 1110 10, 11/1 11. 20/1 that was ; at the fresher of the in the past, we be followed experience of the said and along the contraction 13 1321 10 AC VIS 6 A. Y. C. A. VIVAR.

She service the service of the servi

tence of a light dough. Finish as described for No. 11.

15. BANNOCKS.—A pound of fine oatmeal, a salt-spoonful of salt, and half an ounce of baking powder having been sifted and mixed, rub into it an ounce of butter, and then moisten with water in sufficient quantity to make a thick dough. Roll this out as thin as possible, divide it into quarters, and halve each of them; lay these one by one on a heated iron frying-pan upon the hot plate, bake, turning them on each side. Toast afterwards in front of the fire till crisp.

16. IRISH BANNOCKS.—Warm half a pint of milk and dissolve in it three ounces of butter; mix into this a pound of wheatmeal, half an ounce of baking powder, and a saltspoonful of salt. Mix to a stiff dough. Turn this upon the board, roll it out three-quarters of an inch thick, and cut into six cakes. Bake in the manner just described, and serve dusted over with flour on a hot napkin.

17. OAT CAKES.—As a rule, the directions given for these wholesome cakes counsel the cook to roll them out as thin as possible. This, of course, is simply a matter of taste, and with cheese perhaps the thin cake is very nice, but for breakfast I think a thicker cake is better. For these take one pound of oatmeal—coarse or fine, as may be preferred—rub into this two ounces of butter with a small teaspoonful of salt, and then moisten with sufficient water to make a smooth dough. Pat this into a round mass and lay it upon a floured board, roll it out not less than a quarter of an inch thick, cut this into three and a half inch squares, halve these by cutting them across from corner to corner, forming triangular shapes, and bake in the pan till firm and thoroughly done. Dust over with sifted meal and serve in a hot napkin.

18, DEVILLED BISCUIT. — Take a dozen plain water biscuits, or six "Bath Olivers." If the former be only two inches in diameter, six can be done at a time in a large, or three in a medium, pan as follows: Put an ounce of butter into a large, or half an ounce into a small, frying-pan over a low fire: as soon as it begins to melt, lay the biscuits upon it, turning them over the fire till the butter browns, pepper well with grill seasoning (page 37). Put them on a very hot dish, and pour the browned butter over them, and serve. Or if liked very dry, lay them, after having been thus cooked, on a wire drainer, and set them in the oven for a minute or two, serving as hot as possible, closely covered in a hot silver dish.

Biscuit à l'Indienne is prepared as the foregoing, but curry powder is dusted over it instead of the plain seasoning of pepper and salt. Some even like an addition of a couple of drops of tabasco on each biscuit.

Bath Olivers or three-inch water biscuits ought to be done separately one after another.

19. CRUMPETS.—In London and most towns crumpets can be so easily procured from "the manufacturer," that very few people take the trouble to make them at home. In the country this is different; besides, there may be some who, among other experiments, would like to try this:—Thoroughly mix together twelve ounces of Vienna flour, a small saltspoonful of salt, and three-quarters of an ounce of Yeatman's baking powder; then stir in an ounce of butter, melted, one egg well beaten, and enough milk to form a smooth batter. With this half fill six or eight well-buttered muffin rings, which should be laid beforehand on a heated iron pan. Watch, and when the batter rises somewhat, turn each crumpet carefully, and finish the baking without further turning. Toast lightly, butter, and serve in the usual manner, Coming straight from the pan in this way, they will be found nicer than those bought cold and toasted afterwards.

20. SOUTHERN INDIAN CRUMPETS, OR "APUMS."
—Put one pound and a half of rice flour into a pan, dilute it to a stiff paste with lukewarm water, in which half an ounce of fresh German yeast has been dissolved. Let this remain all night; next day moisten this with the juice of a cocoanut to the consistency of firmish batter, and put a gill of this at a time into a heated and buttered pan over the hot plate, covering the pan closely. When nicely risen and browned round the edges the "apum" is ready. Repeat the process with similar quantities of the mixture till all of it is expended: serve very hot on a napkin, dusted over with salt.

Cocoanut juice is made as follows: Scrape the nutty part of a cocoanut into fine shreds, put these in a bowl, pour scalding water over them, moistening them well. After half an hour's infusion, strain the liquid into a bowl, and putting the nut scrapings into a piece of muslin, squeeze all the moisture out of them into the strained juice. This extract of cocoanut is what the Southern Indian cook uses in curry making under the name of "cocoanut milk," a fluid that it resembles in appearance. The water inside the nut is not "cocoanut milk" from this standpoint.

21. OATMEAL PORRIDGE.—This is a deservedly popular thing for breakfast. To prepare it, weigh a couple of ounces of oatmeal, put three-quarters of a pint of water in a saucepan, set it on the fire and bring it to the boil; cast into it a pinch (the eighth of an ounce) of salt, and then dredge in the oatmeal, stirring with a wooden spoon while the operation is being carried out. Simmer for forty minutes, by which time the oatmeal should have absorbed the water and be swollen and soft. It can now be served accompanied by a jug of hot milk, sugar or salt being added according to taste, the latter obviously for choice. Cream is, of course, a favourite adjunct with many, but does it not detract from the well-known wholesomeness of the porridge? I think so.

Those who like their porridge at its best will find the following process a good one:—Let the prepared oatmeal be sent in it its saucepan, set this on a spirit lamp in the breakfast-room, stirring in cold milk in sufficient quantity to bring the porridge to the desired consistency; wait till air bubbles begin to rise to the surface, and turn it into a very hot soup plate. Hot milk can be used if liked, but remember that there is a difference in the flavour of boiled and unboiled milk. By this plan a properly hot porridge is certain in a couple of minutes.

The proportions given will yield two large or three small portions. If the oatmeal absorbs the water too quickly in the cooking, additional hot water should be stirred in. Some oatmeals are more floury than others, and as much as a pint of water may be needed for two ounces.

22. DRY TOAST.—A very simple thing to be sure, yet how often is it maltreated—scorched outside, spongy within, and flabby? The bread should not be new; it should be cut in quarter inch slices, and toasted at some little distance from the clear smokeless embers, patiently, till each side has turned a nice pale golden brown. Sir Henry Thompson's dry toast is made in this way:—The slices are cut somewhat thicker — three-eighths of an inch — and slightly coloured on both sides. A sharp knife is then passed horizontally through the softish centre part, making two pieces of each slice. The inner sides are now toasted, and nice crisp dry toast is the result.

23. ANTI-FAT TOAST, for those who have to think twice about eating bread, is easily made as follows:—Cut a stale tin-baked loaf into thin slices (one-eighth of an inch thick at the outside), lay these on a wire drainer in the oven till they crispen and turn yellowish brown. If a good quantity of it be prepared, this toast can be kept in a biscuit tin, and will be quite nice for two or three days. Excellent whether for breakfast, luncheon, or dinner.

INDEX.

DISHES OF FISH.

PAGE	PAGE
Anchovy butter for fish 21	Fresh haddock (anchovy
Baked fish in scallop shells 9	butter) 20
Do. smelts 109	butter) 20 Fresh herrings au gratin 13
Do. smelts 109 Do. sole 136	Do. do. fillets of fried 115
Brill, fillets of, à la meunière 122	Fricassee of cod and oysters 52
Do. do. do. with tomatoes 138
Do. fried 74	Fried brill 74 Do. fillets of herring 115
Do. molé of (Indian) 23	Do. fish à l'Indienne 77
Do. smoked (do.) 49	Do. flounders (tomato butter) 44
Broiled mackerel 29	Do. plaice (shrimp butter) 58
Capers butter for fish 35	Do. shell-fish 79
Cod and oysters fricassee 52	Do. smelts 26
	Do. smelts 26 Do. soles (capers butter) 36
Do. in custard sauce 130 Do. salt, with eggs and	Do sprate
Do. sait, with eggs and	Do. sprats 125 Do. trout marinaded 117
mashed potatoes 70	Do whitings (angites d'hital
Cod's-roe cutlets 95	Do. whitings (maître d'hôtel
Custard, fish pudding with 42	butter) 17 Fritters, fish 39
Do. sauce for fish 130	Fritters, fish 39
Cutlets, cod's-roe 95	Do. Samion 127
Do. fish 32 Do. lobster, à la Turque 62	Do. salmon 127 Do. semolina of fish 81 Grilled mackerel 29
Do. lobster, à la Turque 62	Grilled mackerel 29
Do. of moulded fish 107	Do. salmon, slices of 89
Do. oyster 119	Haddock, dried, egg sauce 60
Dried haddock with egg sauce 60	Do. fresh, au gratin 20
Flounders, fried 44	Do. mould of 98
Fillets of brill à la meunière 122	Hake, orlys of 83
Do. do. do. with tomatoes 138	Herrings, fresh, au gratin 13
Do. do. hake, orlys of 83	Do. do. fillets of, fried 115
Do. do. herrings, fried 115	Horseradish zest sauce for
Do. do. sole, with shrimps 65	mackerel 29
Fish, anchovy butter for 21	Khitchri 47
Do. baked in scallops 9	Kippered salmon 85
Fish, anchovy butter for 21 Do. baked in scallops 9 Do. cutlets 32 Do. do. of moulded 107 Do. fritters 81	Lobster cutlets à la Turque 62
Do. do. of moulded 107	Mackerel, broiled 29
Do. fritters 81	Maître d'hôtel butter for fish 17
Do. knitchri 47	Marinade for fish 74
Do. moulded cutlets of 107	Marinaded trout 117
Do. pudding, with custard 42	Marinaded trout 117 Molé of brill (Indian) 23 Moulded haddock 98
Do. do. with potato 34 Do. do. with rice 92	Moulded haddock 98
Do. do. with rice 92	Umelette of oysters 137
Do. semolina, fritters of 81 Do. shell, fried 79	Do. of salmon 139 Orlys of hake 83
Do. shell, fried 79	Orlys of hake 83
Do. stewed 72	Ovster and cod fricassee 52

PAGE	PAGE
Oyster cutlets 119	Smoked brill 49
Do. sauce 110	Sole as whitebalt 101
Salmon fritters 127	Do. fillets, with shrimps 65
Do. kippered 85 Do. omelette 139	Do. fried 36
Do. omelette 139	Do. in the oven 136
Do. slices of grilled 89	Sprats, fried 125
Salt cod, with eggs and	Stewed fish 72
potatoes 70	Tomato butter for fish 44
Sardines an gratin 55	Trout marinaded and fried 117
Scalded whitings 112	Water-zootje 133
Scallops of fish, baked 104	Whitebait 87
Seabream on the dish 104	Do. mock, with sole 101
Semolina fritters of fish 8t	Whitings au gratin 67
Shrimp butter for fish 58	Do. fried 17 Do. scalded 112
Smelts, baked 109	Do. scalded 112
Do. fried 26	Zootje-water 133
DISHES OF MEAT.
Beef, minced, with macaroni 23	Fowl, broiled, with mushrooms 125
Do. "twice-laid" of 83	Do. devilled 17
Do. "twice-laid" of 83 Bread-crumbed kidneys 50 Breast of mutton, grilled 93	Do. jambalaia of 138
Breast of mutton, grilled 93
Broiled fowl and mushrooms 125	Do. marinaded 58 Fritôt of pigeon 134
	Game, mixed, crépinettes of 56
Calf's liver à l'Italienne 70 Chicken à la chevalier 105	Do. salmis of 74
Do. and ham, moulds of 68	Grilled breast of mutton 93
Do. do. rissoles of 53	Do. partridges 26
Do. do. rissoles of 53 Do. cutlets (Indian) 99	Grouse, purée, in scallops 43
Do. kromeskis 109	Ham and chicken moulds 68
Do. purée, with mush-	Do. do. rissoles 53
rooms 80	Do. and veal scallops 128
Chips, potato 20	Do. steaks 90 Ha-hed mutton 14
Cold meat cutlets, with bacon 35	Ha-hed mutton 14
Crépinettes of mixed game 56	Irish stew (Wyvern's way) 65
Croquettes of mixed meats 85	Jambalaia of fowl 138 Kidneys à la brochette 10
Croustades of do 95	Kidneys à la brochette 10
Curry cutlets, chutney sauce 44	Do. bread-crumbed 50 Do. devilled 60 Do. stewed with mush-
Do. dry, on toast 130	Do. devilled 60
Do. dry, on toast 130 Cutlets, chicken (Indian) 99	Do. stewed with mush-
Do. mutton, with niush-	rooms 40
rooms 20	Do. veal à l'Italienne 32
Do. of cold meat, with	Kromeskis of chicken 109
bacon 35	Kubàbs of liver and oysters 77
Do. of curried meat, chut-	Liver (calf's), à l'Italienne 70
ney sauce 44	Do. and oyster kubàbs 77
Do. potato 113	Marinaded fowl or turkey 58
Devilled fowl, chutney sauce 17	Minced beef, with macaroni 23
Do. kidneys 60	Moulds of ham and chicken 68
Do. ox-tongue 107	Mutton, breast of, grilled 93
Do. sheeps'-tongues 123	Do. cutlets and mush-
Do. turkey 36	rooms 20
Dry curry on toast 130 Epigrams of mutton 72	Do. epigrams 72
Epigrams of mutton 72	Do. epigrams 72 Do. hashed 14 Ox-tongue fillets, devilled - 107
Fillets of ox-tongue, devilled 107	Ox-tongue fillets, devilled - 107

PAGE	PAGE
Oyster and liver kubàbs 77	Steaks, Vienna 87 Stew, Irish (Wyvern's way) 65
Partridges, grilled 26	Stew, Irish (Wyvern's way) 65
	Stewed kidneys, with mush-
Pigeon, fritot of 134 Potato chips 26 Do. cutlets 113	Tongue, ox, fillets of, devilled 107
Do. cutlets 113	Tongue, ox, fillets of, devilled 107
Purée of grouse in scallops 43	Tongues, sheeps' do. 123 Turkey, devilled 36
	Turkey, devilled 36
Rabbit au gratin 115 Salmis of game 74	Do. marinaded 58
Sausages and mashed potato 120	Twice-laid of beef 83
Scallops of yeal and ham 128	Veal and ham scallops 128
Sheeps' tongues, devilled 123	Do. kidneys à l'Italienne 32
Steaks, ham 90	Vienna steaks 87
Ottuto, man in yo	, , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , ,
DISHES (OF EGGS.
E-man hustaned with figure	Eggs, poached, à la voyageuse 82
Eggs, buttered, with fines
herbes 128	Do. do. devilled 75 Do. do. in molé 80
Do. do. grated beef 60
Do. do. mushroonis 106	Do. do. with anchovies 35
Do. do. shrimps 78	Do. do. with artichokes 116
Do. do. mushrooms 106 Do. do. shrimps 78 Do. do. tomatoes 21 Do. do. vegetables 11	Do. do. with green herbs 118
Do. do. vegetables 11	Do. do. with green peas 45
Do. iried with bacon 123	Do. do. with ham 18
Do. hard-boiled à la Borde-	Do. do. with Italian sauce 64
laise 84	Do. do. with mushrooms 43
Do. do. curried 61	Do. do. with prawn or
Do. do. curried 61 Do. do. devilled 75 Do. do. in molé 80	shrimp butter 57
Do. do. in molé 80	Do. do. with shrimp cream 71
Do. do. with oysters 111	Do. do. with tarragon 135
Do. do. with tarragon 135	Do. sur le plat 31
Do. do. with vegetable	Do. do. à la Monaco 97
marrow 38	Do. do. à la Portugaise 121
Do. do. with white sauce 48	Do. do. with bacon 100
Do. in cases 50	Do. do. with liver 126
Do. do. with mushrooms go	Omelettes, à la Soubise 103
Do. do. with ham 108	Do. with artichokes 66
Do. in bread sauce 59	Do. with asparagus 86
Do. in coquilles 93 Do. matelote of 131	Do. with herbes 15
Do. matelote of 131	Do. with mushrooms 33
Do. mollets, with ravigote 40	Do. with oysters 137
Do. do. with Soubise 73	Do. with salmon 139 Do. with shrimps 88
Do. poached à la Colbert 113	Do. with shrimps 88
Do. do. à l'Indienne 27	Do. with mushrooms 33 Do. with oysters 137 Do. with salmon 139 Do. with shrimps 88 Do. with tomatoes 53
Do. do. à la maître d'hôtel 25
FANCY BREAD, ROLLS, &c.
Apums," Southern Indian	Brown flour scones 147
crumpets 150	Do. rolls 144
	Crumb muffins 145
Bannocks 149 Do. Irish 149	Crumpets 149
Baking at home, hints con-	Crumpets 149 Do. Southern Indian : 150
	Devilled biscuits 149
Barleymeal scones 140	Flours, various 141
Biscuits, devilled 149	French rolls 143
111 149

INDEX.

PAGR	PAGE
Girdle, the 147	Rolls, Indian-meal (mazie
lints on baking at home 140	flour) 144
Hot rolls 142 Indian-meal (maize flour) rolls 144	Do. knotted 144
Indian-meal (maize flour) rolls 144	Do. Vienna 143
Irish bannocks 148	Sally Lunns, not sweetened 146
Kneading, process of 141	Scones 146 Do. Barleymeal 146
Knotted rolls 144	Do. Barleymeal 146
Maize flour (Indian-meal) rolls 144	Do. brown flour 147
Materials for home baking 141	Sir Henry Thompson's whole-
Measures 142	meal cake 144
Muffins 145	Southern Indian crumpets 150
Do. Crumb 145 Oat cakes 148	Tea-cake, unsweetened 146
Oat cakes 148 Powder, baking, Yeatman's 141	Utensils for home baking 141
Polla brown	Vienna rolls 143
Rolls, brown 144 Do. French 143	Weights and measures 142 Wholemeal cakes 144
Do. hot 142	Yeatman's baking powder 141
MISCELI	ANEOUS.
Bain-marie, value of 3	Girdle, the 147
Bain-marie, value of 3 Batter for fish fritters 39	Grated cheese to be kept in
Do. do. Indian 77	stock 4
Do. frying 109	Grill seasoning 37
Boiling eggs 6	Grill seasoning 37 Grills, concerning 26, 36
Butter, anchovy 21	Herbaceous mixture 5
Do. capers 36	Italian sauce 33
Do. maître d'hôtel 17	Limoges china ware 3
Do. melted (beurre fondu) 137	Macaroni à la Livornaise 48
Do. shrimp or prawn 57	Marinade for fish 74
Do. tomato 44	Do. for fowl 58
Do. tomato 44 Cheese, grated 4	Marsala the wine for cookery 6
Chutney sauce 18	Mushroom curry 30
Chutney sauce 18 Cocoanut juice 150	Do. fritters 102
Do. milk for curries 150	Omelette-making, process 1. 15
Coffee, making of 8	Do. do. process 2. 53
Cream, use of, not recom-	Oysters, to prepare for sauce,
mended 6	&c 110
Croquettes of eggs 137	Pepper, spiced 5
Do. vermicelli 117	&c 110 Pepper, spiced 5 Potato chips 27
Crumbs, to keep in stock,	Quantities, touching the fix-necessary 4	ing of 5
Curried mushrooms 30	Raspings, to keep in sto 4
Curry cutlets 44	Rice, to boil 30
Curry cutlets 44 Do: vegetable (Malay) 82	Spaghetti à la Milanaise 66
Devil sauce 37	Spiced, pepper 5
Devils, concerning 26, 36	Do. salt 6
Eggs, to boil 6 Fireproof china dishes, use-	Do. salt 6 Spurtle, the 147 Tea, making of 7
Fireproof china dishes, use-	Tea, making of 7
fulness of 3	Universal heater, value of 8
Fish broth for stews, &c 72	Weights and measures 142
Do. frying 4	Wire drainer, use of 4
Do. frying 4 Frying fish 4	Wine in sauces 6
Girdle baking 147

FLORADOR is made in three sizes of grains.

Large Grained for Porridge, Omelettes, Soups, &c.

Medium Grained for Baked or Boiled Puddings, &c.

Fine Grained for Blanc Mange, Cakes, Creams, Infants' Foods, &c.

RECIPES ON PACKETS.

The Lancet says :- "This preparation is excellent."

To be had at Stores and Grocers in $\frac{1}{2}$ and 1 lb. Packets at 6d. per lb., or from Chemists in 1/- Tins.

FLORADOR FOOD CO.,

90, Washington St., Glasgow.

LONDON DEPOT: COWAN & Co., 28 & 29, LONDON WALL, E.C.

THE COMMON-SENSE

Cookery Association.

Managing Director:
COLONEL KENNEY HERBERT.

The objects of this Association are:-

- (1) To provide Lectures in which the rules of good, refined, and economical Cookery will be explained and practically demonstrated.
- (2) To afford opportunities of systematic instruction at moderate cost to Students, Cooks, and others, who are desirous of attaining to efficiency and to qualify for good situations.
- (3) To establish a Registry for Cooks whose antecedents have been ascertained and qualifications tested, and who can, accordingly, be with confidence recommended.

The Registry has been opened at 13, Sloane Street, and the Lectures are delivered on Mondays at the Queen's Gate Hall. Particulars obtainable at GASTRELL'S LIBRARY, 15, Sussex Place, South Kensington.

r. EDWARD ARNOLD'S

LIST OF

AND FORTHCOMING WORKS,

October, 1895.

ICE.—Mr. Edward Arnold has now opened an Office at 0, Fifth Avenue, New York, from which all his new 300ks are distributed in America.

THE LAND OF THE NILE-SPRINGS.

olonel Sir HENRY COLVILE, K.C.M.G., C.B., recently British Commissioner in Uganda.

h Photogravure Frontispiece, 16 Full-page Illustrations and 2 Maps, demy 8vo., 16s.

MMARY OF CONTENTS.—The Road to the Lake—Usoga anda—Kampala—Preparations for War—Concentration he Frontier—Crossing the Kafu—Occupation of the tal—Chasing Kabarega—The Investment of the Forest—pation of Kibiro—The Magungu Expedition—The elai Expedition—The Chain of Forts—Return to Uganda arade and Policy—Life at Port Alice—Affairs at Unyoro, FIRE AND SWORD IN THE SUDAN.

A personal Narrative of Fighting and Serving the Dervishes, 1879-1895.

By SLATIN PASHA, Colonel in the Egyptian Army, formerly Governor and Commandant of the Troops in Darfur.

Translated and Edited by Major F. R. WINGATE, R.A., D.S.O.

Author of 'Mahdiism and the Egyptian Soudan,' etc.

Fully Illustrated by R. TALBOT KELLY.

Demy 8vo., One Guinea net.

Slatin Pasha was by far the most important of the European prisoners in the Soudan. Before the Mahdi's victories he held the post of Governor of Darfur, and was in command of large military forces. He fought no fewer than twenty-seven pitched battles before he was compelled to surrender, and is the only surviving soldier who has given an eye-witness account of the terrible fighting that occurred during the Mahdist struggle for supremacy. He was present as a prisoner during the siege of Khartoum, and it was to his feet that Gordon's head was brought in revengeful triumph within an hour of the city's fall.

The narrative is brought up to the present year, when Slatin Pasha's marvellous escape took place, and the incidents of his captivity have been so indelibly graven on his memory that his account of them has all the freshness of a romance.

From a military and historical standpoint the book is of the highest value. Slatin Pasha's various expeditions penetrated into regions as yet almost unknown to Europeans, but destined apparently to be the subject of serious complications in the near future. The map of these regions is believed to be the first authentic one produced. There is also a careful groundplan of Khartoum and Omdurman, which might be of immense service in case of military operations.

The work is furnished with numerous spirited illustrations by Mr. R. Talbot Kelly, who is personally familiar with the Nile Valley, and has worked under the direct supervision of Slatin

Pasha and Major Wingate,

CYCLING FOR HEALTH AND PLEASURE.

By L. H. PORTER,

Author of 'Wheels and Wheeling,' etc.

Revised and edited by

F. W. SHORLAND, Amateur Champion 1892-93-94.

With numerous Illustrations, small 8vo., 2s. 6d.

STRENGTH;

Or, The Development and Use of Muscle.

By the Champion, C. A. SAMPSON, 'The strongest man on earth.'

With nearly forty illustrations, 8vo., cloth, 2s. 6d.

TWO NEW COOKERY BOOKS BY COLONEL KENNEY-HERBERT.

FIFTY LUNCHES.

FIFTY DINNERS.

By COLONEL A. KENNEY HERBERT,

Author of 'Common-Sense Cookery,' 'Fifty Breakfasts,' etc.

Each vol., crown 8vo., cloth, 2s. 6d.

POULTRY FATTENING.

By EDWARD BROWN,

Author of 'Pleasurable Poultry Keeping,' etc.

With Illustrations, crown 8vo., cloth, 1s. 6d.

TWELVE HUNDRED MILES IN AN OX-WAGGON.

By ALICE BALFOUR.

With Illustrations by the Author.

Cloth, 8vo., 16s.

The recollection of Miss Balfour's picturesque account of her tour in Ireland with her brother, the Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, M.P., some years ago, will increase the interest with which this volume will be anticipated. Last year the author made the tour in South Africa here recorded the party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Grey (now Lord and Lady Grey), the Hon. H. W. Fitzwilliam and Mr. G. Grey, and the journey was from Cape Town to Salisbury, thence to the coast at Beira, and home by Dar es Salaam and Zanzibar. For no less than twelve hundred miles of their journey the party travelled in ox-waggons, and thus experienced a full share of the entertaining vicissitudes of the Trekker's life. This portion of the tour has been described in the National Review, where it attracted much attention.

An important feature of the book will be a number of illustrations by the Author.

DIARIES OF GEORGE HOWARD, EARL OF CARLISLE.

Edited by VISCOUNT MORPETH.

The author of these Diaries, George William Frederick Howard, K.G., Earl of Carlisle, best known as Lord Morpeth, was born in 1802 and died in 1864. The Diary begins in 1843, and was continued by Lord Carlisle until his death. During this period he held successively the offices of Chief Commissioner of Woods and Forests (1846-1850), Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland (1855-58 and 1859-64). The Diaries contain frequent allusions to most of the political, literary, and social personages of the time, with whom Lord Carlisle necessarily enjoyed intimate acquaintance.

THE EXPLORATION OF THE CAUCASUS.

By DOUGLAS W. FRESHFIELD, F.R.G.S., President of the A pine Club, Author of 'Travels in the Central Caucasus,' 'The Italian Alps,' etc.

In two volumes, imperial 8vo., 45s. net. Also a Large-paper Edition of 100 copies, £5 5s. net.

Illustrated by over 70 Full-page Photogravures and several Mountain Panoramas, chiefly from Photographs by Signor VITTORIO SELLA, and executed under his immediate superintendence, and by more than 100 Illustrations in the Text, of the Scenery, People, and Buildings of the Mountain Region of the Caucasus, from Photographs by SIGNOR SELLA, M. DE DÉCHY, Mr. H. WOOLLEY, and the late Mr. W. F. DONKIN.

These volumes, intended to form a record of the exploration of the Caucasus since 1868 by Members of the Alpine Club, as well as a narrative of the author's recent journeys in that region, will constitute one of the most complete and lavishly illustrated works on mountain travel ever published in this country.

The letterpress will include a concise account of the physical characteristics of the central portion of the Caucasian chain, and a sketch of the principal travels and adventures of the mountaineers who have penetrated its fastnesses, and conquered summits, eleven of which are higher than Mont Blanc.

The personal narrative will consist of the story of two summers recently spent among the glaciers and forests of the Caucasus by the author, who was a member of the Search Expedition which went out to ascertain the locality and nature of the catastrophe by which Mr. W. F. Donkin and Mr. H. Fox with their guides lost their lives in 1888, extracts from the diary of Mr. Fox, and accounts of the first ascents of Kostantau and Ushba by Mr. H. Woolley and Mr. Cockin.

An Appendix will contain a mass of novel and systematically arranged topographical detail, which, it is hoped, may prove of great service to future travellers and mountaineers.

District Maps on the scale of the old official map (3 miles to the inch), forming together a complete map of the chain from Kasbeck to Elbruz, are being prepared for the book mainly from the unpublished sheets of the recent Russian surveys, which have been generously placed at Mr. Freshfield's disposal by General Kulberg.

STUDIES IN EARLY VICTORIAN LITERATURE, 1837-1870.

By FREDERIC HARRISON, M.A.,

Author of 'The Choice of Books,' etc.

Large crown 8vo., cloth, tos. 6d.

CONTENTS.

VICTORIAN LITERATURE. LORD MACAULAY. THOMAS CARLYLE. BENJAMIN DISRAELI. CHARLOTTE BRONTE. ANTHONY TROLLOPE.
CHARLES DICKENS.
WILLIAM MAKEPEACE THACKERAY.
CHARLES KINGSLEY.
GEORGE FLIOT

The essays contained in this volume have already appeared in the Forum, but they were written originally on a definite preconceived plan with a view to subsequent publication, and may be taken as an expression of the author's mature literary estimate of the great Victorian writers.

THE STORY OF TWO SALONS.

By EDITH SICHEL.

With Three Full-page Plates. Large crown 8vo., cloth, 10s. 6d.

Miss Sichel says in her preface: 'There are some secrets which the past keeps jealously from us, and among these the secret of the art of society which lies hidden in France, in the Paris of the eighteenth century, in the graves of tender ladies and frilled philosophers, as sparkling as they were profound. We have good things unknown to them, more important than theirs. Our faith is wider and warmer; our outlook larger. We have sturdier morals and more ardent activities; but the lesser good must go. It is our sense of this which makes us venture to revive some of the less-known salons of eighteenth-century Paris. The Suards and Pauline de Beaumont are names unfamiliar to English ears; but the bye-ways are more adventurous than the highroads, and provide us with many unexpected points of view. For this reason alone are they worth pursuing; still more so if they could only impart some perception of 'that sociability which distinguishes France; that charming interchange of intellect, as easy as it is rapid; that absence of bitterness or prejudice; that inattention to fortune or to reputation; that natural levelling of all ranks; that equality of mind which makes French society incomparable and redeems its faults."'

THE ROMANCE OF PRINCE EUGENE.

An Idyll under Napoleon the First.

By ALBERT PULITZER.

With numerous Photogravure Illustrations, in two volumes, demy 8vo., 21s.

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

By WALTER RALEIGH, Professor of English Literature at Liverpool University College.

Author of 'The English Novel,' etc.

Crown 8vo., cloth, 2s. 6d.

BENJAMIN JOWETT, MASTER OF BALLIOL.

A Personal Memoir.

By the HON. LIONEL TOLLEMACHE,

Author of 'Safe Studies,' etc.

Crown 8vo., cloth, 3s. 6d.

KLEINES HAUSTHEATER.

Fifteen Little Plays in German for Children.

By Mrs. HUGH BELL.

Crown 8vo., cloth, 2s.

Most of these little plays have been adapted from the author's 'Petit Théâtre,' the remainder from a little book of English plays by the same writer entitled 'Nursery Comedies.'

NEW STORY BY THE AUTHOR OF 'MISS BLAKE OF MONKSHALTON.'

ON THE THRESHOLD.

By ISABELLA O. FORD,

Author of 'Miss Blake of Monkshalton.

One vol., crown 8vo., 3s. 6d.

NEW STORY BY THE AUTHOR OF 'MERRIE ENGLAND.'

TOMMY ATKINS.

A Tale of the Ranks.

By ROBERT BLATCHFORD.

Author of ' A Son of the Forge,' 'Merrie England,' etc.

Crown 8vo., cloth, 6s.

WAGNER'S HEROES.

TANNHAUSER, PARSIFAL. HANS SACHS LOHENGRIN.

By CONSTANCE MAUD.

Illustrated by H. GRANVILLE FELL.

Crown 8vo., handsomely bound, 5s.

'These are just simple tales about men and women who once really lived on the earth, and about whom the greatest of poet-musicians wrote in that wonderful music-language of his which speaks straight to the heart. And in this language he told us many things about Parsifal, Lohengrin, Tannhauser, and dear old Hans Sachs, which cannot by any human power be put into words; but in so far as he did make use of words to explain his marvellous music, I have tried to use the same, and above all never to depart from his idea of the heroes he loved.'—From the Preface.

LIFE'S PRESCRIPTION.

In Seven Doses.

By D. MACLAREN MORRISON.

Crown 8vo., parchment, 1s. 6d.

CONTENTS.—1. The Pride of Life. 2. Education. 3. Man. 4. Woman. 5. Marriage. 6. Parents. 7. Home.

A few pages of advice to men and women on the management of their lives; the reader can hardly fail to be interested in the shrewd and sensible remarks, knowledge of life, sound advice and pleasant anecdote with which the book is enlivened.

A LITTLE TOUR IN AMERICA.

By the Very Rev. S. REYNOLDS HOLE, Dean of Rochester.

Author of 'A Little Tour in Ireland,' 'The Memories of Dean Hole,
'A Book about Roses,' etc.

With numerous Illustrations, demy 8vo., 16s.

Dean Hole visited the United States in the winter of 1894-95, and gave lectures in almost all the principal cities. His personal popularity and great reputation as an author and preacher enabled him to see everything under the most favourable circumstances, and he was received with the warmest hospitality by all circles. He has embodied in this volume the results of his shrewd and kindly observation of American men and manners in a way that will bring home to the reader a true picture of the Great Republic viewed through the goodhumoured but keen eyes of a friendly inquirer.

None of Dean Hole's works have taken a more lasting hold upon the public than the well-known 'Little Tour in Ireland,' and it is hoped that the present volume may prove equally popular.

MEMORIES OF MASHONALAND.

By the Right Rev. BISHOP KNIGHT BRUCE, formerly Bishop of Mashonaland.

With Photogravure Frontispiece, cloth, 8vo., 10s. 6d.

Bishop Knight Bruce occupied the See of Mashonaland during the interesting period of its development from savage independence to a more civilized condition. His intimate association with the natives gave him such opportunities of studying their manners and habits as have rarely fallen to the lot of Europeans. To all who are interested in missionary work the book will be especially valuable; but in a land where the missionary is the true pioneer of civilization—the land of Livingstone and Moffat—Bishop Knight Bruce's work was necessarily of an extremely varied character, and the record is full of entertainment for the general reader.

NEW BOOKS FOR YOUNG PEOPLE.

PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS EACH.

ERIC THE ARCHER.

By MAURICE HERVEY, Author of 'The Reef of Gold,' etc.

With numerous Full-page Illustrations, handsomely bound, crown 8vo., 5s.

DR. GILBERT'S DAUGHTERS.

By MARGARET HARRIET MATHEWS.

Illustrated by CHRIS. HAMMOND.

Crown 8vo., cloth, 5s.

THE FUR SEAL'S TOOTH.

By KIRK MUNROE.

Beautifully Illustrated, crown 8vo., cloth, 5s.

HOW DICK AND MOLLY WENT ROUND THE WORLD.

By M. H. CORNWALL LEGH.

With numerous Illustrations, fcap. 4to., cloth, 5s.

PRICE THREE SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE EACH.

HUNTERS THREE.

By THOMAS W. KNOX, Author of 'The Boy Travellers,' etc.

With numerous Illustrations, crown 8vo., cloth, 3s. 6d.

THE SECRET OF THE DESERT.

By E. D. FAWCETT,

Author of 'Swallowed by an Earthquake,' etc.

With Full-page Illustrations, crown 8vo., cloth, 3s. 6d.

JOEL: A BOY OF GALILEE.

By ANNIE FELLOWS JOHNSTON.

With Ten Full-page Illustrations, crown 8vo., cloth, 3s. 6d.

THE MUSHROOM CAVE.

By EVELYN RAYMOND,

Author of 'The Little Lady of the Horse.'

With Illustrations, crown 8vo., cloth, 3s. 6d.

THE CHILDREN'S HOUR SERIES.

'A pause in the day's occupations
That is known as The Children's Hour.'—Longfellow.

This series will consist of continuous stories for boys and girls from about seven to ten years of age; great care will be taken by the authors to make the books really interesting to young readers, so that the title of the series may not be misapplied. Large type will be used, and each volume will be illustrated with several full-page pictures specially drawn for it.

The following volumes are just ready, price Half-a-crown each:

MASTER MAGNUS.

By MRS. E. M. FIELD,

Author of 'Ethne,' 'Little Count Paul,' 'Mixed Pickles,' etc.

With Four Full-page Illustrations, small 8vo., 2s. 6d.

MY DOG PLATO.

By M. H. CORNWALL LEGH,

Author of 'How Dick and Molly went Round the World,' etc.

With Four Full-page Illustrations, small 8vo., 28. 6d.

Further Volumes are in preparation.

NEW VOLUMES OF THE CHILDREN'S FAVOURITE SERIES.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS EACH; SPECIALLY BOUND, GILT EDGES, 2s. 6d.

MY BOOK OF PERILS.

Exciting stories of adventure and hairbreadth escapes.

MY BOOK OF WONDERS.

An account of some of the most marvellous things in the world described in an interesting way for children.

TRAVELS, SPORT, AND EXPLORATION.

- Balfour—MY SOUTH AFRICAN JOURNEY. (See page 4.)
- Colville—THE LAND OF THE NILE SPRINGS. (See page 1.)
- Freshfield—EXPLORATION OF THE CAUCASUS. (See page 5.)
- Hole—A LITTLE TOUR IN AMERICA. (See page 9.)

- Hole—A LITTLE TOUR IN IRELAND. By An Oxonian (the Very Rev. S. R. Hole, Dean of Rochester). With nearly forty Illustrations by John Leech, including the famous steel Frontispiece of the 'Claddagh.' Large imperial 16mo., handsomely bound, gilt top, 10s. 6d.
 -  Unly a few copies of this edition now remain.
- Portal—THE BRITISH MISSION TO UGANDA. By the late Sir Gerald Portal, K.C.M.G. Edited by Rennell Rodd, C.M.G. With an Introduction by the Right Honourable Lord Cromer, G.C.M.G. Illustrated from photos taken during the Expedition by Colonel Rhodes. Demy 8vo., 21s.
- Portal—MY MISSION TO ABYSSINIA. By the late Sir GERALD H. PORTAL, C.B. With Map and Illustrations. Demy 8vo., 15s.
- Slatin FIRE AND SWORD IN THE SUDAN. (See page 2.)

AMERICAN SPORT AND TRAVEL.

These books, selected from the Catalogue of MESSRS. RAND MCNALLY & Co., the well-known publishers of Chicago, have been placed in MR. EDWARD ARNOLD'S hands under the impression that many British Travellers and Sportsmen may find them useful before starting on expeditions in the United States.

- Aldrich—ARCTIC ALASKA AND SIBERIA; or, Eight Months with the Arctic Whalemen. By HERBERT L. ALDRICH. Crown 8vo., cloth, 4s. 6d.
- AMERICAN GAME FISHES. Their Habits, Habitat, and Peculiarities; How, When, and Where to Angle for them. By various Writers. Cloth, 10s. 6d.
- Higgins—NEW GUIDE TO THE PACIFIC COAST. Santa Fé Route. By C. A. HIGGINS. Crown 8vo., cloth, 4s. 6d.
- Leffingwell—THE ART OF WING-SHOOTING. A Practical Treatise on the Use of the Shot-gun. By W. B. LEFFINGWELL.
 With numerous Illustrations. Crown 8vo., cloth, 4s. 6d.
- Shields CAMPING AND CAMP OUTFITS. By G. O. SHIELDS ('Coquina'). Containing also Chapters on Camp Medicine, Cookery, and How to Load a Packhorse. Crown 8vo., cloth, 5s.

- Shields—THE AMERICAN BOOK OF THE DOG. By various Writers. Edited by G. O. SHIELDS ('Coquina'). Cloth, 15s.
- Thomas—SWEDEN AND THE SWEDES. By WILLIAM WIDGERY THOMAS, Jun., United States Minister to Sweden and Norway. With numerous Illustrations. Cloth, 16s.

HISTORY AND BIOGRAPHY.

- Benson and Tatham—MEN OF MIGHT. Studies of Great Characters. By A. C. Benson, M.A., and H. F. W. Tatham, M.A., Assistant Masters at Eton College. Second Edition. Crown 8vo., cloth, 3s. 6d.
- Boyle—THE RECOLLECTIONS OF THE DEAN OF SALISBURY. By the Very Rev. G. D. BOYLE, Dean of Salisbury. With Photogravure Portrait. 1 vol., denny 8vo., cloth, 16s.
- Custance—RIDING RECOLLECTIONS AND TURF STORIES. By HENRY CUSTANCE, three times winner of the Derby. One vol., crown 8vo., cloth, 2s. 6d.
- 'An admirable sketch of turf history during a very interesting period, well and humorously written.'--Sporting Life.
- Sherard—ALPHONSE DAUDET: a Biography and Critical Study. By R. H. SHERARD, Editor of 'The Memoirs of Baron Meneval,' etc. With Illustrations. Demy 8vo., 15s.
- Fowler—ECHOES OF OLD COUNTY LIFE. Recollections of Sport, Society, Politics, and Farming in the Good Old Times. By J. K. FOWLER, of Aylesbury. Second Edition, with numerous Illustrations, 8vo., 10s. 6d. Also a large-paper edition, of 200 copies only, 21s. net.
 - 'A very entertaining volume of reminiscences, full of good stories.'-Truth.
- Hare—MARIA EDGEWORTH: her Life and Letters. Edited By Augustus J. C. Hare, Author of 'The Story of Two Noble Lives,' etc. Two vols., crown 8vo., with Portraits, 16s. nct.
- 'Mr. Hare has written more than one good book in his time, but he has never produced anything nearly so entertaining and valuable as his latest contribution to biography and literature.'—Saturday Review

- Hole—THE MEMORIES OF DEAN HOLE. By the Very Rev. S. REYNOLDS HOLE, Dean of Rochester. With the original Illustrations from sketches by LEECH and THACKERAY. New Edition, twelfth thousand, one vol., crown 8vo., 6s.
- 'One of the most delightful collections of reminiscences that this generation has seen.

 —Daily Chronicle.
- Hole—MORE MEMORIES: Being Thoughts about England Spoken in America. By the Very Rev. S. REYNOLDS HOLE, Dean of Rochester. With Frontispiece. Demy 8vo., 16s.
 - 'Full alike of contagious fun and mature wisdom.'-Daily Chronicle.
- Kay—OMARAH'S HISTORY OF YAMAN. The Arabic Text, edited, with a translation, by Henry Cassels Kay, Member of the Royal Asiatic Society. Demy 8vo., cloth, 17s. 6d. net.
- Knight-Bruce—MEMORIES OF MASHONALAND. (See page 9.)
- W. E. H. LECKY, D.C.L., LL.D. An Address delivered at the Midland Institute, reprinted with additions. Crown 8vo., cloth, 2s. 6d.
- Le Fanu—SEVENTY YEARS OF IRISH LIFE. Being the Recollections of W. R. LE FANU. Third Edition, one vol., demy 8vo., 16s. With Portraits of the Author and J. SHERIDAN LE FANU.
- 'It will delight all readers—English and Scotch no less than Irish, Nationalists no less than Unionists, Roman Catholics no less than Orangemen.'—Times.
- Macdonald—THE MEMOIRS OF THE LATE SIR JOHN

 A. MACDONALD, G.C.B., First Prime Minister of Canada. Edited by JOSEPH POPE, his Private Secretary. With Portraits. Two vols., demy 8vo., 32s.
- Milner—ENGLAND IN EGYPT. By Sir Alfred Milner, K.C.B. Popular Edition, with an Additional Prefatory Chapter on Egypt in 1894. Large crown 8vo., with Map, cloth, 7s. 6d.

^{&#}x27;No journalist or public man ought to be permitted to write or speak about Egypt for the next five years unless he can solemnly declare that he has read it from cover to cover.

—Daily Chronicle.

Morpeth—LORD CARLISLE'S DIARIES. (See page 4.)

Oman—A HISTORY OF ENGLAND. By CHARLES OMAN, Fellow of All Souls' College, and Lecturer in History at New College, Oxford; Author of 'Warwick the Kingmaker,' 'A History of Greece,' etc. Crown 8vo., cloth, 4s. 6d. net.

'This is the nearest approach to the ideal School History of England which has yet been written.'—Guardian.

Pulitzer—THE ROMANCE OF PRINCE EUGENE. (See page 6.)

Raleigh—R. L. STEVENSON. (See page 7.)

Ransome—THE BATTLES OF FREDERICK THE GREAT;
Extracts from Carlyle's 'History of Frederick the Great.' Edited by CYRIL RANSOME, M.A., Professor of History in the Yorkshire College, Leeds.
With a Map specially drawn for this work, Carlyle's original Battle-Plans.
and Illustrations by ADOLPH MENZEL. Cloth, imperial 16mo., 5s.

Santley—STUDENT AND SINGER. The Reminiscences of Charles Santley. New Edition, crown 8vo., cloth, 6s.

Tollemache—BENJAMIN JOWETT. (See page 7.)

Twining—RECOLLECTIONS OF LIFE AND WORK.

Being the Autobiography of LOUISA TWINING. One vol., 8vo., cloth, 15s.

LITERATURE AND BELLES LETTRES.

WORKS BY THE REV. CANON BELL, D.D.,

Rector of Cheltenham and Honorary Canon of Carlisle.

DIANA'S LOOKING GLASS, and other Poems.

Crown 8vo., cloth, 5s. net.

POEMS OLD AND NEW.

Crown 8vo., cloth, 7s. 6d.

THE NAME ABOVE EVERY NAME, and other Sermons.

Crown 8vo., cloth, 5s.

Butler—SELECT ESSAYS OF SAINTE BEUVE. Chiefly bearing on English Literature. Translated by A. J. BUTLER, Translator of 'The Memoirs of Baron Marbot.' One vol., 8vo., cloth, 5s. net.

'English readers should not fail to make themselves acquainted with the work of one of the clearest, most broadly tolerant, and sanest critics of their literature that France has produced.'—Daily Telegraph.

- THORSTEIN OF THE MERE: a Saga of the Northmen in Lakeland. By W. G. COLLINGWOOD, Author of 'Life of John Ruskin,' etc. With Illustrations. Price 10s. 6d.
- Goschen—THE CULTIVATION AND USE OF IMAGINA-TION. By the Right Hon. GEORGE JOACHIM GOSCHEN. Crown 8vo., cloth, 2s. 6d.
- GREAT PUBLIC SCHOOLS. ETON HARROW WINCHESTER RUGBY WESTMINSTER MARLBOROUGH CHELTENHAM HAILEYBURY CLIFTON CHARTERHOUSE. With nearly a hundred Illustrations by the best artists. One vol., large imperial 16mo., handsomely bound, 6s. Among the contributors to this volume are Mr. Maxwell Lyte, C.B.; the Hon. Alfred Lyttelton, Dr. Montagu Butler, Mr. P. Thornton, M.P.; Mr. Lees Knowles, M.P.; his Honour Judge Thomas Hughes, Q.C.; the late Earl of Selborne, Mr. H. Lee Warner, Mr. G. R. Barker, Mr. A. G. Bradley, Mr. E. Scot Skirving, Rev. L. S. Milford, Mr. E. M. Oakeley, Mr. Leonard Hunley, and Mr. Mowbray Morris.
- Harrison—STUDIES IN EARLY VICTORIAN LITERA-TURE. (See page 6.)

Hole—ADDRESSES TO WORKING MEN FROM PULPIT AND PLATFORM. By the Very Rev. S. REYNOLDS HOLE, Dean of Rochester. This volume contains nincteen Addresses and Sermons delivered by Dean Hole to Working Men on Friendly Societies, Gambling and Betting, the Church and Dissent, to Soldiers, on Temperance, Unbelief, True Education, Work, etc. One vol., crown 8vo., 6s.

Lang—LAMB'S ADVENTURES OF ULYSSES. With an Introduction by Andrew Lang. Square 8vo. cloth, 1s. 6d. Also the Prize Edition, gilt edges, 2s.

Maud-WAGNER'S HEROES. (See page 8.)

Morrison—LIFE'S PRESCRIPTION. (See page 8.)

WORKS BY RENNELL RODD, C.M.G.

FEDA, with other Poems, chiefly Lyrical.

With an Etching by HARPER PENNINGTON.

Crown 8vo., cloth, 6s.

THE UNKNOWN MADONNA, and other Poems.

With a Frontispiece by W. B. RICHMOND, A.R.A.

Crown 8vo., cloth, 5s.

THE VIOLET CROWN, AND SONGS OF ENGLAND.

With a Frontispiece by the MARCHIONESS OF GRANBY.

Crown 8vo., cloth, 5s.

THE CUSTOMS AND LORE OF MODERN GREECE.

With seven full-page Illustrations by TRISTRAM ELLIS.

8vo., cloth, 8s. 6d.

WINCHESTER COLLEGE. Illustrated by HERBERT MAR-SHALL. With Contributions in Prose and Verse by OLD WYKEHAMISTS. Demy 4to., cloth, 25s. net. A few copies of the first edition, limited to 1,000 copies, are still to be had.

FICTION.

SIX SHILLING NOVELS.

TOMMY ATKINS. By Robert Blatchford. (See p. 8.)

ORMISDAL. A Novel. By the EARL OF DUNMORE, F.R.G.S., Author of 'The Pamirs.' One vol., crown 8vo., cloth, 6s.

'In this breezy and entertaining novel Lord Dunmore has given us a very readable and racy story of the life that centres in a Highland shooting, about the end of August.'—Glasgow Herald.

THE TUTOR'S SECRET. (Le Secret du Précepteur.)

Translated from the French of VICTOR CHERBULIEZ. One vol., crown 8vo., cloth, 6s.

'If Victor Cherbuliez did not already possess a great reputation, his latest production would have been quite sufficient to secure him renown as a novelist. From the first line to the last we recognise a master-hand at work, and there is not a page that even the veriest skimmer will care to pass over.'—IVestminster Gazette.

THREE SHILLING AND SIXPENNY NOVELS.

ON THE THRESHOLD. By I. O. FORD. (See page 7.)

THE MYSTERY OF THE RUE SOLY. Translated by Lady KNUTSFORD from the French of H. DE BALZAC. Crown 8vo., cloth, 3s. 6d.

'Lady Knutsford's translation of Balzac's famous story is excellent.'—Scotsman.

DAVE'S SWEETHEART. By MARY GAUNT. One vol., 8vo., cloth, 3s. 6d.

'Of all the Australian novels that have been laid before readers in this country, "Dave's Sweetheart," in a literary point of view and as a finished production, takes a higher place than any that has yet appeared. From the opening scene to the closing page we have no hesitation in predicting that not a word will be skipped even by the most blase of novel readers.'—Spectator.

MISTHER O'RYAN. An Incident in the History of a Nation. By EDWARD MCNULTY. Small 8vo., elegantly bound, 3s. 6d.

^{&#}x27;An extremely well-written satire of the possibilities of blarney and brag,'-Pall Mal. Gazette.

STEPHEN REMARX. The Story of a Venture in Ethics. By the Hon. and Rev. James Adderley, formerly Head of the Oxford House, and Christ Church Mission, Bethnal Green. Twenty-Second Thousand. Small 8vo., elegantly bound, 3s. 6d. Also in paper cover, 1s.

'Let us express our thankfulness at encountering for once in a way an author who can amuse us.'—Saturday Review.

HALF-A-CROWN NOVELS.

LOVE-LETTERS OF A WORLDLY WOMAN. By Mrs. W. K. CLIFFORD, Author of 'Aunt Anne,' 'Mrs. Keith's Crime,' etc. One vol., crown 8vo., cloth, 2s. 6d.

One of the cleverest books that ever a woman wrote.'--Queen.

THAT FIDDLER FELLOW: A Tale of St. Andrew's. By HORACE G. HUTCHINSON, Author of 'My Wife's Politics,' 'Golf,' 'Creatures of Circumstance,' etc. Crown 8vo., cloth, 2s. 6d.

COUNTRY HOUSE—PASTIMES.

Ellacombe—IN A GLOUCESTERSHIRE GARDEN. By the Rev. H. N. ELLACOMBE, Vicar of Bitton, and Honorary Canon of Bristol. Author of 'Plant Lore and Garden Craft of Shakespeare.' Crown 8vo., cloth, 6s.

'The book may be warmly recommended to all who love gardens, while it also cannot ail to interest even the horticulturally unlearned. It is written in a style that is clear, bright, and simple, and from beginning to end there is not a dull or wearisome sentence.

—The Guardian.

'Altogether a charming book.'-Westminster Gazette.

Hole—A BOOK ABOUT THE GARDEN AND THE GARDENER. By the Very Rev. S. REVNOLDS HOLE, Dean of Rochester. Second edition. Crown 8vo., 6s.

Hole—A BOOK ABOUT ROSES. By the Very Rev. S. REYNOLDS HOLE (Dean of Rochester). Twentieth thousand, Crown 8vo., cloth, 2s. 6d.

Brown — PLEASURABLE POULTRY - KEEPING. By E. Brown, F.L.S. Fully illustrated. One vol., crown 8vo., cloth, 2s. 6d.

'Mr. Brown has established for himself a unique position in regard to this subject, and what he has to say is not only sound counsel, but is presented in a very readable form.'— Nottingham Daily Guardian.

Brown—POULTRY-KEEPING AS AN INDUSTRY FOR FARMERS AND COTTAGERS. By EDWARD BROWN. Fully illustrated. Second edition. Demy 4to., cloth, 6s.

Brown—INDUSTRIAL POULTRY-KEEPING. By EDWARD BROWN. Illustrated. Paper boards, is. A small handbook chiefly intended for cottagers and allotment-holders.

Brown—POULTRY FATTENING. By E. Brown, F.L.S. Fully illustrated. Crown 8vo., 1s. 6d.

White—PLEASURABLE BEE-KEEPING. By C. N. WHITE,
Lecturer to the County Councils of Huntingdon, Cambridgeshire, etc.
Fully illustrated. One vol., crown 8vo., cloth, 2s. 6d.

'A complete guide for the amateur bee-keeper, as clear and concise as such a guide can be made.'—Glasgow Herald.

Gossip—THE CHESS POCKET MANUAL. By G. H. D. Gossip. A Pocket Guide, with numerous Specimen Games and Illustrations. Small 8vo., 2s. 6d.

Cunningham—THE DRAUGHTS POCKET MANUAL. By J. G. Cunningham. An Introduction to the Game in all its branches. Small 8vo., with numerous diagrams, 2s. 6d.

'These two excellent little manuals may be mentioned together. Both will be found well worth study by those who are interested in the subjects which they discuss.'—

Kenney-Herbert—COMMON-SENSE COOKERY: based on Modern English and Continental Principles, Worked out in Detail. By Colonel A. Kenney-Herbert ('Wyvern'). Large crown 8vo., over 500 pp., 7s. 6d.

'A book which is sure to have a large circulation, since the author, the well-known 'Wyvern," has been for some time generally accepted as perhaps the chief English authority on the art of cookery.'—Times.

- Kenney-Herbert—FIFTY BREAKFASTS: containing a great variety of New and Simple Recipes for Breakfast Dishes. By Colonel Kenney-Herbert ('Wyvern'). Small 8vo., 25, 6d.
- Kenney-Herbert—FIFTY LUNCHES. By Colonel KENNEY-HERBERT. Small 8vo., cloth, 2s. 6d.
- Kenney-Herbert—FIFTY DINNERS. By Colonel Kenney-Herbert. Small 8vo., cloth, 2s. 6d.
- Shorland—CYCLING FOR HEALTH AND PLEASURE.
 (See page 3.)

SCIENCE AND PHILOSOPHY.

- Fawcett—THE RIDDLE OF THE UNIVERSE. Being an Attempt to determine the First Principles of Metaphysics considered as an Inquiry into the Conditions and Import of Consciousness. By EDWARD DOUGLAS FAWCETT. One vol., demy 8vo., 14s.
- THE JOURNAL OF MORPHOLOGY. Edited by C. O. WHITMAN, Professor of Biology in Clark University, U.S.A. Three numbers in a volume of 100 to 150 large 4to. pages, with numerous plates. Single numbers, 17s. 6d.; subscription to the volume of three numbers, 45s. Volumes I. to X. can now be obtained, and the first number of Volume XI. is ready.
- 'Everyone who is interested in the kind of work published in it knows it. It is taken by all the chief libraries of colleges, universities, etc., both in England and the Continent.'—PROFESSOR RAY LANKESTER.
- 'The Journal of Morphology is too well known and appreciated to need any praise from me.'—PROFESSOR MICHAEL FOSTER.
- Morgan—ANIMAL LIFE AND INTELLIGENCE. By Professor C. LLOYD MORGAN, F.G.S., Principal of University College, Bristol. With 40 Illustrations and a Photo-etched Frontispiece. Second Edition. Demy 8vo., cloth, 16s.

- Morgan—PSYCHOLOGY FOR TEACHERS. By Professor C. LLOYD MORGAN, F.G.S., Principal of University College, Bristol. Crown 8vo., cloth, 3s. 6d. net.
- Morgan—THE SPRINGS OF CONDUCT. By Professor C. LLOYD MORGAN, F.G.S. Cheaper Edition. Large crown 8vo., 3s. 6d.

ILLUSTRATED GIFT BOOKS, ETC.

-  For further particulars of books under this heading see special Catalogue of Gift Books for Presents and Prizes.
- WINCHESTER COLLEGE. Illustrated by HERBERT MARSHALL. With Contributions in Prose and Verse by OLD WYKEHAMISTS. Demy 4to., cloth, 25s. net. A few copies of the first edition, limited to 1,000 copies, are still to be had.
- GREAT PUBLIC SCHOOLS. ETON HARROW WIN-CHESTER — RUGBY—WESTMINSTER—MARLBOROUGH—CHELTENHAM— HAILEYBURY — CLIFTON — CHARTERHOUSE. With nearly a Hundred Illustrations by the best artists. One vol., large imperial 16mo., handsomely bound, 6s.
- A LITTLE TOUR IN IRELAND. By AN OXONIAN (the Very Rev. S. R. Hole, Dean of Rochester). With nearly forty Illustrations by John Leech, including the famous steel Frontispiece of the 'Claddagh.' Large imperial 16mo., handsomely bound, gilt top, 10s. 6d.

  Only a few copies of this edition now remain.
- WILD FLOWERS IN ART AND NATURE. By J. C. L, SPARKES, Principal of the National Art Training School, South Kensing ton, and F. W. BURBIDGE, Curator of the University Botanical Gardens, Dublin. With 21 Full-page Coloured Plates by H. G. Moon. Royal 4to. handsomely bound, gilt edges, 215, PICTURES OF BIRDS. For the Decoration of Home and

List of Coloured Plates:

Blue Tit. Thrush. Chaffinch.

Bullfinch. Swailow. Yellowhammer. Skylark. Blackbird. Sparrow. Waterwagtail. Starling. Robin.

The Pictures can be supplied in the following styles:

Unmounted-6d. per Plate. Set of 12, in envelope, 6s.

Mounted—Single Plates, mounted on boards, 12 by 15 inches, eyeletted and strung, 1s. each. Sets of 3 Plates, mounted together on boards, 34 by 15 inches, eyeletted and strung, 2s. 6d. each.

Framed—Single Plates, mounted and framed, 2s. each. Sets of 3 Plates mounted and framed together, 4s. 6d. each,

All the above prices are net.

WILD FLOWER PICTURES. For the Decoration of Home and School. Twenty-one Beautifully Coloured Plates, issued in the same style and at the same prices as the 'Birds.'

Honeysuckle. Forget-me-Not. Convolvulus. Hawthorn. Lychnis. Harebell. Daisy. Poppy. Cornflower. Iris. Rose. Buttercup. Heather. Water-Lily. Foxglove. Cowslip. Bluebell. Primrose. Violet. Daffodil. Anemone.

BOOKS FOR THE YOUNG.

SEVEN AND SIXPENCE EACH.

TALES FROM HANS ANDERSEN. With nearly 40 Original Illustrations by E. A. LEMANN. One vol., 4to., handsomely bound in cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d.

THE SNOW QUEEN, and other Tales. By HANS CHRISTIAN ANDERSEN. Beautifully Illustrated by Miss E. A. LEMANN Small 4to., handsomely bound, gilt edges, 7s. 6d.

FIVE SHILLINGS EACH.

- ERIC THE ARCHER. By MAURICE H. HERVEY. With numerous full-page Illustrations. Handsomely bound, crown 8vo., 5s.
- THE FUR SEAL'S TOOTH. By KIRK MUNROE. Fully Illustrated. Crown 8vo., cloth, 55.
- HOW DICK AND MOLLY WENT ROUND THE WORLD.

 By M. H. CORNWALL LEGH. With numerous Illustrations. Fcap. 4to., cloth, 5s.
- DR. GILBERT'S DAUGHTERS. By MARGARET HARRIET MATHEWS. Illustrated by Chris. Hammond. Crown 8vo., cloth, 5s.
- THE REEF OF GOLD. By MAURICE H. HERVEY. With numerous full-page Illustrations, handsomely bound. Gilt edges, 5s.
- BAREROCK; or, The Island of Pearls. By Henry Nash. With numerous Illustrations by Lancelot Speed. Large crown 8vo., handsomely bound, gilt edges, 5s.

THREE SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE EACH.

- HUNTERS THREE. By THOMAS W. KNOX, Author of 'The Boy Travellers,' etc. With numerous Illustrations. Crown 8vo., cloth, 3s. 6d.
- THE SECRET OF THE DESERT. By E. D. FAWCETT. With numerous full-page Illustrations. Crown 8vo, cloth, 3s. 6d.
- JOEL: A BOY OF GALILEE. By Annie Fellows Johnston. With ten full-page Illustrations. Crown 8vo., cloth, 3s. 6d.
- THE MUSHROOM CAVE. By EVELYN RAYMOND. With Illustrations. Crown 8vo., cloth, 3s. 6d.
- THE DOUBLE EMPEROR. By W. LAIRD CLOWES, Author of 'The Great Peril,' etc. Illustrated. Crown 8vo., 3s. 6d.

- SWALLOWED BY AN EARTHQUAKE. By E. D. FAWCETT, Author of 'Hartmann the Anarchist,' etc. Illustrated. Crown 8vo., 3s. 6d.
- HARTMANN THE ANARCHIST; or, The Doom of the Great City. By E. DOUGLAS FAWCETT. With sixteen full-page and numerous smaller Illustrations by F. T. JANE. One vol., crown 8vo., cloth, 3s. 6d.
- ANIMAL SKETCHES: a Popular Book of Natural History. By Professor C. LLOYD MORGAN, F.G.S. Crown 8vo., cloth, 3s. 6d.

TWO AND SIXPENCE EACH.

CHILDREN'S HOUR SERIES.

- MASTER MAGNUS. By Mrs. E. M. FIELD, Author of 'Mixed Pickles,' etc. With Four Full-page Illustrations. Small 8vo., 2s. 6d.
- MY DOG PLATO. By M. H. CORNWALL LEGH. With Four Full-page Illustrations. Small 8vo., 2s. 6d.
- FRIENDS OF THE OLDEN TIME. By ALICE GARDNER, Lecturer in History at Newnham College, Cambridge. Second Edition. Illustrated, square 8vo., 2s. 6d.
- THE CHILDREN'S FAVOURITE SERIES. A Charming Series of Juvenile Books, each plentifully Illustrated, and written in simple language to please young readers. Handsomely bound, and designed to form an attractive and entertaining series of gift-books for presents and prizes. The utmost care has been taken to maintain a thoroughly healthy tone throughout the Series, combined with entertaining and interesting reading. Price 2s. each; or gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

My Book of Wonders.
My Book of Travel Stories.
My Book of Adventures.
My Book of the Sca.
My Book of Fables.
Deeds of Gold.

My Book of Perils.
My Book of Fairy Tales.
My Book of Bible Stories.
My Book of History Tales.
My Story Book of Animals.
Rhymes for You and Me.

THE INTERNATIONAL EDUCATION SERIES.

FROEBEL'S PEDAGOGICS OF THE KINDERGARTEN; or, His Ideas concorning the Play and Playthings of the Child. Translated by J. Jarvis. Crown 8vo., cloth, 6s.

THE EDUCATION OF THE GREEK PEOPLE, AND ITS INFLUENCE ON CIVILIZATION. By THOMAS DAVIDSON. Crown 8vo., cloth, 6s.

SYSTEMATIC SCIENCE TEACHING. By EDWARD G. HOWE. Crown 8vo., cloth, 6s.

EVOLUTION OF THE PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM IN MASSACHUSETTS.
By George H. Martin. Crown 8vo., cloth, 6s.

THE INFANT MIND; or, Mental Development in the Child. Translated from the German of W. PREYER, Professor of Physiology in the University of Jena. Crown 8vo., cloth, 4s. 6d.

ENGLISH EDUCATION IN THE ELEMENTARY AND SECONDARY SOHOOLS. By ISAAC SHARPLESS, L.L.D., President of Haverford College, U.S.A.

Crown 8vo., cloth, 4s. 6d.

EMILE; or, A Treatise on Education. By JEAN JACQUES ROUSSEAU.
Translated and Edited by W. H. PAYNE, Ph.D., LL.D., President of the Peabody Normal College, U.S.A. Crown 8vo., cloth, 6s.

EDUCATION FROM A NATIONAL STANDPOINT. Translated from the French of Alfred Foulliée by W. J. Greenstreet, M.A., Head Master of the Marling School, Stroud. Crown 8vo., cloth, 7s. 6d.

THE MORAL INSTRUCTION OF CHILDREN. By FELIX ADLER,
President of the Ethical Society of New York. Crown 8vo., cloth, 6s.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF EDUCATION. By JOHANN KARL ROSENKRANZ, Doctor of Theology and Professor of Philosophy at Königsberg. (Translated.) Crown 8vo., cloth, 6s.

A HISTORY OF EDUCATION. By Professor F. V. N. PAINTER. Crown 8vo., 6s.

THE VENTILATION AND WARMING OF SCHOOL BUILDINGS. With Plans and Diagrams. By Gilbert B. Morrison. Crown 8vo., 4s. 6d.

FROEBLL'S 'EDUCATION OF MAN.' Translated by W. N. HAILMAN. Crown 8vo., 6s.

ELEMENTARY PSYCHOLOGY AND EDUCATION. By Dr. J. BALDWIN. Illustrated, crown 8vo., 6s.

THE SENSES AND THE WILL. Forming Part I. of 'The Mind of the Child.' By W. Preyer, Professor of Physiology in the University of Jena. (Translated.) Crown 8vo., 6s.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE INTELLECT. Forming Part II. of 'The Mind of the Child.' By Professor W. PREYER. (Translated.) Crown 8vo., 6s.

HOW TO STUDY GEOGRAPHY. By FRANCIS W. PARKER. Crown 8vo., 6s.

A HISTORY OF EDUCATION IN THE UNITED STATES. By RICHARD A. BOONE, Professor of Pedagogy in Indiana University. Crown 8vo., 6s.

EUROPEAN SCHOOLS; or, What I Saw in the Schools of Germany, France, Austria, and Switzerland. By L. R. KLEMM, Ph.D. With numerous Illustrations. Crown 8vo., 8s. 6d.

PRACTICAL HINTS FOR TEACHERS. By GEORGE HOWLAND, Superintendent of the Chicago Schools. Crown 8vo., 4s. 6d.

SCHOOL SUPERVISION. By J. L. PICKARD. 4s. 6d.

HIGHER EDUCATION OF WOMEN IN EUROPE. By HELENE LANGE.

HERBART'S TEXT-BOOK IN PSYCHOLOGY. By M. K. SMITH. 4s. 6d. PSYCHOLOGY APPLIED TO THE ART OF TEACHING. By Dr. J. BALDWIN. 6s.

PERIODICALS.

THE NATIONAL REVIEW.

Edited by L. J. MAXSE.

Price Half a-crown monthly.

Among recent contributors to the Review have been:

H. O. Arnold-Forster, M.P.

Lord Ashbourne.

Alfred Austin.

Right Hon A. J. Balfour, M.P.

Miss Balfour.

Sir David Barbour, K.C.S.I.

A. C. Benson.

Hon. St. John Brodrick, M.P.

Right Hon. J. Chamberlain, M.P.

Admiral Colomb.

E. T. Cook.

Rt. Hon Leonard Courtney, M.P.

Hon. G. N. Curzon, M.P.

Sir Mountstuart Grant - Duff, G.C.S.I.

Dr. Symons Eccles.

Violet Fane.

Lord Farrer.

Earl Grey, K.G.

George Gissing.

Lord George Hamilton, M.P.

Benjamin Kidd.

Rudyard Kipling.

James W. Lowther, M.P.

Sir John Lubbock, Bart., M.P.

Hon. Alfred Lyttelton.

Hon. Mrs. Alfred Lyttelton.

The late Earl of Lytton.

J. A. Fuller Maitland.

Admiral Maxse.

Sir Herbert Maxwell, Bart.,

M.P.

Mortimer Menpes.

George Meredith.

Sir H. Stafford Northcote, Bart., M.P.

R. H. Inglis Palgrave.

Sir Frederick Pollock, Bart.

Stanley Lane Poole.

T. W. Russell, M.P.

The Marquis of Salisbury, K.G.

F. C. Selous.

Leslie Stephen.

St. Loe Strachey.

The Earl of Suffolk.

H. D. Traill.

Sir Richard Webster, Q.C.,

M.P.

Rev. J. E. C. Welldon.

Viscount Wolmer, M.P.

LONDON: EDWARD ARNOLD, 37 BEDFORD ST., W.C. Publisher to the Endin Office.

THE FORUM.

The famous American Review.

is. 3d. monthly; annual subscription, post free, 18s.

A conspicuous feature in the Review is he prominence it gives to articles by European contributors, nearly every number containing articles by the best English writers. It is obtainable in England about the 10th of each month.

THE PHILOSOPHICAL REVIEW. Edited by J. G. SCHURMAN, Professor of Philosophy in Cornell University, U.S.A. Six Numbers a year. Single Numbers, 3s. 6d.; Annual Subscription, 14s. post free. The first number was issued in January, 1892. The Review ranges over the whole field of Philosophy; the articles are signed, and the contributors include the names of the foremost philosophical teachers and writers of America, and many of those of England and the Continent of Europe.

THE JOURNAL OF MORPHOLOGY: a Journal of Animal

Morphology, devoted principally to Embryological, Anatomical, and Histological subjects. Edited by C. O. WHITMAN, Professor of Biology in Clark University, U.S.A. Three numbers in a volume of 100 to 150 large 4to. pages, with numerous plates. Single numbers, 17s. 6d.; subscription to the volume of three numbers, 45s. Volumes I. to X. can now be obtained, and the first number of Volume XI. is ready.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE INDIA OFFICE AND OF THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

Mr. EDWARD ARNOLD, having been appointed Publisher to the Secretary of State for India in Council, has now on sale the above publications at 37 Bedford Street, Strand, and is prepared to supply full information concerning them on application.

INDIAN GOVERNMENT MAPS.

Any of the Maps in this magnificent series can now be obtained at the shortest notice from Mr. EDWARD ARNOLD, Publisher to the India Office.

Index to Authors.

Append my Cambon Domani	PAGE
ADDERLEY.—Stephen Remarx . 20	FIELD.—Master Magnus
ALDRICH.—Arctic Alaska 13	FORD.—On the Threshold 7
American Game Fishes	FORUM
BALFOUR Twelve Hundred	FOWLER.—Echoes of Old County
Miles in an Ox-Waggon 4	Life
BELL, MRS.—Kleines Hausthcater 7	FRESHFIELD.—Exploration of the
BELL (REV. CANON).—Sermons . 17	Caucasus 5
,, Diana's Looking Glass 16	GARDNER.—Friends of Olden
,, Poems Old and New , 16	Time 26
BENSON.—Men of Might 14	GAUNT.—Dave's Sweetheart . 19
BLATCHFORDTommy Atkins . 8	GOSCHEN.—Cultivation and Use
BOYLE Recollections of the Dean	of the Imagination 17
of Salisbury 14	Gossip.—Chess Pocket Manual . 21
Brown Works on Poultry	GREAT PUBLIC SCHOOLS 17
Keeping 3 21
BURBIDGE.—Wild Flowers in Art 23	HANS ANDERSEN Snow Queen. 24
BUTLER.—Select Essays of Sainte	Tales from . 24 HARE.—Life and Letters of Maria
Beuve
CHERBULIEZ.—The Tutor's Secret 19	Edgeworth 14 HARRISON.—Early Victorian Lite-
CHILDREN'S FAVOURITE SERIES	rature 6
12, 26	HERVEY.—Eric the Archer 10
CHILDREN'S HOUR SERIES . 11, 26	Reef of Gold 25
CLIFFORD,—Love-Letters 20	HIGGINS. — New Guide to the
CLOWES.—Double Emperor . 25	Pacific Coast
COLLINGWOOD.—Thorstein	Hole. — Addresses to Working
COLVILE Land of the Nile	Men
Springs	HOLE.—Book about Roses 20
CUNNINGHAM. — Draughts Manual 21	,, Book about the Garden . 20
CUSTANCE Riding Recollections 14	,, Little Tour in America . 9
DUNMORE Ormisdal 19	,, Little Tour in Ireland . 13
	,, Memories 15
ELLACOMBE. — In a Gloucester-	,, Memories 15
shire Garden 20	HUTCHINSON. — That Fiddler
FAWCETT.—Hartmann the Anar-	Fellow
chist	INDIA OFFICE PUBLICATIONS . 29
FAWCETT.—Riddle of the Uni-	INTERNATIONAL EDUCATION
versc	SERIES
E. womm Secret of the Decert II
,, Swallowed by an Earth-	JOHNSTON Joel; a Boy of quake	Galilee

PAGE	PAGE
KAY.—Omarah's Yaman 15	NATIONAL REVIEW 28
KENNEY-HERBERTFifty Break-	OMAN History of England . 16
fasts	PHILOSOPHICAL REVIEW 29
KENNEY-HERFERT Fifty Din-	PICTURES OF BIRDS 24
ners 3	Pope.—Memoirs of Sir John Mac-
KENNEY-HERBERT. — Fifty	donald 15
Lunches 3	PORTAL. — British Mission to
KENNEY-HERBERT. — Commou-	Uganda
sense Cookery 21	PORTAL.—My Mission to Abys-
KNIGHT-BRUCE. — Memories of	sinia
Mashonaland 9 KNOX.—Hunters Three 10	PULITZER. — Romance of Prince
	Eugene 6
KNUTSFORD. — Mystery of the	RALEIGH Robert Louis Steven-
Rue Soly 19	RALEIGH Robert Louis Steven-
LANG Lamb's Adventures of	son
Ulysses 18	the Great
LECKY.—Political Value of His-	the Great
tory	RODD.—Works by Rennel Rodd. 18
LE FANU.—Seventy Years of Irish
Life	SAMPSON.—Strength 3
LEFFINGWELL Art of Wing-	SANTLEY.—Student and Singer . 16
Shooting	SHERARD.—Alphonse Daudet , 14
LEGH How Dick and Molly	SHIELDS.—Camping and Camp
went round the World . 10	Outfits
LEGH.—My Dog Plato . 12	SHIELDS.—American Book of the Dog 14
MATHEWS. — Dr. Gilbert's	SHORLAND.—Cycling for Health
Daughters 10	and Pleasure
MAUD.—Wagner's Heroes 8	SICHEL—The Story of Two Salons
McNulty.—Misther O'Ryan . 19	SLATIN.—Fire and Sword in the
MILNER.—England in Egypt '. 15	Sudan
MORGAN. — Animal Life 22
,, Animal Sketches 26	TATHAM.—Men of Might 14 THOMAS.—Sweden and the Swedes 13
Psychology for Teacher- 23 Springs of Conduct . 23	TOLLEMACHE.—Benjamin Jowett
,, Springs of Conduct . 23	TWINING.—Recollections of Life
Morpeth. — Lord Carlisle's	and Work
Diaries 4
MORPHOLOGY, JOURNAL OF . 22	WHITE.—Pleasurable Bee-Keeping 21
MORRISON.—Life's Prescription . 8	WILD FLOWERS IN ART AND
MUNROE.—Fur Seal's Tooth . 10	NATURE
NACH Bararal	WILD FLOWER PICTURES 2. WINCHESTER COLLEGE 18
NASH.—Barerock 25	WINCHESTER COLLEGE 18

The following Catalogues of Mr. Edward Arnold's Publications will be sent post free on application:

CATALOGUE OF WORKS OF GENERAL LITERATURE.

GENERAL CATALOGUE OF EDUCATIONAL WORKS,

Including the principal Publications of Messrs. Ginn and Company, Educational Publishers, of Boston and New York, and Messrs. E. L. Kellogg and Company, of New York.

CATALOGUE OF WORKS FOR USE IN ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS.

With Specimen Pages.

ILLUSTRATED LIST OF BOOKS FOR PRESENTS AND PRIZES.

CATALOGUE OF INDIA OFFICE PUBLICATIONS.

CATALOGUE OF INDIA OFFICE MAPS.

Price 6d.

LIST OF AMERICAN PERIODICALS WITH SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

AMERICAN BOOKS.—The importation of all American Books, l'eriodicals, and Newspapers is conducted by a special department, with accuracy and despatch, and full information can be obtained on application.

LONDON: EDWARD ARNOLD, 37 BEDFORD STREET, STRAND.

Publisher to the Endia Office.

1 d'évre 186 1 de last 1/2 potent. 1 de l'alt

= =

COLONEL KENNEY HERBERT'S POPULAR WORKS ON COOKERY.

COMMON-SENSE COOKERY

FOR ENGLISH HOUSEHOLDS.

Based upon Modern English and Continental Principles, with Twenty Menus worked out in detail.

 $\mathbf{B}\mathbf{Y}$

A. KENNEY HERBERT ("WYVERN"),

Don of the Order of the Cordon-Rouge, Author of "Culinary Jottings," &c.

Large crown 8vo. Cloth, price 7s. 6d.

"A book which is sure to have a large circulation, since the author, the well-known 'Wyvern,' has been for some time generally accepted as perhaps the chief English authority on the art of cookery."—The Times.

"An elaborate treatise on the culinary art. The rules are laid down simply and clearly, and the recipes are given with such precision as to quantities that mistakes can scarcely occur if proper attention is paid to the instructions."—Morning Post.

"Alike to learners and adepts the book will be found useful and suggestive."—

FIFTY BREAKFASTS.

RV

A. KENNEY HERBERT ("WYVERN"),

Cordon-Rouge, Author of "Culinary Jottings," &c.

Crown 8vo. Cloth, price 2s. 6d.

"All who know the culinary works of 'Wyvern' are aware that they combine a remarkable conviction, and (on the whole) excellent taste with an exceptional practicalness and precision in detail. His 'Fifty Breakfasts' will well sustain this reputation."—Saturday Review.

"An admirable collection of menus for the opening meal of the day."—Speaker.

"Autolycus," in a review of a column, says:—"Distinctly it is a book to be read and studied."—Pall Mall Gazette.

London: EDWARD ARNOLD, 37, Bedford Street, Strand, W.C. Publisher to the India Office.

CHOCOLAT-MENIER

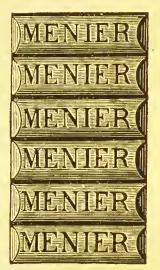

FOR

BREAKFAST,

LUNCHEON,

AND

SUPPER.

AVERAGE DAILY SALES, 50 TONS.

The Largest Factory in the World.

WORKS: NOISIEL-SUR-MARNE, PARIS.

SOLD RETAIL EVERYWHERE.

